Elks' Ball, Concert Of Gleemen, Arouse Interest in Holiday

Two weeks from tomorrow the world will rejoice again in the celebration of Christmas day, and the spirit, which characterizes the favorite holiday in many lands, is already reflected in much entertaining here.

Sweet charity is the inspiration here and many parties and the holly bough and fragrant cedar have added interest to a number of luncheon tables.

One of the largest events in the very near future will be the Elks' pre-holiday ball Saturday, December 16, at the temple. Funds realized from the affair will be used in financing Christmas baskets to be distributed to the needy. Robert Strang, dance committee chairman, and his group are making elaborate plans for the affair and a good orchestra will furnish the music for the evening.

Another much anticipated event in the holiday schedule will be the winter concert of the Medford Gleemen, announced by Director James Stevens, for Wednesday, December 27, at the high school auditorium. Music, ever a part of the Christmas observance, promises to be an even greater factor in the celebration of the holiday this year through this plan of the Gleemen.

December 16, Oregon universities and colleges will close for the holidays and many students will be returning home to inaugurate a gay round of entertaining. Students will also be coming from the south and, although no definite plan has been revealed by the year set, a number of parties have been planned. Of major interest will be the wedding of Miss Winifred Warner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Warner, to Max Becker, which will be solemnized New Year's day. Miss Warner as the inspiration of a shower last Thursday for which the Misses Laura and Berbery Gordon, Mrs. Gordon Warner were hostesses. Seventeen attended the affair.

Among hostesses entertaining last week and utilizing the Christmas motif were Mrs. C. O. Larson and Mrs. W. A. Holloway, who entertained at luncheon Friday. There were five tables of bridge, and prizes awarded Mrs. Harry Frenette, Mrs. Roland Hubbard and Mrs. Ralph Bailey.
