PUBLIC SCHOOLS' PLIGHT TOLD BY SUPT. BOWMAN

Kiwanis Hear County Head at Noon Meet—State Funds Only Hope in Saving System, Declaration

The public schools of Oregon must have state aid. And before the counties obtain that aid they must get their own houses in order, that they may spend the money in an intelligent manner, is the message brought to the Kiwanis club today by C. E. Bowman, superintendent of Jackson county schools, at the luncheon at the Hotel Medford.

Describing the school situation in Oregon, he showed that the public school is nearer collapse than most of the patrons realize, and that the state remains the only medium through which salvation can come. Under the prevailing laws in this state, only two per cent of the public school money comes from the state. The county pays 33 per cent and the school district 65 per cent.

Property Only Source. The district and county can raise the amount of money only by levying property taxes. Property is over-taxed now, Superintendent Bowman explained, so the only possible increase must come through the state, which has other means of raising finances. Under these other means, Superintendent Bowman listed the income tax, utilities tax, sales tax and liquor tax. He stated that the way of cleaning it up again through converting it into educational channels.

"Ninety-eight per cent of the money spent in running the schools," Mr. Bowman repeated, "already comes from the property tax, and that's why we should have state aid."

Explaining his statement that the counties must first get their houses in order, Mr. Bowman advocated adoption of the county school law, which would eliminate all but three boards in Jackson county, placing all schools outside of Medford and Ashland in one county district with a competent board and superintendent at its head.

To prove the worth of the plan he referred to Crook, Klamath and Lincoln counties, the three which have adopted the county plan. The millage in each has been reduced and their warrants in indebtedness are extremely low when compared with other counties of the state. In Crook county, which now has a levy of 4.3 mills, the smallest number of protested warrants in the state is found.

In Klamath county, where the levy is 3.4 mills, there were no protested warrants outstanding within the districts falling under the county plan last year. In Lincoln county, with a 7.3 mill levy, which is small compared with the levy previously made, the warrant indebtedness was reduced from 1932 to 1933. This county being the only one in the state with such a record.

Unit Program Helps. The audit made in Jackson county in June, Mr. Bowman explained, showed that had this county been under the unit program there would have been no outstanding warrants outside of Medford and Ashland. And in addition there would have been money in the bank. As it is there were warrants totaling $40,000 outstanding in the districts outside of Medford and Ashland. In closing his address, Mr. Bowman urged the Kiwanians to stand by education during the trying period and to lend support to the county school law, and to state aid of education. The need of state aid for education was also emphasized today by E. H. Hedrick, superintendent of Medford schools, following his return from Salem, where he reported the legislature not yet down to business.

Collapse Near. "The school problem," he stated, "is to find something to keep the school system from complete collapse, which is nearer than most people realize."

"In several hundred districts contracts have been signed providing for school only until mid-year. This number includes the Medford district. Interest in the legislature at this time centers in one thing, relief for schools. A number of things have been proposed, including increase in the income tax and a little processing tax on timber, but none offer anything adequate. Figures show that the cost of operating schools in this state is $16,000,000 a year. Last June outstanding warrants totaled $6,000,000. Therefore, anything offering less than four or five million dollars would not be adequate at all."

The music for today's luncheon of the Kiwanis club was furnished by the high school girls' glee club, with Miss Harriet Baldwin, director. C. C. Lemmon, who returned from spending the week-end in Palo Alto, gave a short description of the California-Stanford game.

MEDFORD WOULD PLAY WASH'N IF BEND DEFEATED

If they win from Bend, the Medford school authorities would not be adverse to a post-season game with the Washington-Salem winner, if "proper financial and other arrangements could be made." School Principal C. G. Smith doubted if this could be done.

"It's up to the coach and players," said Principal Smith. "They have had a tough schedule, and want to rest before basketball starts."

SALEM, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Win or lose, Salem high school's football season will end with Thursday's Shrine benefit game in Portland against Washington high school, Coach Hollis Huntington said today.

It was announced that Washington high, if victorious over Salem, would seek to play the winner of the Medford-Bend game to determine the mythical state championship.

"If they can put it over let them go ahead," Huntington said. "We are going to start basketball next Monday." He said Salem would not seek to waive the State High School Athletic association's rule against post-season games.

Eldon Jenne, coach of the Washington high school team in Portland, announced today that if Washington should beat Salem in the Shrine game, his team will be willing to meet the winner of the Medford-Bend match, in order to clarify the claim to the state title.

It was pointed out that the winner of such a game would undoubtedly have a just claim for the mythical championship.

WYNEKOOP CITED IN WIFE'S DEATH

CHICAGO, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Earle Wynkoop was arraigned in felony court today on a charge of accessory before the fact in the slaying of his wife, Rheta.

The charge was substituted for the formal murder charge lodged Saturday against the youth, whose "confession" that he killed the girl was spurned by the police as an effort to save his mother from conviction. Dr. Alice Wynkoop was held for grand jury action on a murder charge.

Judge Jay A. Schiller remanded young Wynkoop to the custody of police without bail, pending a hearing December 4.

Dempsey Lauds Film At Craterian Soon

Although Jack Dempsey, when interviewed Saturday night at the Hotel Medford, was anxious to get to bed and rest up before rising at an early hour for his hurried trip to Portland, he did, nevertheless, say a few words regarding the fight scenes in "The Prizefighter and the Lady," which comes to the Craterian theater Wednesday.

In the film, Dempsey acted as referee for the ring battle and was therefore able to get a good lineup on both men. Carnera, he believes a real champion, strong and very capable of taking care of himself. Baer is the better boxer, also strong and confident, with the cockiness of youth. Dempsey firmly believes that when the two actually meet in a real prize ring, the result will be a good deal like the one in the picture, with the exception, of course, there will be more seriousness behind the blows. The only thing Dempsey is worried about is Baer's success in motion pictures keeping him from the ring.

In other words, it is easy to see Dempsey believes in Baer's future in pugilistic circles, and dislikes to see the screen robbing the ring of one of its most colorful figures. For Dempsey will admit Baer's aptitude for the powder and makeup of an actor is amazing, considering the fact this is Baer's first screen appearance.

Alice Brady Star Coming Rialto Hit

Alice Brady plays a leading role in "Stage Mother," theatrical drama adapted from an original story by Bradford Ropes and filmed by the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, to be shown Tuesday at the Rialto theater.

She will be remembered for her sensational personal hit in "When Ladies Meet," and it is said that she outdoes all of her previous portrayals in the new picture. Her role is that of a domineering "stage mother" who forces her child to succeed on the stage through difficulties that create powerful human interest.

An exceptionally strong cast has been assembled to appear with Miss Brady. Maureen O'Sullivan plays the young daughter struggling for theatrical fame under her mother's guidance.

Franchot Tone is seen as her young lover and is said to give another brilliant performance as in "Today We Live," "The Stranger Returns" and "Midnight Mary."
