Long Mountain

LONG MOUNTAIN, Dec. 22. (Sp.) - Long Mountain school is giving a Christmas program this evening including a Christmas play.

Turkey raisers have been busy picking turkeys for the Christmas market. Do penguins come under the classification of "game birds" and if so, when is the open season? These questions became paramount yesterday with local police and other gun-toters when several gigantic specimens of the genus known as Aptenodytes appeared suddenly in the streets of the city. Quick recourse was taken to scientific treatises, where it was learned that these quaint birds belong to the order Sphenisciformes.

Symbolizing the frozen south, an unusual parade introduced Shell's new winter gasoline, "Thermalized," Super-Shell. The loud-speaking apparatus belted forth the merry tune "Santa's Waltz," which furnished inspiration for eight huge imitations of the funny bird to cut fancy figure eights, backward skating and an occasional spill, just as though the snow and ice were underneath.

Through a special arrangement with The Mail Tribune, G. M. Campbell, special representative for the Shell company has arranged for the unique Shell display stop over here and appear on Medford streets Saturday afternoon and evening as a special feature of the final shopping day before Christmas.

A Yuletide atmosphere will be given through the presentation of a number of the best known Christmas carols which will be played over the loud speaker equipment. Mr. Campbell will leave today for his home in San Francisco and Jack Butler, a well known member of the Shell staff in this city, will have charge of the penguin display.

The float is on a tour of the north-west, calling attention in an unusual manner, to a new refining process, which retains all the premium qualities of super-shell, yet adding that winter effect essential these cold days.

According to Shell refinery experts, the new process, known as "thermalized," practically eliminates the choke and is an improvement over the usual "quick starting" gasoline of past winters. The warming up period with the new "thermalized" super-shell is reduced by as much as one-third.
