Two Bridge Events Draw Fine Attendance

The first two parties of a series of benefits planned by the American Legion Auxiliary here, were held yesterday and were attended by many bridge fans, who enjoyed the afternoon.

Mrs. Mark Miller's home was the scene of contract play, where eight tables were arranged and prizes awarded Mrs. Ted GeBauer and Mrs. C. E. Kunz. Tea was served following cards. The committee for the occasion was composed of Mrs. George Coddling, Mrs. Beiva Aiken and Mrs. Miller.

Mrs. Walter Oimschield was hostess to auction players, who made up six tables at her home for dessert bridge. Pastel candles lighted the serving tables, adding a festive note to the occasion. And prizes were awarded Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. Clayborn Conkle. The committee for the afternoon included Mrs. Ed Feldman, Mrs. Lee Garlock and Mrs. Oimschield.

Mrs. Harris Honored at Luncheon Here

Mrs. W. P. Harris of Eugene was the inspiration Wednesday afternoon of a lovely luncheon given by Mrs. Harry Prentice for a number of folk, who knew Mrs. Harris, when she made her home here a short time ago.

There were three tables of cards in play during the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris arrived in Medford Tuesday and remained here until Thursday. They plan to leave Eugene early next month to reside in Portland. When making their home in Medford they had many friends, who welcomed them this week on their all too short stay here.

Training Class Will Attended at Phoenix

The training class on worship, conducted by Rev. W. L. Van Nuy, at Phoenix will be served at noon under the direction of Mrs. B. B. Finch and her committee.

During the afternoon, Mrs. N. C. Chaney, program chairman, will present a one-act play by members of the Radio Study club. Miss Mary Louise McElhose will entertain with a piano solo and Miss Rebecca Chaney with a vocal solo. Mrs. Jack Heyland will give a report of the state Parent-Teacher convention, held recently in Salem.

All friends of education and patrons of the schools are invited to attend the sessions.

Mrs. Warner Presents Interesting Lesson

Mrs. E. N. Warner presented a most interesting lesson on prophecies of Amos, Obediah and Micah at the Tuesday meeting of the Weekly Bible class. A few of the points brought out in her lesson on each were as follows:

"Amos lived in the southern kingdom, but prophesied to the people of the northern kingdom. He indicted six nations—Damascus, Tyrus, Edom, Moab, Ammon and Philistia. Many of his prophecies have been fulfilled, but the case against Israel in the eighth chapter is an indictment against the present age. In this he prophesies a famine, but not a famine of bread, nor a thirst for water, but of hearing the words of the Lord: And they shall wander from sea to sea, and from the north even to the east, they shall run to and fro to seek the word of the Lord, and shall not find it."

"Obediah was the earliest of the prophets and is the shortest book in the Old Testament. He prophesies against Edom and condemns it for its elation over the fall of Jerusalem and the captivity of the whole nation of Israel."

Micah prophesies against Samaria, against the princes and rulers of Israel for their hatred of judgment, and says, "The heads thereof judge for reward, and the priests thereof teach for hire, and the prophets thereof divine for money." He also shows that national sins lead to national downfall. Micah prophesies many of the details of the birth of Christ and of his rejection, as well as of the future Messianic kingdom.

Mrs. Ellen Doran brought the message in song and was accompanied by Miss Joyce Doran.

Dr. and Mrs. Stearns Entertain at Dinner

Dr. and Mrs. R. W. Stearns were hosts last night at a dinner party at their home on East Main street, at which covers were paid for 12.

One word description of Pauline Lord—glibly. A lot of the "Bonsori" mischief at "dams" burble in the grand new restaurant opening everywhere. Mervyn LeRoy's name sounds like a character out of a Michael Arlen novel. Courtney Byley's secretary, Tom Killilea, one of the circus.

Earl Benham's becoming freckles. One of my favorite people—Bob Davis. Rosamond Pinchot suggests Gramercy Park, where she was born. And who is so reminiscent of darkest Russia as that brooding singer Tamara? That reminds me I've been neglecting my brooding lately!

Bartender schools are mushrooming in the manner of Tom Thumb golf courses a while back. One of the most pretentious is on West 43rd street. These behind a 100 foot bar serious minded students take a three weeks course in rudimentary drink mixing, fashioning the multiple concoctions of pre-prohibition. Classes consist of one and a half hour periods, five days a week.

At 55, Barney Fagin is as spry as a man of 50. Forty years ago he was the ace tap-dancer of America and even today shakes a lively jig on those auspicious occasions when he appears at strictly theatrical gatherings. He has the charming grace of the old-timers in contrast to the flippant hoofers of the present generation. In the old days, Fred Stone and other rising young steppers regarded Fagin as their idol.

The man who gives the dandiest impression of George M. Cohan is Frank Otto, a relative by marriage. He usually does a Cohanesque bit at the Lambeth gambols. Most of the Cohan imitators can simulate his loose-gaited bumped-over walk and nasal twang. But few get the real Cohan technique that is not so obvious. Otto does. He has mastered that most pronounced of all Cohanisms, the stretch of the arm as though shooting the cuff, the almost imperceptible weaving and those quick tweaks of the nose at well-timed intervals.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY BY O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Thoughts while strolling: Time back yonder for possum gravy sopping with sweet taters. Charles Harnett, who decides who gets the low auto plate numbers.

Jack Curley, grand old Roman of the amusement promoters, tells of the dice of one of the barby sidewalk salesmen along the library wall on 42d street. He had started his pitch, watching furtively up and down for his Nemesis, the copper. Sales had taken on a hot-cake tempo when suddenly he felt the cold arm of the law on his shoulder. He glanced up to be certain and then sighed to his circle of customers: "Sorry gentlemen, my lease just expired."

Pulton Courier does most of his magazine editing from the winter bleakness of his Cape Cod retreat by teletype. At 3 o'clock every afternoon he is in touch with sub-editors—accepting stories, suggesting revisions and giving other editorial orders. In his relaxing moments he practices his magic and gives voice to his ventriloquist dummy, Ajax.

One of those man-mountain wrestlers dropped at a nearby table at Lindy's the other evening to talk to a group. Finally a gentleman, presumably his manager, came along and touching him on the shoulder said: "All right, Toole, time to be getting along!"

And there is the story of Elizabeth Arden arriving at a party a trifle late because she explained she had just had a facial. And without missing a drop of his poised spoonful of soup Charles Hanson Towne observed: "If you couldn't, who could?" (Copyright, 1934, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

FINANCE CONCERN GETS CITY BOOST

Officers and directors of the Commercial Finance Corporation were gratified in receiving the following publicity in last Sunday's issue of the San Francisco Examiner:

"Commercial Finance Corporation declared a dividend for the last half of 1933 at the rate of 8 per cent per annum on its preferred stock, which amounts to $4 a share.

"Commercial Finance Corporation, a subsidiary of Mercantile Acceptance Corporation of California, has been engaged in the automobile finance business in southern Oregon for the last seven years.

"Payment of this dividend for the last half of 1933 marks the thirteenth consecutive semi-annual dividend paid by the company.

"Earnings for the last half of the year were more than double the preferred dividend rate, due to the large increase in automobile sales in the last six months."

It is unusual for an Oregon financial institution to receive such favorable comment in a California newspaper.

BASKETBALL CLUB SUGGESTS REPLAY

Members of southern Oregon's newest independent basketball five, the Dropsats Athletic club, appear unconcerned over charges made in a signed article in this paper, that their writup of the game between the club quintet and the St. Mary's All-Stars contained inaccuracies.

They caually counter-charged that the game report was as nearly accurate as it was possible to make it under the conditions, with no authorized scorekeeper, timekeeper or referee, and that their version of the outcome could be as reliably accepted as that of their opponents.

The score claimed by St. Mary's was purely as their's was said to have been, and they suggest a replay as the only logical settlement.

Aside from the point that they held no strict accuracy was obtainable, the club players treated the matter facetiously, Jack Boyd, storm center of charges as widely varying as having been the hero of the game, and again of not having even been there, seemed bored by the whole affair and referred to the matter as "juvenile to say the least."

The club players responsible for the disputed report conceded themselves hasty in claiming a win that reflected so little credit even were it possible to authenticate, and, with that reportorial misstep to guide them, pointed out inaccuracies in the statement of the charges against them. The members of the club team admittedly were more amused than concerned by such statements as the All-Stars' self nomination as "Medford's leading basketball team" despite a trouncing from Medford high school's fourth string, and by the startling finale to the charges, which stated that in the second half "St. Mary's academy entered the contest." St. Mary's academy, the Dropsats pointed out, can still be seen at the corner of Eleventh and Holly streets and in any case wouldn't fit into the gymnasium.

WVA VOLUNTEER REPAYS COUNTY FOR FREE BEANS

ROSEBURG, Ore., Jan. 12.—(P)—Douglas county has an unhired road worker.

A Civil Works crew was assigned the first of the week to a project in a remote part of the county. As the workmen began digging along the road, a farmer residing nearby, came trudging down the road, carrying a pick and shovel. He tossed off his coat, and without a word to the foreman or other members of the crew, began digging with the rest.

"Hey, you, where's your card?" demanded the foreman.

"I don't need no card," replied the farmer. "I'm not asking any pay, and you can't stop me from working. This county has been keeping me and my family from starving to death. When we ran out of food the relief office gave us grub, and when we needed clothing, the county gave it to us.

"Maybe now I can pay back part of my debt to the county. There's work to be done and just try and stop me from doing it."

The foreman reported to the local committee today that his unhired, unpaid workman is the best in the crew.
