

CANDIDATES FOR DEPUTY SOUNDED BY SUMMERVILLE

John T. Summerville of Portland, recently named United States marshal for Oregon, is today conferring with candidates in Jackson county for the position of deputy United States marshal for this section.

Summerville, formerly city councilman of Medford, said he would name the seven deputies for the state next week. He was interested in meeting and discussing the office with men in this section, he said, who had made application for the positions, and those who had been recommended to him.

Included among those whom Summerville interviewed were Carl Bowman and John Orth of Medford, and W. R. Bement of Ashland. "I am interested in getting good men to fill these positions," Mr. Summerville said, "and my aim is to make this an alive administration, and the best marshal's administration this state has ever had."

Today, Judge W. H. Canon left by train for Portland to obtain information relative to his appointment this week as land register at Roseburg. Judge Canon will take over the duties some time after the first of the month.

TWO GIRLS FACE DELINQUENT QUIZ

A hearing on the alleged delinquency of Beulah Thompson and Helen Cassidy, 16 year old girls, residents of this city, was underway today before County Judge Earl B. Day of the juvenile court.

The two girls are alleged to have stolen money from purses left in booths at the Bonney Grill, near Gold Hill last Saturday, also to have stolen a coat from the cloak room.

Statements of the girls, made after their detention, show that they attended a dance in this city, met two men, "one 40 and the other 50", and went to the Gold Hill dance. The statement said they never saw the older man before, and knew the younger only by sight.

Dinner Parties in Precede President's Ball

A number of dinner parties are being planned in local society to precede the Birthday Ball for the President, next Tuesday evening, the all-Rogue-River-valley event, planned to make possible this section's participation in the extension of the crusade of the Warm Springs Foundation against infantile paralysis.

The women of the valley, particularly, are showing interest in this affair, which they have never before expressed for a social event, committee members stated yesterday, emphasizing the fact that all who realize the worthy cause to be benefited are overly anxious to insure success for the ball.

This interest has also been expressed by numerous commercial groups, who have generously given of time and service, in preparing for the ball. Three orchestras have volunteered to play for the dance and arrangements have been made to give each a portion of the event.

Other events scheduled earlier in the season for Tuesday night, have been cancelled to enable all to attend the first national party, planned in celebration of a President's birthday, and the first to have as its sole aim the granting of another chance of life to men, women and children afflicted, as President Roosevelt once was, with infantile paralysis.

Miss Pruett Hostess At Dinner Party Miss Margaret Pruett entertained at dinner last evening, honoring her cousin, Bert Caster of Central Point, on the anniversary of his birthday.

Covers were placed for 12 at the table, attractively decorated in pink and green and candle-lighted. Cards were enjoyed following dinner with prizes going to Miss Murrel Hedgepeth, Herbert Gregory, and Irvin Hall.

Those present were: Misses Roberts and Bernice Reames, Ruth and Phyllis Turpin, Murrel Hedgepeth, and Messrs. Harry Eldon, Melvin Hood, Herbert Gregory, Irvin Hall, Oliver Obenchain, the honor guest and the hostess.

RARE LAW POINT INVOLVED IN CASE PUHL VS. HOWARD

The civil suit of Fred Puhl against Louise Howard for money allegedly due for labor and for sums advanced, and for a tractor and threshing machine used in operation of a farm near the Midway highway on Bear creek, was under way in circuit court before Judge James T. Brand of Coos county today.

The suit involves a unique and rare point of law, that a promise of marriage and living in family relationship under the same roof cannot be presumed as an implied promise to pay.

A broken promise of marriage is alleged by both litigants and each charges that a romance was mixed with agriculture—unsuccessfully. Mrs. Howard, through her counsel, Frank T. Newman, said that he had acted as foreman of the farm for 48 months at the "request" of the defendant; that he purchased a tractor and threshing machine, at her request and that the defendant "artificially evaded" the promise to marry.

Mrs. Howard, through her counsel, Frank T. Newman, said that he had acted as foreman of the farm for 48 months at the "request" of the defendant; that he purchased a tractor and threshing machine, at her request and that the defendant "artificially evaded" the promise to marry.

The defense counsel alleged that Mrs. Howard "bought clothes and tobacco and whenever they went to a show paid the way for plaintiff."

Mrs. Howard operated the farm "for 15 years without a tractor, threshing machine or foreman," was another defense claim. It was also stated that Mrs. Howard did the cooking and housework and her share of the field work during busy periods.

The defense further charged that Puhl had told others that he received no pay and expected none, and that the suit was instigated when Mrs. Howard married another.

The amount involved in the action was approximately $5000. Puhl claims he advanced money on promissory notes, paid $1000 for the tractor and has $2400 due for farm labor.

Evangelist Archer is an interesting speaker, clear and convincing in his applications. Friday evening is young people's night and he invites the young people to be present for a special message. Tonight he will speak on "The Hardest Word in the English Language to Pronounce."
