preceded by 15 years as associate editor of the Christian Science periodicals, prior to which she had been a member of the board of lecturership. She had also served on the Bible Lesson-Committee. In her resignation, Mrs. Knott said she had a "desire for leisure in which to gain more of the spirit of Christian Science, and to aid others in doing the same in larger measure. This does not imply any lack in my experience in Christian Science, for the assurance of the power of divine truth as gained from the Bible and the inspired teaching of Mrs. Eddy has become a certainty. I would, however, press on to realize more fully the love that 'never failth' (I Cor. 13:8)."

Her successor on the board of directors is Mrs. Nelva E. Ritchie, C. S. B., late of Sewickley, Penn., who is well and favorably known among Christian Scientists the world over as a Christian Science lecturer and formerly field representative of The Christian Science Publishing Society, giving talks to church members, both in this country and abroad. Mrs. Ritchie also comes to her new work with experience as a Christian Science practitioner and teacher.

CCC EDUCATIONAL PLANS OUTLINED FOR EARLY START

With announcement by the federal government that educational classes are to be conducted in all of the CCC companies throughout the country, J. B. Griffing of San Bernardino, appointed in charge of the camps of the Ninth corps area, has already outlined plans for the work, according to information received at district headquarters in Medford.

Mr. Griffing is a graduate of Drake university, has a master's degree from Columbia university and has taken graduate work at the University of Southern California.

All educational advisors will be selected by the officers in Washington, D. C., and local headquarters detachment will have no part in naming the instructors.

Not waiting for the educational plans to get underway, various camps in the district have started classes of instruction already. At the Rand Ranger station camp there is a class in aeronautics, in which ten students are enrolled.

Budd Shannon is instructor, with the theory of flight and aerodynamics being studied by the men. Model plane kits will be used and the study of radio is to be included in the course.

At Camp Cape Sebastian, on the Oregon coast, John Hodge is conducting a journalism and short story writing class, while Mr. Buford is instructing a group in natural history and science. P. J. Hart, at the same camp is giving an elementary course in French and L. N. Foy, a member of the Medford Gleemen, has organized a Glee club there.

Lee M. Wilson of Grants Pass, charged with drunken driving.

The jury selected by Justice W. R. Coleman returned the verdict after about 10 minutes deliberation, according to those in the circuit court room, where the trial was conducted.

With the pronouncement of the verdict, one of the jury members asked of the judge why they couldn't keep the bottle, which they had taken to the jury room as evidence presented by the state.

"I don't see why you can't if there is no objection." Judge Coleman was quoted as telling the jurymen. The justice, however, declined to take a drink, explaining to the jury that if any trouble should come up over drinking in the courthouse, he wouldn't be involved.

No water was available in the court room (the plumbers having carelessly forgotten that even jurymen might sometimes get thirsty) so with the bottle in their possession, the six good men and true filed from the court room, in search of a chaser.

Deaths from influenza during 1933 were nearly twice as many in London and the great towns of England and Wales as in 1932, the total being 11,434 compared with 5732.
