FLUHRER BAKERY INTRODUCES NEW SPUN BREAD HERE

Spinning two strands of dough together is the basis of a new process which has turned the methods of bread baking topsy turvy. Many superlatives in the finished product have caused leading bakers throughout the nation to scrutinize the product with a great deal of interest and some of them have already adopted the new method.

It is therefore of particular interest to southern Oregon consumers to note that in this issue there is an announcement of the fact that this new type of bread will be offered to this community by Fluhrer Bakeries, Inc. of this city.

This firm which recently completed the erection of a new modern plant at Sixth and Holly streets and distributes its products by daily truck service to dealers throughout southern Oregon and northern California, is very enthusiastic in regard to the new "spun" process.

In an interview yesterday, Wm. H. Fluhrer, manager of the firm, said, "We believe that this is one of the most important changes in the baking industry in the past few years. It is possible to make a loaf of bread by this method which has all the ideal qualities of all types of bread combined into one. Herebefore either flavor or texture was sacrificed for the other. By this new peculiar braiding method it is possible to get a diagonal texture of unusual density without the loss of the very important item of flavor. We are very happy over the prospects of this new loaf which we will introduce Monday."

Couple Jailed On Morals Complaint

DAVIS BOUND ON MANN ACT PLEA

A charge of violation of the Mann act was filed against Edwin Davis, 38, recently returned by state police to Medford from Yreka, when Edgar Backus, special investigating agent of the United States department of justice, appeared before United States Commissioner Victor Tenenwald yesterday. The complaint charges the man with unlawfully and feloniously transporting Betty Audrea Pous, alias Betty Smith, 22, between Yreka and Medford.

The defendant waived preliminary hearing and was bound over to the federal grand jury with bond placed at $3000. Miss Pous was held as a material witness with bond placed at $1000. Both were returned to the custody of Deputy United States Marshal Cal Wells.

Trene Morrow, 33, of Medford is being held in the county jail by the state police in connection with the case. No charges have been placed against her, as it is expected department of justice officials will return here Monday. Miss Morrow will probably be charged with violation of the Mann act, having allegedly conspired with Davis.
