

Local and Personal

Reter in North—Raymond Reter of the Pinnacle Fruit company is transacting business in Portland this week.

Coggin in Klamath—Wesley Coggin spent yesterday visiting in Klamath Falls.

Mrs. Hay In—Mrs. Dick Hay of Central Point was a business caller and shopper in Medford this morning.

From Klamath Falls—Mr. and Mrs. Ferris Gilford of Klamath Falls were visitors in Medford Monday.

Undergoes Operation—C. D. Hemphill of Holly street underwent a major operation Tuesday at the Community hospital.

Shoppers Today—Among shoppers here today from neighboring towns are Laura Burson of Phoenix and Mrs. L. Hatt of Central Point.

Here from San Francisco—Wet McDonald of San Francisco is here this week, visiting her mother, Mrs. C. W. McDonald, who has been ill.

Down from Prospect—John Holmer was a visitor in Medford yesterday from Prospect. Mrs. Mary Grieve was also a caller from the resort.

Mrs. Baker Visits—Mrs. Sophia Baker of Grants Pass was in Medford yesterday visiting and attending to business matters.

Kroschel Goes North—S. A. Kroschel is leaving for Portland, where he will be in a medical hospital for several days.

Miss Burkhardt Guest Here—Miss Mary Burkhardt, formerly of the Clarendon shop here and now of Medford, was a week-end guest of Miss Virginia Roy—Grants Pass Courier.

Beagles Visit Here—Mr. and Mrs. William Beagle visited friends in Medford Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Beagle recently returned from San Francisco.

Webb Clark Home—Webb Clark returned yesterday from Portland, where he underwent an operation a short time ago. He told friends that he was feeling much better.

Inspecting Camps—Bill Jones, road foreman for the Rogue River national forest, is spending this week inspecting Elk Creek and South Fork of the Rogue CCC camps.

"Grandma" Howlett In—Mrs. S. E. Howlett, known to friends throughout the valley as "Grandma," was in Medford yesterday, shopping for the first time in several months. She came in with her daughter, Hattie.

Gets Building Permit—A building permit was issued by the city today to Nellie V. Scovell of 618 Beatty street for construction of an addition to her residence, at the cost of $175.

Mr. Cummings Returns—William Cummings has returned to his home on the Midway road, having been in the San Francisco University hospital. He is reported getting along nicely.

Ash Wednesday Service—Ash Wednesday services will be held tonight at 7:45 o'clock at the Evangelical Lutheran church at Fourth and Oakdale. The subject of the sermon will be "Lent."

From Medford—Wendell Andrews, formerly of this city and now residing in Medford, and Andy Smith of Medford were business visitors in Grants Pass Tuesday—Grants Pass Courier.

Foy in Grants Pass—L. E. Foy of Medford, recently appointed manager of the state liquor store in that city, and Jim Norton of Galesville, were included among the business visitors in Grants Pass Monday—Grants Pass Courier.

Attend Meeting—At the district sales managers' meeting, conducted in Grants Pass last evening, Mr. and Mrs. George Gates, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Gates, Mr. and Mrs. Hobart Price and Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Miller, all of Medford, attended.

White on Trip—Assistant Supervisor Norman C. White of the Rogue River national forest service spent yesterday at the OGC sub-camp located at Trail, and also at Butte Falls, attending to matters pertaining to telephone construction near the Crater Lake highway.

Returns South—Having visited her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Mason, Miss Verna Towle left by train Monday evening for her home in San Francisco, having arrived here Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Mason and Miss Towle visited Crater Lake on Sunday.

CWA Injuries—Two CWA employees were treated in this city Monday for minor injuries sustained while working. Anton Schueeler of Prospect suffered an injury to his hand when a tool fell upon it, and H. C. Childers, workman in the Vannoy district, received treatment for an infected thumb—Grants Pass Courier.

Inspects Telephone Lines—Supervisor Karl L. Janouch of the Rogue River national forest yesterday afternoon inspected the telephone construction work at the Elk Creek side camp, located at Trail, and also at Butte Falls. He reported six and a half miles of line completed out of Trail, and three miles out of Butte Falls toward Medford.

Composes Song—"He's the Man" is the title of the song for which the words and music were written by Fred Alton Haight, in honor of President Roosevelt. He has also written a special set of lyrics adaptable to the Oregon Diamond Jubilee, to be introduced by Raymond Lageson over KMED Thursday morning at 11:30 o'clock. Mr. Haight has requested that persons listening in forward comments to him.

Searching for Woman—Information has been forwarded to Postmaster Frank DeSouza that a sum of money has been left to Ruth Emily Cain, providing she can be located. Ruth Emily Cain, formerly Ruth Emil Scott, has been missing since 1926, and was thought to have resided at one time in Medford. She was born in Spokane Wash. March 14, 1899, and was five feet, six inches in height and weighed 140 pounds. Mrs. Cain had light hair and blue eyes.

Pears Yesterday
NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—(U.S.A.) Pears auction market: 5 cars arrived; 3 Oregon unloaded; 2 cars on track. Oregon D'Anjou: 1,491 boxes, extra fancy, $2.22-3.05, average $2.45; 2,769 boxes fancy, $2.55-3.05, average $2.65. Washington Nellis: 720 boxes, $1.95-1.60, average $2.65. Washington D'Anjou: $11 boxes, extra fancy, $2.35-2.51, average $2.42.

San Francisco Butterfat
SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 14.—(U.S.A.) First grade butterfat 26, f.o.b. San Francisco.

Warner Baxter Heads Craterian Cast

Warner Baxter, one of the screen's most popular stars, returns to Medford in his latest picture "As Husband Go" at the Craterian theatre for today and tomorrow. He plays the role of the husband of Helen Vinson, whose trip to Paris settled her not only new gowns, but also a new affair of the heart. But by making a friend of the "boy friend," Baxter succeeds in breaking up the affair.

Warner Oland, the screen's greatest impersonator of wily Chinamen, has made a complete about-face and is shown as "hippy" in this picture.

do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

KMED Broadcast Schedule

Thursday

A. M.—
8:00—Breakfast News.
8:05—Musical Clock.
8:15—Peerless Parade.
8:30—Shopping Guide.
9:00—Friendship Circle Hour.
9:30—Morning Melody.
9:45—Meeting of Martha Meade Society.
10:00—Musical Notes.
10:30—The Pet Program.
10:45—Three Voices.
11:00—Grants Pass Hour.
11:15—Marching Along.
11:45—Tone Pictures.

P. M.—
12:00—Mid-Day Revue.
12:10—Chamber of Commerce News.
12:15—Modern Motoring Bulletins.
12:30—News Flashes, Mail Tribune.
12:30—Popularity.
1:00—Varieties.
2:00—Classified Edition of the Air.
3:00—Songs for Everyday.
3:30—KMED Program Review.
3:35—Dreaming the Waltz Away.
4:00—Rhythmic Cocktail.
4:30—Masterworks Program.
5:00—Interlude.
5:15—Hito Sereaders.
5:30—Popular Parade.
5:45—News Digest, Mail Tribune.
6:00—Medford Theater Guide.
6:15—Dinner-Dance Program.
6:45—Berrydale on the Air.
7:00—Traumer.
7:30 to 8:00—Moderne.

New 1934 wall paper now on display. K. D. Ross Co., 22 S. Grape.

The maharajah is shot. Before the train reaches Bombay he captures the killer.

Edmund Lowe does a fine job as Inspector Dyke. Onslow Stevens and the beautiful Shirley Grey supply the love interest. John Davidson is excellent as the Eurasian crook.

Much of the fascination of the picture lies in the bizarre setting, a new background for a mystery story.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor, a maharajah, an American miser with a fortune in rubies, an aide to the governor who fears the loss of his position, a scientist with a live cobra in a suitcase, a supposed Russian spy who is quite beautiful, the governor's wife, and an Eurasian crook, to mention only a few.

The story, written by L. G. Blochman, who is well versed on life in teeming and mysterious India, has to do with the "Bombay Mail," a fast express train racing from Calcutta to Bombay, and the people on that train. These include a much-deliated and feared British colonial governor,