California Shippers Only Five Per Cent Less In Volume This Year Than Last —$52,238,077 Shippers.

LOS ANGELES (Sp.)—With results only 5 per cent less in volume and 12 per cent less in returns than in 1932, the California citrus industry was able to sell 75,383 carloads of oranges, lemons and grapefruit for an f. o. b. return of 68 1/2 million dollars.

The total shipments comprised 58,866 cars of oranges, 1,703 cars of grapefruit and 14,812 cars of lemons. Shipments through the Exchange equaled 41,619 cars of oranges, 1,225 cars of grapefruit and 13,235 cars of lemons, totaling 56,079 cars and bringing returns to Exchange shippers f. o. b. cars of $52,238,077.

Might Have Been More "Had the return per box on fruit sold through non-exchange facilities averaged the same as on Exchange fruit, returns to California and Arizona for the entire crop would have been $58,500,000, and the delivered value of the crop $106,321,676, of which $37,111,942 represents freight and refrigeration," says Mr. Armstrong.

Some reduction in freight rates and refrigeration charges were obtained during the year. Railway rates, however, are still 34 1/2 per cent above pre-war level, and constitute too large a percentage of the selling price of the fruit, the report charges. Negotiations with steamship lines brought a continuance of emergency rate on export shipments to Great Britain and European ports.

"Despite chaotic financial and business conditions, the Exchange placed every emphasis on the continuation of doing business with established trade in the belief that difficulties would be satisfactorily adjusted. This was amply justified by final results, and to the credit of the trade it must be said that while losses to the Exchange were somewhat greater than in more normal times, they were remarkably small under the business conditions prevailing."

Credit Less Small He then points to charge-off for the season from uncollected accounts of only $14,805, or 3-100 of 1 per cent of the net returns. Of this amount more than 70 per cent is in frozen deposits in closed national banks, from which further salvage is expected. With aggregate returns of one billion three hundred million dollars to Exchange shippers during the last 20 years, credit losses have equaled but $7-10,000 of 1 per cent of f. o. b. returns.

Only lemons made a compensatory return per acre to the producer, the other varieties selling at or below the cost of production to the average grower, according to the report.

"The fact that such a large volume of fruit could be marketed at any price with so great a proportion of the population unemployed and in need of the more substantial necessities of life, and the rest of the population with their reduced purchasing power further reduced by heavy tax and relief obligations, speaks well for the stability of the industry," declares Mr. Armstrong.

More Advertising Needed Need for increasing the already effective Sunkist advertising program is seen in the reference to the report and to the competitive progress made by canners of tomato juice and pineapple juice.

Newspapers, magazines, outdoor and street car advertising kept the superlatives of California citrus fruits and their many beautiful uses constantly before the American public. Merchandising work with the retail and wholesale trade included placing 35,000 fruit displays and distributing 520,000 pieces of display material. Although sale of extracting devices was the lightest in years, 131,910 Sunkist extractors and hand reamers were sold. More than 30 per cent of all commercial juice extractors in use are the Sunkist machines, the report discloses. More than three million pieces of literature were sent to teachers, physicians, dentists and health workers.

Fifty-four foreign countries received over one million boxes of oranges, lemons and grapefruit last year. Exchange shipments through the Panama Canal to the Atlantic coast ports totaled more than 500,000 boxes of oranges and lemons.

Mr. Armstrong believes the opportunity arises under the Agricultural Adjustment Act to formulate a sound marketing program for the citrus industry as a whole, not only in California, but in other producing states as well.

Mrs. Amie Talks On African Mosaic Mrs. Beulah MacMillan Amie spoke regarding her work in the African field to the Weekly Bible Class last Tuesday evening. Mrs. Amie and Miss Amanda Johnson are workers in the Unevangelized Tribes Mission and are touring the Pacific coast and telling of this work.

Mrs. Amie has spent nine years among the tribes of the Belgian Congo, the territory traversed and explored by Henry M. Stanley. The port is at Matadi at the mouth of the Congo river and to their mission located several hundred miles inland and south of the equator there are good automobile roads. The tribes served by this mission have never been evangelized in any way, and the first duty of the Christian is to learn the language and translate the Scriptures for them. This mission is un denominational and is connected with any board and carries on its work entirely in faith that the Lord will supply all needs. Mrs. Amie stated.

Miss Johnson was formerly a high school teacher near Chicago, and will experience her first field work when she makes her trip early in the year.

The greatest lesson learned by this mission in its work is the necessity to evangelize these people before education is offered to them. The speakers stated.

Mrs. Ellen Doran and Miss Joyce Doran sang "Speed Away on Thy Mission of Light" Tuesday evening, November 21, Mrs. Warner will lead the lesson in Jeremiah.

BOTTLE IN AUTO PUTS TEETOTLER IN PREDICAMENT

When one invites the minister and his wife to drink with him. And one is not a drinking man and still one finds minister and wife staring at a whiskey flask in the tonneau of his car—what is one to do?

The prominent local citizen, who was thrown, without any cause on his part, into such an embarrassing situation yesterday, was not asking Emily Post to answer for him today. He was just asking, and adding that most anyone's advice would have been welcomed at that particular moment yesterday, when he viewed the situation in the mirror of his car.

He doesn't smoke tobacco either and so that old saw about the "Mirard" couldn't be of any use. He thought back through all the hints in etiquette, years in the proper schools had given, and still there was no answer—but the amber flask still gleaming in the soft sun of the winter's day—Sunday at that.

Maintaining its casual position itself, he observed, the "very flask wrong." He stopped, and remaining content indicating the very recent quenching of a great thirst. Any explanation would be futile at this hour. It seemed he could even smell the spirit escaping from the bottle's neck.

He would ignore the whole situation, the non-drinker finally decided, his nervous condition already threatening to impair his driving, heaping in the case. And so he did until he later met up with a couple of guys, who had occupied the back seat earlier in the day.

The non-drinker also refrains from curing, which saved the "couple of guys" a little.

The musicians, freed after several hours detention, claimed the police forcibly took away their passports. Authorities promised Garrels an investigation and protection of the musicians.

CUPID'S BUSINESS HIT HARD BY GIN MARRIAGE TABOO

Effects of the Oregon "gin" marriage law, repeal of which is sought by counties of the state, at the present session of the legislature, is shown by the records of the Jackson county clerk's office. It has caused a 40 per cent reduction in the issuance of California marriage licenses in this county, so far this year.

This year up to November 17, but 87 licenses have been issued in California counties. Last year for the same period, 213 California licenses were issued, a decrease of 126. The count was made from the residences of the groom.

For the same period issuance of Oregon licenses shows an increase. This year 238 licenses have been issued to date. Last year, the total to November 17 was 229.

The Oregon "gin" marriage law went into effect last January, after passage by the legislature, and approval at the polls by the voters. At the time, it was protested, as cutting off revenue, particularly for border counties. Furthermore, it was argued it was just a legal annoyance, on the grounds that couples with matrimony in their minds would laugh at the law. The statistics show they not only laughed, but remained at home, or journeyed to Nevada to be united.

The marriage license cost $3, and when Jackson county was a Gretna Green around 1870 and a yearly income of between $750 and $1,000. Before this state adopted regulations for Cupid, lovers came from all over California, to plight their truth, accompanied by kin, attendants and friends. The local preachers tied the knot, at the regular rate and local merchants sold wedding rings, garments, nuptial feasts, and gasoline. The couples came to Oregon to escape the California "gin" marriage law, but Oregon footed them, and invoked a similar law.

At the recent session of the county clerk's office, it was recommended that the Oregon "gin" marriage law be repealed, by the legislature.

IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES TO BREAK RECORDS IN THE AIR!

FLYING EIGHT DAYS AND NIGHTS without a stop, Frances Marsalis and Louise Thaden set the world's endurance flight record for women. Miss Thaden says, "For some years I've smoked Camels. They taste better." Also a Camel fan, Miss Marsalis says, "I've never changed because I can't afford to take chances with my nervous system."

RACING ACROSS AMERICA in 10 hours and 5 1/2 minutes, Col. Roscoe Turner recently added a new West-East transcontinental speed record to the East-West record he won earlier this year. "Like most pilots I smoke a lot," says Col. Turner. "I smoke Camels for the sake of healthy nerves, and I enjoy them more."

Steady Smokers turn to Camels

Men and women who are famous for their brilliant flying agree about smoking and healthy nerves. "I never worry about healthy nerves," they say, "because I smoke Camels." They cannot afford to make a mistake in choosing their cigarette. They have to know. And it is more fun to know, because of the greater smoking pleasure they find in Camels. Camels are milder... better in taste. They leave no "cigarettiness" aftertaste.
