WILSON ON TRIAL AS DRUNK DRIVER

Trial of Lee M. Wilson of Grants Pass, charged with drunken driving was underway today before Justice of the Peace William R. Coleman. The justice court moved to the circuit court room for the trial. V. J. Emerick, Charles Butterfield, Thomas Waterman, James D. Bell, Dee Territt and Charles R. Gay were picked as a jury in the case.

Thirteen witnesses were sworn in at the opening of the trial, including eye-witnesses and doctors. A number were from Rogue River.

Wilson, a well known resident of Grants Pass, is charged with crashing into an auto driven by H. F. Barrett of this city, in the late afternoon of Sunday, January 20. The state alleges that Wilson was intoxicated at the time.

Following the smash both cars skidded into the ditch a short distance from the bridge at the town of Rogue River. No one was injured.

The defense is represented by Attorney George M. Roberts of this city, and the state by Deputy District Attorney George W. Nielsen.

DOLLAR DEVALUING CLEARS PATHWAY TO CREDIT GROWTH

the foreign exchange market. Secondly, there is the unknown quantity of what action foreign authorities may take to defend their positions.

Nearer Gold Standard.

The new position of the dollar places it more closely to the old gold standard than the present position of sterling is, foreign exchange authorities say. The old gold standard, permitting the sale or purchase of international gold at a fixed price, places the parity of exchange in terms of other currencies under automatic control. For instance, if the dollar holds well above its new gold parity, it will be profitable for banks to ship gold from Paris to London. This would theoretically continue until enough dollars were sold and francs purchased in paying for the movement of gold, to lift the ratio of the franc to the dollar so close to the parity that the operation no longer would be profitable. In case the dollar should decline below its parity with the franc, the federal reserve might sell gold for exports until the reverse took place.

Problem for France.

If the flow of capital toward the United States becomes extraordinarily large, it may much more than absorb the offerings in the London market, and make such inroads into the reserves of the Bank of France that the bank would cease to sell gold freely, which would be tantamount to quitting the international gold standard. In the belief of some monetary authorities, that would cause such international monetary chaos that it would quickly bring an international stabilization agreement.

NEIL WOULD CONTINUE ON DEMO COMMITTEE

Jesse Neil of Bellview, pioneer resident, who has served as Democratic precinct committeeman for that precinct for many years, today filed his declaration of intentions to again seek the office. He is generally elected without opposition. Neil is the second candidate to file for spring primary. The other was also a Democrat—Robert E. Bell, also of Bellview, who seeks the sheriff's office.

Filings for nominations for the primary closes April 3.

PORTLAND HOLDS BUTTER PRICE UP

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Butter prices were being maintained here despite the fact that Portland was today one of the highest markets in the world. Local make was not as heavy but out-state receipts were heavier.

There was no change in the general egg market situation for the day. Price shading was continued as it has been for some time past, but the chief cutting was by outsiders.

All lines of chickens were showing a good call along the wholesale way and at practically the same values that have been ruling for several weeks past. Dressed turkeys were steady.

PUBLIC INVITED TO C. P. GRANGE DEBATE ON TAX

An open debate on the Sales Tax to be staged by Grange members, exclusively, will be featured at the meeting of the Central Point Grange tomorrow night at 8 o'clock, and the public is invited to come and hear both sides of the question.

The lecture hour, scheduled for that time, will be devoted to the measure, the affirmative side of which will be presented by Mrs. Alex Sparrow and Prof. H. P. Jewett. The negative will be upheld by Victor Bursell and Arden Tyrrell.

The regular Grange meeting will follow the debate in order that the people, who are not Grangers, may come for the open session and then leave for home, if they desire.

The recent tendency in local Granges has been a definite move toward bringing both sides of the tax question before the members, which is in keeping with a previously established custom regarding all measures. The debate scheduled for Friday at the Central Point Grange will probably be followed by numerous ones in other sections of the county.

MAYOR DISPLAYS 1913 CARTON OF LOCAL INTEREST

An interesting cartoon, published in the Medford Sun, back in 1913, was brought to light today from Mayor E. M. Wilson's scrapbook, which came true. For the picture is of W. W. Elfert. With long scissors in hand, the local cartoonist, Tyler-Smith, pictured him cutting a mayoralty suit from a piece of cloth. The caption read, "Medford's Next Mayor," and Mr. Elfert was.

In the same clipping from the newspaper a city and county directory is given, which carries the names of many people, who are still prominent in city and county affairs. W. H. Canon, recently named to the federal land office was mayor; his council was composed of J. E. Watt, J. W. Mitchell, V. J. Emerick, W. M. Campbell, G. H. Miller and J. T. Summerville, who is now United States marshal in Oregon.

Gus H. Samuels, present city treasurer, was holding the same office then. J. F. Hittson was chief of police and Porter J. Neff, city attorney; George Tanna, superintendent of the water works; Olen Arnsperger, engineer; W. P. Baker, street commissioner; Eugene Amman, fire chief; F. H. Hamilton, plumbing inspector and Dr. R. W. Stearns, health officer.

In the list of county officials appeared P. M. Calkins as circuit judge; E. E. Kelly, prosecuting attorney; W. H. von der Hellen, state senator, and John Carlin, representative.

Oswald West was then governor of the state and was announcing plans to introduce a widow's pension law at the next session of the legislature. All this information was carried on the back of the two-column cartoon.
