

CANFIELD FINDS $1000 JOKE BILL OF '80' INFLATION

With the United States off the gold standard, and arguments becoming more complicated daily on what to do about inflation—from between the pages of an old encyclopedia formerly the property of Dr. Ira D. Canfield of Lock Haven, Pa., emerges a piece of fun money for the sum of one thousand dollars, issued in 1880. The bill is now the property of his son, I. D. Canfield of Medford.

The green and white bill three inches wide and eight long, has the serial number 89,843,702,086,331,987, and bears the address "Swinderville Avenue, Washington City, July 24, 1880."

With a skull and numerous bones emerging from a horn of plenty atop a casket, a tombstone is shown behind it on which is inscribed "to the memory of—"

"Absolute money, for the sum of one thousand dollars, redeemable nowhere, in nothing, and by nobody. The law directs that this money shall circulate freely. When this note has been spent, another may be had upon application at the U. S. Treasury, Black Pomeroy, treasurer, B. F. Butler, Gen'l Distributer," is one of the inscriptions on the paper.

To the left side of that notation is a picture of the fox with a club, and a bunch of geese. A skull and crossbones appear above "Absolute money. No danger." A finger points to "Full tender for debts, public and private. Death to any man who refuses to give us more credit." Then at the bottom is the note, "Eternal damnation to any man who refuses to take this bill at par for all debts." There is also the number 986,548,720,895,674,321,098.

Another illustration shows the U. S. Mint grinding out money from rags, which are being stuffed into a machine. Other quotations on the back include: "Civilization demands paper currency representing no artificial value."—Francis H. Hughes. This is just the thing—represents no value whatever. No More Contraction of the Currency. No More Work. We endorse this as money.—P. P. Dewees, S. B. Mason, managers, U. S. Mint. This is "Finger Money" and will make everybody honest, as no one will counterfeit it, or rob or kill for it!

The $1000 mark is surrounded by "Burn the Bonds. Shoot the Bondholder. Down with Capital. Give to Communism."

Then to the right is printed "When the government has completed its work of issuing one of these notes to each individual in the nation, every person will be worth one thousand dollars. No More Interest to Anybody. This note is to be received at its face for all debts public and private. To prevent disputes between buyers and sellers as to the amount of this money necessary to purchase any article of commerce, values and prices in all cases to be fixed by the purchaser. "Divide All Property Equally." "The people want cheap money and plenty of it." This is cheap as dirt, and plenty as the lice and locusts of Egypt."

On one end is "The Poor Man's Money. The more a man has of it the poorer he is." On the other end appears "Gold is a Coward."—H. T. Wright. This money is not afraid of anybody."

Cartoonists Viewed First Passengers On Trains As "Idiots"

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP)—The history of America is on parade here in caricature—a huge funny-paper valued at $80,000 that shows the trials and triumphs of the republic since England clapped a tea tax on the colonies and started a war.

There are rare drawings from the pre-revolution era, showing the colonies, as hornets, stinging John Bull. They were a riot in their day. The subject of inflation has tickled cartoonists all down the road America has traveled.

The chalk artists had a fit when the locomotives first rolled across the American horizon. Some of the riders were pictured as idiots. The cartoonists were a bit kinder to the automobile and downright friendly to the airplane.

FORESTER SWAPS CLOTHES FOR GAS GIVEN JAIL TERM

On charges of theft of a sheepskin coat, Elmer Edward Conner, 19 of the Applegate Civilian Conservation corps was sentenced to six months in the county jail, when he was taken before Justice of the Peace W. R. Coleman Friday.

According to officers who arrested Conner earlier in the week, he confessed to trading the coat in Ashland for five gallons of gasoline and a quart of oil.

Captain Bernard B. McMahon, in charge of the camp, conducted an investigation concerning the disappearance of articles from the camp, and arrested the police officers in locating such materials.

Captain McMahon stated that a thorough check was to be made hereafter throughout the camp of any articles reported "lost," to determine if they had been traded or sold.

Margaret Sullivan at Craterian

Is a woman's love more lasting than a man's? What of the man who loves—and forgets? Should a woman keep silent when her happiness is at stake? In the modern view, need there be any stigma on the unwed mother? These questions, and many others, are prompted by the story of "Only Yesterday," which opens a three-day engagement at the Craterian Theater today. Margaret Sullivan, John Boles, Reginald Denny, Edna May Oliver and approximately 90 other featured play-bill whose names are well known to theatergoers have leading roles. "Only Yesterday" was directed by the same man who brought "Back Street" to the screen and, as in the former picture, the same beauty of expression and poignancy of emotion is very evident.

Irene Dunn in Rialto Picture

There are, embodied in the course of the picture, several exceptional air shots, train wrecks, fires and, to cap the climax—one of the most sensational sequences ever shown aboard a dirigible during a storm.

MARCH GRANT IS ROXY AIR DRAMA

The roar of airplane motors, the scream of wind through struts, and braces, the rat-tat-tat of death-dealing machine guns and above them all, the friendship and hatred that flurries between men engaged in flying to death—this, briefly, is "The Eagle and the Hawk," story of wartime aviation, which opens today at the Roxy Theater. Richard Cromwell and Dorothy Wilson featured in a thrilling story of newsreel cameramen.

Twin Ignition Important, Says Air Lines Pilot

PILOTS OF THE AIR LANES have taken the 1934 Twin Ignition Nash to their hearts. Charles F. Sullivan, left, crack pilot of United Air Lines, is shown checking over the ignition systems of his big Boeing transport ship and the new Nash Big Six coupe in Los Angeles. His record of 5,000 hours in Twin Ignition powered ships without a forced landing, makes him an enthusiastic champion of the Nash engineering principle. Government Regulations require all aircraft engines of 40 or more horsepower to have dual ignition.
