Ye Smudge Pot

The woman named "Mehitabel" who wrote the state highway commission complaining that road workers were without shirts and exposed their whickered wibbones to public gaze, received but formal consideration.

The Oregon delegation in the lower house, all voted for dollar devaluation, proving nothing except that the Oregon delegation knows which side their votes are buttered on.

Gilbert returned to the studio full of enthusiasm. One of the things that had interfered with his earlier efforts towards a comeback had been the difficulty of getting people to look at his pictures.

The initial candidate for governor—Sam Brown of Gervais—announced he will hitch-hike over the state in the course of his campaign. He won't do it, but will get the hitch-hiker vote, on the move, and dormant. This is the nucleus of a fine idea, and should be mandatory, and part of the Constitution. The more walking, the less running.

HAZEL GREEN, Jan. 22—An enjoyable evening was reported by those attending the "Joe Social" at the parlance Friday evening. Games were enjoyed until a late hour. The pastor, Rev. J. H. Wortman, auctioned off the toes, delicious suppers went with the toes. There were a number of surprises. A small sum was realized to apply on shingles used on the parsonage.

The Gleemen boomed and trilled Wed. evng. They sang as one man, and the ensemble was in dress suits, instead of their shirt-sleeves.

C. Von der Hellen, the Wellen country-jake towned yesterday, and filed his declaration of intentions to do some plowing. He is a horny-handed toiler.

"Youthful drinking is on the gain" and from all reports, the country will soon be flooded with juvenile topers. Society and the police are blamed for the condition, though the youths do the drinking. It might as well have been Hoover and the Depression. Nobody knows when the creation of Absorbine, Jr., will stop.

The womenfolks are watching Old Sol out of the corners of their eyes, in anticipation of a new spring hat. A couple of sunny days, and there will be a number of new beauties on the streets. The 1934 hats will lighten the "profile", and "give a shadowy effect". No doubt the shadows will fall heavier where the wrinkles linger the thickest. Immediately after the selection of the spring hat, the spring housecleaning starts. This always causes the men to start digging a garden, to get out of beating a carpet.

Wiglette Ashpole was down to the butcher shop Tues. with his commanding officer. He has reached the stage of life where he is always trying to steal a watch, or pull off his paw's nose.

A number of the country roads are showing the effects of economy, and are no better than their worst stretches.

Help the Children

TICKETS for the "Roosevelt ball", to be held here next Tuesday night are now available to the public. There should be a brisk sale, for all the proceeds from the affair will go to a worthy project—the fight against the ravages of infantile paralysis.

There is nothing partisan about this event, which is to be held at the same time, in all parts of the country. It is sponsored by prominent members of both major parties, President Roosevelt's birthday being selected, because he was a victim of the disease, and one of the projects which will be benefitted, the Warm Springs sanitarium in Georgia, is chiefly responsible for his amazing recovery.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has agreed to deliver a radio message during the progress of the commemoration, which will also be in the nature of a birthday message to the American people.

The chief beneficiaries of this event, will be the children of the nation, for they are the chief sufferers from this dread disease. Medford children have already been treated at Warm Springs, with gratifying results, and the more successful this ball is, the more children in this state and every other, WILL be benefitted.

The proceeds of the ball do not go to Warm Springs directly. The fund will be placed in the hands of the president, to be used in the fight against infantile paralysis as he sees fit. Certainly a more worthy effort could scarcely be conceived. So buy your tickets early.

The Press Agent Erred

WE apologize to the National Geographic. The advance copy of the Oregon article contained no mention of Medford, Jacksonville, pears, or the Rogue River valley, but the article as printed in the magazine DOES.

There is a picture of a pear orchard and the valley is properly mentioned as a large producer of fruit, and an attractive place in which to live.

Sorry! We would suggest however that the next time a resume of an article is sent to the press for PUBLICATION, ALL salient features of the article be included. Then even a supersensitive "local pride" will not be disturbed, and approval of an excellent publicity article will be universal.

Good News

THE announcement that the C.C.C. camps will be continued until March 31st, 1935 is good news for Medford and Southern Oregon.

There are about 2000 young men in these camps, with this city as a distributing center. They are not only doing good work for this section of the state, but are having good done for themselves.

During such a period of time, there will be constructive work done in the forests hereabouts, which will pay steady dividends for all the people through the generations to come. Many young men who well might have become moral and physical casualties of the depression, will be returned to civil life as good citizens, at the end of that time.

The N. R. A. Is Upheld

THE ruling of Federal Judge McNary, against the Dallas Lumber company, in the first test case of the N.R.A. in this state, will go far toward clearing the atmosphere throughout the coast, and upholding the principles of the New Deal, throughout the country.

This lumber company signed the national lumber code. But when the shoe started to pinch, it balked. The company refused to curtail hours of operation and thus hold down production, for it maintained that such action was discriminatory, and would throw men out of work.

There was some truth in this claim. Business had started to improve. The Dallas company was in a position to do more business and employ more men at longer hours, than the N.R.A. allowed.

But the company had SIGNED the code. That code was not designed for the Dallas company, or any other ONE company; but for the lumber industry as a whole. To prevent complete demoralization of that industry, curtailment of production was essential.

If one company were allowed to produce all the lumber it wished, the same privilege would have to be extended to every other company. Such action obviously would destroy the N.R.A. entirely, and put the industry right back where it started from.

We can't have our cake and eat it. We can't maintain prices by eliminating over-production, and then allow one unit of the industry to turn out and sell all the lumber it can produce.

The entire recovery program is based upon the GREATEST GOOD FOR THE GREATEST NUMBER. It involves some sacrifice but that sacrifice is essential to its success,—it is also essential to the economic survival of the industry as a whole.

These principles have been sustained by the federal court. It means that those who sign an industrial code and then refuse to abide by it can be forced to abide by it, by court decree.

This is as it should be.

THE PHYSIOLOGY OF FAT.

Every one knows that oil or fat is a better fuel than potato or white of egg. Combustion of a given weight, say a gram (about one-third of a teaspoonful) of fat or oil yields 9.4 calories from a gram of starch or sugar and 4 calories from a gram of egg white or protein. (as in cheese or lean meat).
