BROTHERHOOD OF NATIONS NEEDED ROTARY IS TOLD

Following the arguments in favor of the United States adopting a policy of strict nationalism offered by E. C. Corn at last week's meeting of the Medford Rotary club, W. A. Gates ably presented reasons in favor of internationalism at today's meeting of the club. Mr. Gates entertainingly and convincingly explained industrial and financial conditions which make a program of international brotherhood advisable at this time as a remedy for the present economical depression.

"Too much nationalism, resulting in disrespect for other nations, has been instilled in our younger generation," Mr. Gates said. "The varying parties toward foreign policies, the high tariffs and the present unbalanced monetary supply are largely responsible for conditions as they are today," the speaker said.

The principal portion of Mr. Gates' talk was directed toward the financial status of the world now. The previous balance of money, maintained through new discoveries of gold sufficient to meet the growing need for a medium of exchange, was smashed by the war, according to Mr. Gates. This balance was broken when the United States became a great debtor nation, loaning vast sums to European nations in the form of credit for commodities. These commodities were purchased at war time prices and loans were made in sums far in excess of the credit of many creditor nations. Much of the world's wealth came into hands of men not versed in the handling of money, who were motivated by greed, instilled through previous generations in comparative poverty.

It was hardly ethical, in Mr. Gates' opinion, for those making these war time loans, at exorbitant commodity prices, to demand full payment at present money values. "Nations were forced to repay in commodities, and since the majority of the world's money was in this country, they were forced to deal with this country. High tariff walls were then thrown up and money hoarded in this country, depressing the value of money itself and throwing the entire monetary balance of the world off.

Mr. Gates also cited emigration restrictions, a nationalistic policy, as a cause of the present depression. Our birth rate is decreasing and, with no outside population, our consumers of industrial and agriculture products has likewise decreased.

"We must raise the standards of other nations to create new markets for our commodities," Mr. Gates insisted. "Industrialism is essential to this raising of standards and industrialism of other nations cannot be possible unless we trade with them."

Mr. Gates' and Mr. Corn's interesting talks have been enthusiastically received by the members of the Medford Rotary club and program chairman Hamilton Patton has been receiving compliments on these two excellent programs. Bert Lageen and Doc Dippel will have charge of the program for next week's Rotary luncheon. H. P. Bosworth of Klamath Falls was a guest at today's meeting.

CCC's to Fire—Only 20 minutes were necessary for 52 boys at the Rand Ranger station CCC camp to gather up emergency equipment and rations, which were not in readiness, and be on their way to the forest fire at Nine Mile mountain, according to the report of Lt. Charles L. Emerson. The boys returned to camp Sunday evening after fire fighting 22 hours. They reported the blaze had been checked.

TURKEY NIGHT AT ELKS THURSDAY

A free feed with plenty of beer on tap will be served at 6:30, and a turkey catching contest will be staged in the basement of the temple. The evening's entertainment will be filled out with stunts and extemporaneous speaking. Past exalted rulers' night is an annual affair for the local Elks and serves to swell the benevolent fund of the lodge. A large sum is distributed each year by the Elks among the needy from money raised by similar methods.

Lewis Ulrich will preside at the lodge session Thursday night, at which initiation of several candidates is scheduled. O. L. McDonald, district deputy grand exalted ruler for Oregon, south, is expected to be present.

ASHLAND ELKS TO STAGE RING CARD

Spider Fields and Dell Wilder of Medford will meet in a four-round semi-windup. Four three-minute round battles between members of Northern California and Southern Oregon CCC camps will round out the bill.

The Craterian theater on Wednesday. It was feared when "Fugitive" was made that people would not believe that such conditions existed. The same fear governed the production of "Wild Boys." Yet the facts are true and unvarnished—although unknown to perhaps 90 per cent of the population of the country. The picture paints the adventures and hardships in the lives of these road kids, of whom it is estimated there are 500,000 roaming the country. The screen play by Earl Baldwin is based on the story by Danny Abrams, who lived with these boys in their camps and testified concerning them before a congressional investigating committee. In the cast, besides 250 wild boys, are Frankie Darro and Dorothy Coonan.
