Personal Health Service

By William Brady, M.D.

Signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene not to disease diagnosis or treatment will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed.

Having been thin for many years I tried the insulin treatment, reports a Los Angeles lady. I weighed 96 pounds when I started—

Well, anyway, there is always hope when they run over 95 pounds—

I gained eight pounds. Then I stopped the treatment because too much of the added weight accumulated on my abdomen.

On is right. Now that nudism has become an issue, says Dr. Brady, the outlook is favorable for the admission of belly to good English. Belly is the anterior wall of the abdomen, and that is precisely where the bulk of the fat accumulates in a corpulent person.

My husband, continues the correspondent, also gained weight under insulin treatment. He weighed only 135 pounds when he began treatment. He is 5 feet, 11 inches tall. He gained 25 pounds in 28 days.

Our family physician taught me how to administer the insulin, thus saving a considerable amount of money. It has been a year since I took the treatment and I have lost only two pounds of the weight gained. We both wish to express our gratitude for the suggestion—Mrs. E. W. McC.

When I began urging insulin treatment purely for the purpose of enabling underweight persons to accumulate needed flesh a good many readers who consulted their physicians about it met with the old refrain. The doctors who had not kept well informed on the progress of medicine believed that the administration of insulin to a person who has no diabetes would be "dangerous." But nearly all of the brethren have caught on now, and thousands of former holy frights are bigger and better and happier, I'm sure.

Insulin treatment has been employed with much satisfaction in the treatment of the undernutrition that occurs in pulmonary tuberculosis. The patients not only gain weight, but gain vitality and strength from insulin treatment.

Every unit of insulin a patient receives enables the patient to metabolize or utilize so much nutriment

As a gag, Paul Whiteman slipped into the orchestra pit where his wife's beautiful niece, Dorothy Atkinson, is playing, and performed on the bass fiddle for the rendition of the musical selections. But the contagion of the players' amusement so spread to the audience when the bandman was recognized that a sudden burst of applause almost disrupted the show.

THE late Dr. Frank Crane, who mastered languages as a hobby, had occasion to write a very erudite letter to William Hayes Ward, editor of the old Independent, and put it in perfect Greek. Hayes replied in Latin, whereupon Crane came back in perfect German. Hayes then wrote in French, which was answered in Spanish and thought he could choke off the battledore and shuttlecock with a letter in Italian. But Crane was thorough. He came back in Hebrew, and the curtain fell.

which without the aid of insulin the patient might not be able to utilize. That's all there is to it.

Any doctor who is qualified to practice medicine knows how much insulin to give and how to instruct the patient so that there shall be no untoward effects in any circumstance.

It is the usual plan to give from 10 to 20 units two or three times a day at first, and regulate the dosage subsequently according to the results in the individual case.

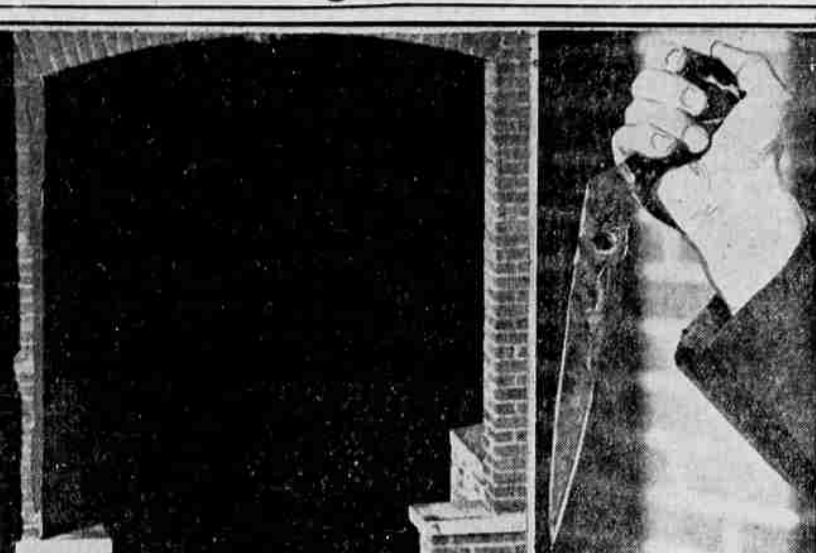

The insulin treatment for underweight is particularly suitable for younger persons who are too fatigued or too fastidious about their eating. It gives them a better appetite.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. Ten Pounds in Eight Weeks. Eight weeks ago I sent for your "Little Lessons" on "Constipation Habit" and "Guide to Right Feeding."

Answer—Pruritus is a term meaning itching without visible cause. If there is a state like eczema it is not just pruritus. I am glad to send you a monograph on pruritus to any one who asks for it and incloses stamped addressed envelope. Many are annoyed by bath pruritus, following the wet wash. Why get all wet? The little wash is merely a habit, and has little to do with cleanliness. (Copyright, 1934, John F. Dille Co.)

Where Washington Convicts Rioted

Five convicts and a guard were killed when 30 prisoners in the Washington state penitentiary turned out their ways in an attempt to cut their way to freedom with butcher knives and improvised weapons on Lincoln's birthday.

The AAA was commended for its present policy of vigorous enforcement of licenses. The dairy group urged congress to adopt an excise tax of 5 cents a pound on imported fats and oils in addition to the 5-cent tax contemplated under the dairy production control plan.

Comment on the Day's News By FRANK JENKINS

IN THIS newspaper the other day, you read this paragraph: "General amnesty was granted today to prisoners throughout Japan because of rejoicing over the birth of a son and heir to the emperor and the empress."

BECAUSE of the birth of a little crown prince, the people are so happy they turn all the prisoners loose—for that is what "granting general amnesty" means. The prisoners loosed, presumably, include convicted criminals, who will now be free to start out preying on the public again.

Legislators are talking about ultimate reorganization of the CWA, CCC and other relief agencies on permanent lines to care for the one to two million men who are normally out of work even in good times.

They are assuming that Mr. Roosevelt will not hand the relief problem back to those community agencies which handled it before the existing emergency.

Light Fish Catch Reported SEATTLE.—(UP)—B. E. Brennan, state director of fisheries, reported the fishing catch this season was unusually light. Light runs of salmon and halibut were given as the reasons. The pack this year was off about 200,000 cases.

FRUIT CODE WORTH TEN MILLIONS TO NORTHWEST ZONE

Scherer Gives Co-Op Council Startling Evidence of Season's Success—AAA Is Given Commendation

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 15.—(AP)—The policy that all permanent laws affecting agriculture should be so written that farmers will not be deprived nor relieved of the responsibility of managing their own farms, was affirmed in one of several resolutions adopted here late Wednesday by the Oregon Co-operative Council.

Another resolution which would have commended Max Gehlhar, state director of agriculture, for his stand in the recent butter code controversy, died in committee.

Estimates place the value of the fruit code at around $10,000,000 this year for the northwest apple, pear and prune growers. It was declared at the co-operative meeting by Paul Scherer of Medford, president of Northwest Fruit Industries, Inc.

The co-operative council observed by resolution that "the administration of the production control features of the agricultural adjustment act has not yet passed out of the experimental stage," and recommended that "no law affecting agriculture designed to be permanent should be enacted as amendments to the agricultural adjustment act."

The AAA was commended for its present policy of vigorous enforcement of licenses. The dairy group urged congress to adopt an excise tax of 5 cents a pound on imported fats and oils in addition to the 5-cent tax contemplated under the dairy production control plan.

COFFEE, COAL COSTLY; WHISKEY CHEAP IN 1934

UNIONTOWN, Pa.—(UP)—Coffee and coal were almost as expensive a century ago as they are today but whiskey could be bought for 8 cents a quart.

Frequent sales of "white whiskey" for 8 cents a quart, or 6 1/2 cents a pint, were recorded in a ledger from the general store at Adamsburg, Westmoreland county, Pennsylvania. A year sheet from the ledger, dated 1834, is owned by Edward Smith, Uniontown.

Flight 'o Time

(Medford and Jackson County History from the Files of The Mail Tribune of 20 and 10 Years Ago)

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY February 15, 1924. (It was Saturday.) Five thousand six hundred ten inquiries received about Medford.

Circuit court jury, out all night, is unable to agree on verdict in case in which man was charged with being drunk on streets of Eagle Point. M. J. Norris, foreman, asks bailiff for 11 breakfasts and a bale of hay.

Stockmen protest establishment of a bear reserve in Crater Lake park, claiming "stock will suffer."

Henry Mackey has recovered from a severe cold, and is improving rapidly. Wood shortage is relieved by arrival of four flat cars of cordwood from Glendale.

Science shows that material value of a man is 98 cents. Fall grain is showing fine in the Sams Valley district.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY February 15, 1914. (It was Sunday.) Times improve, and the outlook is bright, says President Wilson in address.

Aviator Christofferson flies from San Francisco to Los Angeles, and "Pacific coast is aghast."

Will G. Steel to move to Medford to be near the Crater Lake park. Grand jury investigates violation of the Blue Sky law in these parts.

Possibilities of irrigation in valley attract wide attention. West Side livery stable is remodeled and made sanitary, and reduces charges for horse and buggy. "Take your girl for a ride, only 75 cents per evening."

Wig Ashpole returns from Princeton where he went to buy a herd of Herefords, but found them too poor a grade.

'LEGGER UNDERSELLS STATE; MAKES PROFIT

AKRON, O.—(UP)—An "inside" on the still remaining possibilities for bootleg liquor profit was revealed here in police court.

"I pay $7 for five gallons," explained John Satterwhite, as he pleaded guilty to a liquor possession charge, "then I sell it for 40 cents a pint." Legal liquor here is selling at from $1.50 to $4 a pint.

Satterwhite was fined $100 and costs and lodged in the county jail awaiting payment.

GLAM WINS DUEL AND SEA GULL IS DROWNED

DUNBURY, Mass.—(UP)—A duel to the death between a clam and a sea gull was won by the clam. Prof. O. U. Rainwater, naturalist, found the sea gull dead from drowning. The clam's shell closed over its beak. Attempting to cut the muscle that closes the clam shell, the gull had inserted its beak, and the clam closed over the bird's beak, pulling it down and causing the gull to drown.
