

The Weather
 Forecast: Fair tonight and Wednesday, with fog tonight. No change in temperature.
 Highest yesterday 57
 Lowest this morning 32

MEDFORD MAIL TRIBUNE

Watch the TRIBUNE'S CLASSIFIED ADS. Lots of good bargains that mean genuine savings.

Twenty-eighth Year MEDFORD, OREGON, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1933. No. 208.

COUNTY CWA PROJECTS NAMED

News Behind The News
 By PAUL MALLON.
 (Copyright, 1933, by Paul Mallon)
 Head Man.
 CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 21.—Mr. Morgenthau is the number one man now.

He has been concealing new deal schemes for many months, but only when he was put on the job as acting treasury secretary did he really assume the responsibility of direct management.

There is no question but that he is the genius behind the new deal as present. He O. K.'s everything Mr. Roosevelt does. He is known to have run out from a breakfast conference to warn his treasury associates that they should make their views known.

Mr. Roosevelt takes more relaxation than any of his predecessors did. When times get troublesome, he tries to walk out on them as he did late last week when he decided to seek the comforts of Warm Springs.

The figures do not show it, but business is better around the country. Nobody can contact Mr. Roosevelt in Warm Springs except those who know his private telephone number.

The major domos of the newspaper profession are more or less aroused by what they interpret to be censorship of the press.

They have noted very shrewdly that Colonel Bert McCormick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune, and several other influential persons in the newspaper game are interested in that point. McCormick has gone so far as to accuse the administration of trying to perfect a censorship scheme.

Just as a matter of personal opinion, none of the so-called authorities on the Washington situation have been influenced by that point. They believe the president has no intention of censoring the press, and they feel sure that McCormick's bugaboo is just trouble.

Major trouble is brewing in the New York banking situation. The most select institutions have applied to the R. F. C. for loans rather than preferred stock. They want to issue notes but Chairman Jones has turned them down.

They are most interested now in efforts to turn the new deal toward a more conservative end. Jones will not stand for that.

Within three months he will have every legitimate and illegitimate political enterprise working his way.

The banks do not know it yet, but they will accept his preferred stock.

Behind the Russian negotiations stands the indistinguishable figure of Dr. Harold Kellogg. He would not dare peep about any of the negotiations conducted by M. Litvinoff and President Roosevelt, but he has stirred the imaginations of the inner circle with stories about the possibilities of a Russo-Japanese war. He undertook the confidential negotiations which Mr. Roosevelt conducted prior to the Litvinoff visit, and by his shrewd tactics he has endeared himself to the powers that be in the state department.

There lies the whole background of the promised Russo-Japanese war. Authorities insist those two are liable to break out any minute. Our confidential agents do not subscribe to the general hysteria. They feel that the general run of confusion in the Japanese mind can be dissipated by calm reasoning. They think the Russo-Japanese war scare is just so much hokey.

That is what is supposed to be the low-down on Mr. Roosevelt's current negotiations with Litvinoff. The word has been passed orders (through the R. F. C.) for cotton, Mr. Woodin's locomotive machinery and copper any time soon.

LIST MADE READY FOR APPROVAL BY STATE AUTHORITY

Nine Weeks' Employment for 609 Men Allotted — Total Cost $111,779 — Work Starts After Nov. 27

Civil works projects, designed to provide employment for nine weeks for Jackson county labor, were adopted at a meeting of the Jackson County Civil Works committee, J. C. Mann, president.

Twenty-eight projects were approved and will be submitted to a meeting of the State Civil Works Administration committee to be held tomorrow at Portland, for final approval. Jackson county has been allocated 609 men. The work in this county is planned to start between November 27 and December 1, and to last until well into February.

Total Cost $111,779. Eleven projects were submitted by Ashland, three by Medford, ten by the county, and one each by the Medford, Talent, Rogue River, and Eagle Point irrigation districts.

The total cost of the projects, as follows: Jackson county $27,508.00; Ashland 22,066.79; Irrigation districts 14,332.50; Medford 47,732.50.

The work is on a 30 hour per week basis, at 50c per hour for unskilled labor, skilled labor 85c per hour. The projects include improvement of irrigation district ditches, which owing to the agricultural conditions have been allowed to lapse, improvement of county roads, distributed so as to furnish labor for districts, and city projects.

The Medford projects, as submitted by City Engineer Fred Scheffel, and approved, are: Grading and graveling nine dirt streets, the Bear Creek park way, and the Roxey Ann Municipal Park improvement.

The 609 man allotment to Jackson county was distributed as follows: Medford 232; Ashland 143; Rogue River Irrigation District 20; County 131; Medford District 30; Talent 30; Eagle Point 23.

The supervisory and machinery work on the projects, is contributed by the cities and counties and irrigation districts. All of the projects were approved without a dissenting voice.

The man-hours and costs of projects, not including material to be purchased are as follows:

Treasury Adviser Quits Show Disapproval Inflation

Killed In Accident

William K. Vanderbilt, 3rd, was killed in an automobile accident near Ridgeland, S. C. A companion and his chauffeur were injured in the wreck. (Associated Press Photo)

LINDBERGS LAND IN AZORES AFTER HOP FROM LISBON

Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh flew their big sea-monoplane more than 900 miles from Lisbon today to land safely here at 4:20 p. m. (Greenwich meridian time—11:20 a. m. eastern standard time).

The flight from Lisbon had occupied just five minutes less than nine hours, putting their flying speed at something over 100 miles an hour.

Previously they were sighted at Saint Michaels in the Azores group. The Lindberghs received a great ovation from the people of Horta when they came ashore after their successful flight from Lisbon.

The populace showered flowers upon the pair, who drove off to the Paval hotel, declining numerous offers of hospitality extended by the enthusiastic islanders.

They made a perfect descent into the harbor against the strong southerly wind and poor visibility. When they stepped out of their plane, Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh smiled and posed together for photographers. They had nothing to say regarding the journey or their future plans.

Nathan Dyer, 27, and Ray Johnson, 40, sentenced Friday to 15 days in the county jail when they entered guilty pleas to vagrancy, today pleaded guilty to charges of petty larceny and were each sentenced to 90 days in jail.

F. O. Greenwood, who resides four miles from Rogue River, up Evans creek, signed a complaint against the two, when he identified some of the tools as those recently stolen from him. The implements were found in possession of Dyer and Johnson when they were arrested at the gravel works last week by state police.

GOVERNOR WILL NAME SOLONS IS SESSION OUTLOOK

Senate Passes Measure Providing for Filling of Vacancies—House Expected to Follow Suit Today

SALEM, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Earl Day, member who resigned from the house because of his appointment as county judge of Jackson county, arrived here today to protest the appointment to fill vacancies by the county court. He stated he did not wish to fill his own seat in the house from Jackson county, nor that of Ed Kelly, also resigned.

SALEM, Nov. 21.—(AP)—The measure providing appointments by the governor to fill vacancies in the house and senate for this special session, and hereafter by the county courts, was passed by a vote of 22 to 6 by the senate today. It was expected the house would consider the measure favorably later today and have the three vacant seats filled by tomorrow.

The house of representatives in the meantime enlarged its steering committee from seven to 11 members and announced all bills introduced would be printed at once, thus overcoming two objections raised on the personnel and activities of this new control group.

The new control committee reported out three of the four measures introduced the opening day, including the Knox liquor control plan, which was immediately referred to the alcoholic control committee for action. Repeal of the "gin" marriage law and creation of the Willamette valley purification district proposal were among the new bills introduced.

Representative John H. Lewis later today will introduce a measure providing for transmission lines for the Knox liquor control plan. The measure further would abolish the referendum Grange power bill, being similar to that with several minor exceptions, Lewis said. In brief, it provides for federal development, state transmission and private or public distribution of power. Municipal ownership would be permitted.

The senate unanimously passed over the governor's veto the 1933 senate bill dealing with the degrading of milk and giving the farmer the right to appeal from the decision of an inspector.

Looking toward further economies, a resolution was introduced, authorizing the joint ways and means committee to review the budget and to hold in abeyance any action on liquor licensing until the committee reports. Elimination of the $7.50 annual license for trolling from the fishing code is asked in SB 13 by Francisovich.

Five hundred city police were rushed to the prison in answer to a general emergency alarm, and the apparatus of a fire company went clanging inside the walls.

Jolson, Wealthy Will Quit Films And Enjoy Life

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 21.—(UP)—A. Jolson, who has "a couple of millions and a wonderful wife," revealed today that he plans to retire from the screen when his current picture is completed.

"I've had fame, glamor and success," the "mammy singer" said, "but after a while the same as when he's younger."

"I'm going to travel and enjoy life."

RETAIN BRUNDAGE AS HEAD OF AAU

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 21.—(AP)—The Amateur Athletic union, facing what may prove to be the most critical year of its history, today called on Avery Brundage of Chicago to remain as president for another term. He accepted.

Brundage had planned to retire, after holding the post since 1926, but the action of the convention in voting to withhold its team from the 1936 Olympiad at Berlin unless Germany removes its restrictions on Jewish athletes, raised a contentious international question which he felt he should aid in solving.

It will be his sixth successive year as head of the A. A. U., the longest tenure of office in the 45-year history of the organization.

RARE LAVÅ BEAR CAPTURED ALIVE

LAKEVIEW, Ore., Nov. 21.—(AP)—A specimen of the lava bear, rare little creatures that inhabit the high plateaus and deserts, was on display in the Fort Rock district today. It was full-grown, for all of its 50 pounds, and very much alive.

The little bear was trapped by L. E. Oster, a rancher, although lava bears generally are believed to be brown, this one is coal black.

About 10 years ago a lava bear was shot in this district, and another of the species had not been taken until Oster made his catch.

GOLD PRICE AGAIN GOES TO NEW HIGH

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(AP)—A price of $33.75 was fixed today for RFP purchases of newly-mined gold, an increase of 10 cents over yesterday and a new high.

LABORITE INSULTS BRITISH KING ON PARLIAMENT VISIT

Sensation Created by Shouts Commoner As Sovereign Ends Opening Speech — Wild Outburst Is Ignored

LONDON, Nov. 21.—(AP)—A sensation was created in the house of lords today when just as King George concluded his speech opening the new parliament, a laborite, J. McGovern, cried:

"What about abolition of the Means test and unemployment cuts?" "It's a shame while people are starving," McGovern, who it was recalled had been suspended from the house of commons on several occasions for defying speakers' rulings, continued to shout.

King George took no notice of the interruption. The monarch turned and in ceremonial fashion as if nothing had happened offered his arm to the queen.

Climax to Pageantry His majesty had been on the point of doing this when the laborite's shrill cries, with a marked "hrr" in his Scottish accent, broke through the vaulted peer's chambers.

McGovern's outburst climaxed Britain's most brilliant hour of pageantry and ceremony. The king had just finished his speech, uttering "May God's blessing rest upon your labors," and had moved away from the throne.

The laborite's voice rang out from the crowd of black-coated commoners assembled at the bar of the house of lords.

The gorgeous assembly seemed stupefied. Peers in their brilliant robes and peeresses in exquisite gowns and tiaras, their hands, arms and necks sparkling with diamonds; foreign ambassadors and diplomats in formal uniforms and court officials and functionaries with breasts blazing with decorations, all turned eyes toward the glowering laborite.

No One Interrupted Several members of the house moved toward McGovern, but nobody dared touch him.

Tracy came here with a company which is making a picture.

He said he was dressed and had a blanket wrapped about himself.

Child Divorced

Eleven-year-old Dorothy Taylor (above) returned to first grade school after a divorce from her father getting in Oklahoma City after her mother's death.

TRACY, FILM STAR, OFFENDS MEXICO BY PORCH SCENE

MEXICO, D. F., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Lee Tracy, American movie actor, was ordered by police authorities today to remain here pending further investigation of complaints that he had "offended public morals."

Meanwhile, after having spent two hours in jail yesterday morning and five hours there last night, he was free on his own recognizance.

In a statement to police Tracy admitted he shouted at cadets from the balcony of his room in the Hotel Regis Sunday morning, but denied charges that he had been nude.

"I had no intention of insulting Mexico and if I did I am sorry," Tracy said, "but when I heard the music of a parade Sunday morning I went out on the balcony. It is true that I shouted at the cadets, but it is not true that I was nude."

He said he was dressed and had a blanket wrapped about himself. Tracy came here with a company which is making a picture.

AIR SUICIDE BY AVIATRIX FEARED

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Leaving notes declaring her intention of taking her own life, Mrs. Louise Truck Stanton, member of a prominent family here, today borrowed an airplane, took enough gasoline to last four hours, and was believed by airport officials to have headed east over the Atlantic.

Mrs. Stanton's husband was killed in an automobile accident here about 10 days ago.

ROOSEVELT'S GOLD PURCHASE POLICY DECLARED WRONG

O. M. W. Sprague Says Aroused Public Opinion Only Defense for Drift Into Unrestrained Inflation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(AP)—O. M. W. Sprague resigned today as special adviser to the treasury, and asserted "there is no defense from a drift into unrestrained inflation other than an aroused and organized public opinion."

"It is for the purpose of contributing as I may to such a movement that, with feelings of profound disappointment, I sever my connections with your administration," he said in a letter to President Roosevelt.

It has long been known that he was not in agreement with Mr. Roosevelt on matters of monetary policy. "I accepted this position because I believed at that time that I was sufficiently in agreement with you on monetary matters to be able to render some service in the working out of policies designed to bring about a trade recovery," Sprague's letter said.

"Unhappily, I now find that I am in such fundamental disagreement with the monetary policies which have recently been adopted that I have decided to resign my post in the treasury."

"I am opposed to the present policy of depreciating the dollar through gold purchases in foreign markets for two reasons," he said. "I am convinced that this policy will prove ineffective in securing a speedy rise in prices."

PORTLAND PLANS SCHOOL BUILDING

PORTLAND, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Tentative plans calling for a $1,500,000 expenditure of public works money for Portland's school system, putting several thousand men to work, have been agreed upon by directors of the school district here.

Of the money to be sought, 30 per cent would be an outworn grant, and the rest would be borrowed cheaply. The money would be used to build seven or eight grammar schools, and for painting and repairing the other 76 school buildings in district No. 1.

Film Cancelled

The premiere showing of the Shasta Cascade Wonderland picture, scheduled for Friday next at 10 a. m., has been cancelled, it was announced by Chamber of Commerce officials this morning.

Last minute delay in putting final touches on the travelogue made the cancellation necessary. It will be shown later on.

WILL ROGERS says: SANTA MONICA, Cal., Nov. 20.—Been so warm and nice out here that it's knocked a lot of people out of work. Leaves Californians with nothing to do. They can't lie about the weather.

Germany has got everybody all excited now. It sure seems good to have all the ills of the world blamed on somebody besides us.

This country is gradually getting Democratic at that. See where J. P. Morgan had tea for the first time at the White House. Of course he took his own tea, but it was nice of him to drop into the old frame hut at that. I tell you big men are changing.

Stratosphere Balloon in Safe Return to Earth

BRIDGETON, N. J., Nov. 21.—(AP)—America's first stratosphere balloon to rest in the marshland southwest of Bridgeton, at 5:50 p. m. yesterday.

As hundreds of persons searched the pine woods, cranberry bogs and elevated farms in southern New Jersey, Lieutenant Commander T. G. W. "Tex" Settle and his aide, Major Chester L. Fordney, slept the night through, wrapped up in the deflated fabric of their big balloon, awaiting daybreak.

At 8:44 a. m. today, Major Fordney trudged through the marshlands, walking until 9:30 a. m., when he reached the farm house of S. N. Johnson, nine miles southwest of Bridgeton.

"I'm hungry and I'd like to use the telephone," calmly announced Fordney to the startled farmer. Then he took up the telephone and notified the world of the balloonists' triumph.

"We had a delightful and unexpected trip," Major Fordney said, "except that we came down so fast we had to throw things overhead as fast as we could to lighten ship."

Although it was a pretty rapid landing, neither of us was hurt. We took our bearings, saw we were in marshy ground, surrounded by woods and that it would be best just to put up for the night. So we got out of the gondola, wrapped up in the balloon and slept for the night.

Leaving Fordney to stand watch over the balloon, I struck out for civilization at 8:44.

According to the altimeter within the gondola, Major Fordney said, the highest altitude reached was 39,000 feet. The actual height attained must be officially checked.

WILL ROGERS says: SANTA MONICA, Cal., Nov. 20.—Been so warm and nice out here that it's knocked a lot of people out of work. Leaves Californians with nothing to do. They can't lie about the weather.

Germany has got everybody all excited now. It sure seems good to have all the ills of the world blamed on somebody besides us.

This country is gradually getting Democratic at that. See where J. P. Morgan had tea for the first time at the White House. Of course he took his own tea, but it was nice of him to drop into the old frame hut at that. I tell you big men are changing.

Stratosphere Balloon in Safe Return to Earth

BRIDGETON, N. J., Nov. 21.—(AP)—America's first stratosphere balloon to rest in the marshland southwest of Bridgeton, at 5:50 p. m. yesterday.

As hundreds of persons searched the pine woods, cranberry bogs and elevated farms in southern New Jersey, Lieutenant Commander T. G. W. "Tex" Settle and his aide, Major Chester L. Fordney, slept the night through, wrapped up in the deflated fabric of their big balloon, awaiting daybreak.

At 8:44 a. m. today, Major Fordney trudged through the marshlands, walking until 9:30 a. m., when he reached the farm house of S. N. Johnson, nine miles southwest of Bridgeton.

"I'm hungry and I'd like to use the telephone," calmly announced Fordney to the startled farmer. Then he took up the telephone and notified the world of the balloonists' triumph.

"We had a delightful and unexpected trip," Major Fordney said, "except that we came down so fast we had to throw things overhead as fast as we could to lighten ship."

Although it was a pretty rapid landing, neither of us was hurt. We took our bearings, saw we were in marshy ground, surrounded by woods and that it would be best just to put up for the night. So we got out of the gondola, wrapped up in the balloon and slept for the night.

Leaving Fordney to stand watch over the balloon, I struck out for civilization at 8:44.

According to the altimeter within the gondola, Major Fordney said, the highest altitude reached was 39,000 feet. The actual height attained must be officially checked.

WILL ROGERS says: SANTA MONICA, Cal., Nov. 20.—Been so warm and nice out here that it's knocked a lot of people out of work. Leaves Californians with nothing to do. They can't lie about the weather.

Germany has got everybody all excited now. It sure seems good to have all the ills of the world blamed on somebody besides us.

This country is gradually getting Democratic at that. See where J. P. Morgan had tea for the first time at the White House. Of course he took his own tea, but it was nice of him to drop into the old frame hut at that. I tell you big men are changing.

Stratosphere Balloon in Safe Return to Earth

BRIDGETON, N. J., Nov. 21.—(AP)—America's first stratosphere balloon to rest in the marshland southwest of Bridgeton, at 5:50 p. m. yesterday.

As hundreds of persons searched the pine woods, cranberry bogs and elevated farms in southern New Jersey, Lieutenant Commander T. G. W. "Tex" Settle and his aide, Major Chester L. Fordney, slept the night through, wrapped up in the deflated fabric of their big balloon, awaiting daybreak.

At 8:44 a. m. today, Major Fordney trudged through the marshlands, walking until 9:30 a. m., when he reached the farm house of S. N. Johnson, nine miles southwest of Bridgeton.

"I'm hungry and I'd like to use the telephone," calmly announced Fordney to the startled farmer. Then he took up the telephone and notified the world of the balloonists' triumph.

"We had a delightful and unexpected trip," Major Fordney said, "except that we came down so fast we had to throw things overhead as fast as we could to lighten ship."

Although it was a pretty rapid landing, neither of us was hurt. We took our bearings, saw we were in marshy ground, surrounded by woods and that it would be best just to put up for the night. So we got out of the gondola, wrapped up in the balloon and slept for the night.

Leaving Fordney to stand watch over the balloon, I struck out for civilization at 8:44.

According to the altimeter within the gondola, Major Fordney said, the highest altitude reached was 39,000 feet. The actual height attained must be officially checked.

WILL ROGERS says: SANTA MONICA, Cal., Nov. 20.—Been so warm and nice out here that it's knocked a lot of people out of work. Leaves Californians with nothing to do. They can't lie about the weather.

Germany has got everybody all excited now. It sure seems good to have all the ills of the world blamed on somebody besides us.

This country is gradually getting Democratic at that. See where J. P. Morgan had tea for the first time at the White House. Of course he took his own tea, but it was nice of him to drop into the old frame hut at that. I tell you big men are changing.

Stratosphere Balloon in Safe Return to Earth

BRIDGETON, N. J., Nov. 21.—(AP)—America's first stratosphere balloon to rest in the marshland southwest of Bridgeton, at 5:50 p. m. yesterday.

As hundreds of persons searched the pine woods, cranberry bogs and elevated farms in southern New Jersey, Lieutenant Commander T. G. W. "Tex" Settle and his aide, Major Chester L. Fordney, slept the night through, wrapped up in the deflated fabric of their big balloon, awaiting daybreak.

At 8:44 a. m. today, Major Fordney trudged through the marshlands, walking until 9:30 a. m., when he reached the farm house of S. N. Johnson, nine miles southwest of Bridgeton.

"I'm hungry and I'd like to use the telephone," calmly announced Fordney to the startled farmer. Then he took up the telephone and notified the world of the balloonists' triumph.

"We had a delightful and unexpected trip," Major Fordney said, "except that we came down so fast we had to throw things overhead as fast as we could to lighten ship."

Although it was a pretty rapid landing, neither of us was hurt. We took our bearings, saw we were in marshy ground, surrounded by woods and that it would be best just to put up for the night. So we got out of the gondola, wrapped up in the balloon and slept for the night.

Leaving Fordney to stand watch over the balloon, I struck out for civilization at 8:44.

According to the altimeter within the gondola, Major Fordney said, the highest altitude reached was 39,000 feet. The actual height attained must be officially checked.

WILL ROGERS says: SANTA MONICA, Cal., Nov. 20.—Been so warm and nice out here that it's knocked a lot of people out of work. Leaves Californians with nothing to do. They can't lie about the weather.

Germany has got everybody all excited now. It sure seems good to have all the ills of the world blamed on somebody besides us.

This country is gradually getting Democratic at that. See where J. P. Morgan had tea for the first time at the White House. Of course he took his own tea, but it was nice of him to drop into the old frame hut at that. I tell you big men are changing.

Stratosphere Balloon in Safe Return to Earth

BRIDGETON, N. J., Nov. 21.—(AP)—America's first stratosphere balloon to rest in the marshland southwest of Bridgeton, at 5:50 p. m. yesterday.

As hundreds of persons searched the pine woods, cranberry bogs and elevated farms in southern New Jersey, Lieutenant Commander T. G. W. "Tex" Settle and his aide, Major Chester L. Fordney, slept the night through, wrapped up in the deflated fabric of their big balloon, awaiting daybreak.

At 8:44 a. m. today, Major Fordney trudged through the marshlands, walking until 9:30 a. m., when he reached the farm house of S. N. Johnson, nine miles southwest of Bridgeton.

"I'm hungry and I'd like to use the telephone," calmly announced Fordney to the startled farmer. Then he took up the telephone and notified the world of the balloonists' triumph.

"We had a delightful and unexpected trip," Major Fordney said, "except that we came down so fast we had to throw things overhead as fast as we could to lighten ship."