BUILDING REVIVAL HAILED AS THREE FINE HOMES GO UP

A. C. Abrams strolled out Sunday on East Main street as far as the Highcroft addition on Siskiyou Heights and says he noted on the way a substantial modern dwelling to be built of stone, in course of erection at the intersection of Main and Willamette streets, for Dr. Robert E. Lee, optician here.

"Diagonally across the street," continued Mr. Abrams, "a fine modern home has started for S. A. Kroschel, former owner of the Jackson county creamery.

"Farther out on Main street on a portion of the James Owen tract, another substantial residence is under construction for Dr. Jane Rochelle, a newcomer from Portland.

"Thus we perceive," concluded the well known local resident, "the start, on this street alone of a genuine building revival that testifies to the confidence of investors in the future growth of greater Medford."
