

JOBLESS PRESENT RELIEF DEMANDS TO LEGISLATORS

'We've Got to Eat,' Leader Tells Joint Committee—Workers Watching Action of Lawmakers Is Warning

SALEM, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Cash and other relief until national or state unemployment insurance is provided was demanded by representatives of the Citizens' Unemployment League at a legislative hearing late yesterday.

Governor Julius L. Meier, Mayor Joe Carson of Portland and the joint senate and house unemployment committees heard the demands.

'We've got to eat. We've got to live,' said Fred Walker, opening speaker. 'The only place we can get it is where it is.' He declared unemployment insurance, must come and meanwhile the unemployed are provided food and shelter.

Tax On Wealth Demanded. He called for relief from 'you people who have everything. You who robbed and exploited workers.' Tax on wealth, high incomes and corporations—not a sales tax or taxes on poor—must provide the means, he said. He also called for cuts in official salaries and military expenditures.

To the legislators, Walker said: 'Workers are watching your action to know how they will act. We don't want terror, but if it comes to a question of hunger we have no alternative.'

'Where there is an empty treasury and an empty belly, the empty belly suffers,' said Harry Gross. 'The excuse of an empty treasury will not suffice.'

Ram Tax Not Enough. Gross said Governor Meier's committee to investigate relief rejected a capital levy tax by a 17 to 4 vote. Liquor taxation, expected to yield $2,000,000, was the only recommendation of possible benefit. This, he said, would be only one-fifth the required amount.

He said federal figures showed only $10 a month was being expended to support each unemployed family in Multnomah county.

Children are born with sores because their mothers suffered malnutrition, declared a representative of the women's auxiliary organization. Fifteen to 25 per cent of children today are suffering from malnutrition. Their mortality lags. They are wearing castoff shoes and clothes. American mothers won't stand for it. They will organize.

Negro Wants Equality. Repeal of 'the criminal syndicalism law which murdered Ben Boloff' was demanded by Rebels Kayton, negro, representing the International Labor Defense council. He also demanded that relief be given unemployed regardless of color or religious creed.

Richard Lovelace, also of Portland, demanded repeal of the national economy act. Cash payment of soldiers' bonus, moratorium on foreclosing unemployed veterans under the world war veterans' state aid act and increase from two-tenths to five-tenths mill in the soldiers' and sailors' indigent fund were other points he demanded.

Repeal of the state truck and bus law was demanded by the conference. Banners stating 'Jordan shall not hang' were worn by various members of the unemployed who lined the hall. No mention of the Theodore Jordan case was made by the many speakers, but a resolution condemning his conviction to hang for the murder of a dining car steward at Klamath Falls was directed to the supreme court.
