

WOODIN SEEKS HEALTH IN ARIZONA

Suffering from a throat ailment, Secretary of the Treasury William Woodin is recuperating on the Arizona desert near Tucson during his indefinite leave from his cabinet post. He is staying at the home of his son, William Woodin, Jr. Left to right: Mrs. William Woodin, Jr., her son, William III, Secretary and Mrs. Woodin. (Associated Press Photo)

TOUHY FREED IN HAMM KIDNAPING

Roger Touhy, Chicago gang leader, and three associates are shown after a St. Paul jury has acquitted them in the kidnaping of William Hamm Jr., wealthy brewer. Left to right, seated: Eddie McFadden, Touhy and Willie Sharkey. Standing: Gus Schafer, William Scott Stewart, chief of defense counsel in the case. (Associated Press Photo)

MARITAL KNOT TIED IN MEXICO

Alice White, petite blonde motion picture actress, and Sidney Bartlett, writer, were married in Magdalena, Mexico. The marriage climaxed an engagement that was first announced by the actress in 1929 and which subsequently was broken and remade more than once. (Associated Press Photo)

LEADERS IN LYNCHING CAMPAIGN

State troopers under the leadership of William Preston Lane, Jr., the state attorney general, and Brig. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, state adjutant general, joined forces with the national guard in the campaign to arrest several men accused of participating in the lynching at Prince Anne, Md., last month. Lane, Col. Washington Bowie, Reckord and Capt. Edward McK. Johnson (left to right) are shown discussing their plans at headquarters set up in Salisbury, Md. (Associated Press Photo)

THIS MAY BE LONG LOST DA VINCI PAINTING

This painting generally known as Botticelli's "Adoration of the Kings" is believed by Prof. J. D. Paulson of North Carolina State college to be really the long lost "Birth of Christ" by Leonardo Da Vinci. The Da Vinci painting has been sought for 400 years by artists and collectors. Professor Paulson, while studying photographic reproductions of the painting, discovered inscriptions on the canvas which are shown at the left. He believes these include the initials of Da Vinci (shown third from top). (Associated Press Photo)

NEW BROADWAY STAGE FIND

Paul Whiteman introduced his niece, Dorothy Atkins, to Jerome Kern, composer, and he made her the featured singer of his new operetta, "Gowns by Roberts." A native of Hollywood, this is her debut on the stage. (Associated Press Photo)

Helping Science

To help scientists gauge the energy used up by a grid player, "Cotton" Warburton, ace Southern California ball carrier, donned this rigging for a metabolism test. Analysis of exhaled breath, caught in the bag, shows how much and how well physical energy is consumed. (Associated Press Photo)

OIL HEIRESS OUT TO WIN PLACE IN FILMS

Janet Snowden, 19, heiress to a fortune made in oil, has announced at Hollywood, Calif., that all talk of another marriage for her is erroneous. Instead of matrimony she will seek a career in moving pictures. She came into prominence last August, when she precipitately left her husband, Prince Don Francisco Di Sirignano Caravita, Italian sportsman, five days after their marriage. (Associated Press Photo)

COMMITTEE TO DRAFT LIQUOR CONTROL PROGRAM

Here are the members of the committee appointed by President Roosevelt to prepare a program of liquor control. Front row, left to right: Willard L. Thorpe, director of foreign and domestic commerce; Edward Greenbaum, chairman; Ade Fortas, AAA attorney; Frederick P. Lee, farm administration counsel; back row: Edward P. Lowry, treasury assistant; Frank M. Parrish, assistant to attorney-general; Dr. James M. Doran, commissioner of industrial alcohol; Dr. Mordecai Ezekiel, economic advisor to the secretary of agriculture, and Harris E. Villingham, chief of beverage section of farm administration. (Associated Press Photo)

ILLINOIS BOY HAS CHAMPION STEER

James Padgett of Kellersville, Ill., is shown with the Aberdeen Angus steer, McHenry Black Cap Hope, with which he won the junior feeding championship at the International Live Stock exposition in Chicago. The prize animal weighs 1103 pounds. (Associated Press Photo)

THE BABE SETS ANOTHER RECORD

Babe Ruth swapped his bat for a shotgun and in an expedition on the private Golet preserve at Chester, N. Y., bagged 14 pheasants and a few rabbits. He was a guest of Pierre McCormack, shown with him. Ruth remarked that his shooting-eye "wasn't so bad for a guy who only hunts once in a while." (Associated Press Photo)

Here is a scene within the American liquor exchange, New York, which came into being with the end of prohibition. It functions much in the manner of stock, grain or other exchanges, and here the liquor brokers trade in the various brands for their clients. The prices are posted on the board in the background. (Associated Press Photo)

HONEYMOON'S OKAY, SO FIFI WEDS

A "trial honeymoon" worked all right, so Fifi D'Orsay, film actress, decided to wed Maurice Hill of Chicago. They tried out domesticity thoroughly, under chaperonage, even to eating breakfasts cooked by Fifi. (Associated Press Photo)

FOUR TRAINMEN SCALDED TO DEATH

Wreckage of a fast freight train which plunged over an embankment after being derailed near Spokane, Wash. Four members of the train crew were killed by live steam. (Associated Press Photo)

BALLOTS BURNED IN LOUISIANA

This was the scene in Tangipahoa parish of Louisiana as irate citizens poured kerosene on ballots and burned them on the eve of the election called by Senator Huey Long to name a congressman. Ballots were burned in several parishes in efforts to enforce an injunction against distribution of ballots to prevent the election. (Associated Press Photo)