WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—The boys behind the codes beleive they can notice a metamorphosis in the NRA not yet visible to the naked eye.

They see signs that the phoch-poothed Swope plan theory is being quietly accepted in some particulars. The hardboiled regulations of General Johnson are being softened somewhat in practical application. For instance someone has been sitting on that model code for about ten days now. The inside tip is that it has been withdrawn. Copies cannot easily be obtained.

The inside boys say this softening process was not altogether inspired by altruistic or political motives. Some of the best legal authorities arounds the NRA had their doubts about their ability to defend a harsh weto power in court.

about their ability to defend a halast veto power in court.

Nevertheless it is a tangible ex-ample of what seems to be a tend-ency toward tempering the NRA.

It does not mean they are going to ease up. Or that the Swope plan is being adopted as a working basis.

It does mean there is less tend-ency to be dictatorial and a distinct version toward practical concessions.

This sharp-toothed model was promiting Johnson veto power over the code authority. That is the title conferred on the cooperative committees representing industry.

They could decide black was black but if Johnson happened to think it was white—it was white.

A new inside order is supposed to have been issued around November 22 changing all that. In certain instances the veto power was completely removed. Instead the government was given the right to a non-voting representative on the code authority.

That new idea has been put into the code of the many camels coming to Jackson county's liquor picture. There won't be many camels coming to Jackson county's liquor picture.
