

NEEDY TEACHERS OF OREGON GIVEN JOBS UNDER CWA

Free Classes for Adults to Be Organized and Taught by Unemployed — Superintendents Given Charge

SALEM, Jan. 5.—(P)—From $5,000 to $14,000 monthly has been allotted to Oregon by the Federal Relief Administration for the employment of needy unemployed teachers in educational projects under the Civil Works act. Information mailed to school officials by C. A. Howard, superintendent of public instruction, announced today.

Free classes may be organized in general adult education subjects; vocational subjects in the trades, industry, business, agriculture and home economics; vocational training for rehabilitation, and classes for adults unable to read and write English.

Needy to Teach. A needy unemployed teacher, who must be certified by the county relief committee as in need of relief, will be selected to teach each class, he said.

City and county school superintendents will have general charge of the organization of these classes in each county and Superintendent Howard advised that all persons desiring to enroll or who are eligible to teach should contact their city or county superintendent for further information.

Teachers will be selected from the ranks of unemployed teachers and others competent to teach vocational subjects, but must be certified as in need of relief by the county relief committee before being eligible for employment.

Maximum Salary $50. Under federal regulations the maximum monthly salary for teachers of these classes under the Civil Works act will be $50 per month.

In general, classes will be held three times a week and for two hours at each session. The minimum number for a class is 10 persons, although classes of not less than six may be organized by special approval.

Classes in adult education of collegiate grade will be organized by Dean Alfred Powers, director general extension, Oregon State system of higher education, and plans are being made for the establishment of regional schools for adults in the larger cities.

Maze of Questions Unanswered As Wynekoop Case Nears Trial

...HOW-WHEN-WHERE-WHO-WHY-HOW-WHEN-WHERE-WHO-WHY

Questions sufficient in number and interest to make a good mystery novel remain unanswered in the celebrated Wynekoop case, which will reach another climax when Dr. Alice Wynekoop goes on trial in Chicago court soon charged with the murder of her son's wife. Dr. Wynekoop, her son, Earle, who was freed of charges of being an accessory to the slaying, and the operating room in which the body of the girl was found are shown here.

By JOHN W. STAHR
CHICAGO.—(AP) Into the trial of trial, 62-year-old Dr. Alice Wynekoop for the murder of her daughter-in-law, Rheta Gardner Wynekoop, will be tossed a maze of unanswered questions that makes many story-book mysteries seem simple by comparison.

This already famous case, slated for trial at an early date, does not follow any fiction formula by presenting a long, contrasting list of suspects.

"Confession's" Big Role. But in setting, psychological and physiological "angles," intra-family intrigue and contradictions, the "operating table slaying" assumes most if not all the ingredients of a Poe brain child.

Perhaps the biggest pre-trial question of all is: Will the "confession" which the elderly doctor signed three days after the tragedy be her defense, or will it be the state's biggest weapon? That statement, written in the third person, stating merely that the young woman died of an overdose of chloroform while being treated by Dr. Wynekoop—and that "a bullet was discharged" after death merely to give the appearance an intruder had killed Rheta—has been termed by disinterested legal minds a "perfect defense document."

But the defendant, by turns, has repudiated, confirmed and again repudiated the "confession." The defense may, after all, stand upon Dr. Alice's reputation, her amazing poise, her career as a respected physician and her original statement that an outsider committed the crime.

There are a multitude of other questions which may complicate the trial. Among them are these: Why did Earle Wynekoop, 27-year-old personable husband of Rheta, buy 50 cartridges for his mother's .32 calibre pistol—found beside the nearly nude body—November 11, just 10 days before the tragedy? And why did Dr. Alice at first deny knowledge of a $5000 insurance policy on Rheta's life—carrying double indemnity in case of death by violence—when she herself had paid the first premium on it, also on November 11?

More Puzzlers. Why did Earle write an affectionate letter to Rheta from Kansas City on November 4—though when he returned to Chicago for several days he didn't even telephone the wife he called his "mental inferior"? Why were there two blank cartridges in the death pistol chamber? Why did Dr. Alice, when she "discovered" Rheta's body at 8:30 that Tuesday night, first call her daughter, Dr. Catherine Wynekoop, then call an undertaker—police not being notified until four hours later?

By a European coalition, we may take it as probable that the United States will leave us to our fate unless, indeed, we are invaded by a black army," he said. "The American government seriously contemplated taking action against us in the early part of the war."

"Whatever sentiment was allowed to enter into their (America's) calculations was in favor of France," he added, "not England."

FEDERAL INCOME TAXPAYERS GET BLANKS FOR 1933

The 1933 federal income tax returns were mailed on January 2, to taxpayers. Requirements for filing individual returns are the same as for the year 1932: i. e., each single person with a net income of $1000 or over and each married person with a net income of $2500 or over, or each person with a gross income of $5000 or over must file an income tax return.

If separate returns are filed by husband and wife, the exemption may be taken by either or divided between them. In addition to the personal exemption, a credit of $400 may be claimed for each person (other than husband or wife) under 18 years of age, or incapable of self-support because mentally or physically defective, who receives his or her chief support from the taxpayer during the taxable year.

Before preparing the return, the taxpayer should assemble carefully all information; he also should make a study of the instructions on the form. When the return has been completed, all working papers should be held by the taxpayer for future reference.

The oath will be administered without charge by the collector, any deputy collector or internal revenue agent.

Although taxpayers have until March 15, 1934, in which to file returns, Collector J. W. Maloney wishes to impress upon each one the desirability of completing his information and filing his return at an earlier date in order to avoid last minute rush. This early filing will permit all taxpayers to receive the full, courteous assistance Collector Maloney desires rendered by his corps of deputies.

Corporations and partnerships are required to file federal income tax returns, regardless of the amount of net income.

TO HEAD SURVEY OF HISTORIC BUILDINGS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(P)—Appointment of 39 district officers to supervise locally the survey of historic buildings approved by the Civil Works administration was announced today by Secretary Ickes. The purpose is to gain information about historic buildings in all localities.

The designated districts, appointed district officers and the personnel they will have in their offices include: Oregon, Washington—Jameson Parker, Portland—23.

NEW YORK COPS START CLEANUP

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(P)—Spurred to action by warnings to "clean up or get out," uniformed policemen and detectives canvassed speakeasies, cafes, night clubs and known criminal hang-outs, and herded a mob of suspects to police headquarters for the lineup today.

There was no specific order from John F. O'Ryan, the new police commissioner, or any other high official for the roundup. The word was simply passed out by commanding officers. The old detective custom of returning to the station house a few hours after midnight for a long nap was discarded, as was the uniformed man's occasional habit of spending a few hours off post in a warm restaurant or saloon.

SMALLER TRUCKS GET FIVE DOLLAR LICENSE

Of interest to owners of small trucks is the recent ruling of the secretary of state's office that trucks with a combined weight of not over 4,000 pounds will be licensed for five dollars, and will not require "T" plates. This is expected to affect 200 or more pick-up and delivery trucks in Jackson county.
