

DINKENS FUNERAL 2 P. M. THURSDAY AT CONGER HOME

James P. Dinkens of Beagle, who knew the southern Oregon hills as children know their alphabet, passed away Saturday morning, February 17, 1934, at the age of 69 years, following a heart attack. He had but recently recovered from a case of pneumonia.

Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at two o'clock, from the Conger funeral home. The last rites will be in charge of the I. O. O. F. lodge, of which deceased was a member for 32 years. His home lodge was in the Iona, Calif. chapter.

Jim Dinkens of Beagle was a picturesque Jackson county figure, whose reputation was state-wide, because of editorial comment written by Ben Hur Lammiman of the Portland Oregonian, glorifying his quaint philosophy of life, and feats with rod and gun. He had an intimate knowledge of wild life, and enjoyed to talk to birds and beasts and flowers, he knew firsthand.

He was an entertaining storyteller, and in his way, he was naturalized, possessed a wide knowledge that did not come from books. He was a friend of many men and viewed the world with smiling cheerfulness.

Jim Dinkens was born October 24, 1869, in the mountain country near the West Virginia-Tennessee state line. He was married December 4, 1893, at Hamilton, Mo., to Ruth A. Davis.

His wife died 16 years ago. His own last rites will be held upon the sixteenth anniversary of her passing.

Three daughters—Mrs. Roy Buckingham of this city, Mrs. Stephen Marzich of Portland, and Mrs. George P. Coltrin of Taft, Calif., one son—Wallace W. Dinkens of Beagle, seven grandchildren, and four great-grandchildren, mourn him in the immediate family circle.

Jim Dinkens had been a resident of this county since 1906, and was a blacksmith by trade. He moved to his ranch at Beagle, a score of years ago. From there he led many hunting and fishing parties. Part of each recent year he spent at Union Creek.

Advancing years and ill-health failed to dim his love of the open spaces, and a rugged, ruddy build and constitution stood him in good stead to his last illness. Up to Saturday morning, he was in apparent good health as a man of his age could be, following an attack of pneumonia. He was stricken shortly after eight o'clock Saturday morning. Death came shortly before noon.

He was widely known in this city and the county, and among tourists who make yearly visits to southern Oregon.

ZINC PROVES AID HEALTH OF TREES

The health of trees affected with "little leaf" or rosette may be greatly improved by treating them with zinc sulphate. Such have been the findings of experiment stations both California and Oregon, according to the statement of Oregon Agent L. P. Wilcox.

"Little leaf," or rosette affected trees have leaves that are small in size and show a yellow streaked or mottled appearance. Die-back of terminal growth from season to season is common. The exact cause of such behavior is not known, but health improvement has been obtained by a soil treatment with zinc sulphate.

The method of applying this material is as follows: Prepare a trench surrounding the sick tree from one to two feet distant from the trunk and deep enough to expose small roots; this will be approximately one foot in depth. Apply five to ten pounds of zinc sulphate in the bottom of such trench and cover. Application may be made any time during the growing period of the tree, but preferably just prior to growth activity in the spring.

One treatment will influence the tree for a period of two or three years, at which time the process may be repeated.

Frank Farrells Visit Friend in East Before Return

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Farrell, who returned Saturday from a five weeks' stay in Washington, D. C., visited a number of friends in the capital and other eastern cities before starting back to the west. In Washington they were much entertained by the Edward C. Kellys, who are now living there, and by Congressman James W. Mott and Mrs. Mott, Senator Frederick W. Steiwer and Mrs. Steiwer.

They brought greetings today to all the Kellys' Medford friends and stated that their stay in Washington, because of the Oregonians there, had been much more pleasant than their highest expectations would permit them to anticipate before leaving Medford.

They were guests at a number of dancing parties at the Hotel Shoreham and enjoyed dinner on several occasions with the Kellys at the Russian Troika, a night club, Russian in atmosphere, menu and entertainment, which proved very colorful and invitingly different to Oregonians.

From Washington, the Farrells went to Springfield, Mass., to visit Mrs. Farrell's old home and were welcomed there by many friends. The visitation, which often comes with a return to the old home, was extremely absent, Mrs. Farrell stated this morning and she enjoyed her stay in New England thoroughly. They also visited in New York, Buffalo and in Kansas City, where Mrs. Farrell also formerly lived, before returning to Oregon, where they were glad to find spring weather prevailing after enduring many days of zero temperature.

The Porter J. Neffs, who arrived in Washington before their departure in about a week, they stated, Mrs. Neff is guest of her sister while in the capital.

What the Girl Scouts Are Doing

By Beth Gillings Valentine parties were the main interest of some of the troops last week. Miss Vera Humphrey, captain of Troop 7, made Valentine candy for her Scouts, who met last Monday. Besides the party the Scouts studied Lincoln's Gettysburg address. Virginia and Mary Beth Bradford were invited with their Tenderfoot pins, and Mary Frances Holroyd and Helen Thompson passed their Tenderfoot tests.

Troop 3 has a new scribe—Mary Lou Gerber. This troop, which meets at the Howard school, also had a Valentine party, when it met last Wednesday. The meeting night has been changed from Thursday to Wednesday. On Saturday afternoon a long Court of Honor was held at the home of the new captain, Mrs. Hauk.

Mrs. R. C. Van Velsdonk is going to be the new captain of Troop 5. She attended the meeting of Troop 7 on Monday, and helped take charge of the Troop 5 meeting last Tuesday. Carrie Mae Rice passed her Tenderfoot test, and Geraldine Edwards was inducted with her Tenderfoot pin.

MODIFICATION FOR CRESCENT HARBOR PLANS REQUESTED

With a view to modifying the existing project of the Crescent City harbor, at this time, if advisable, the house committee on rivers and harbors has requested the board of engineers to review the reports, according to word received here by Postmaster Frank DeSouza.

The letter also states that "a report has been received from the division engineer recommending that the existing project be modified so far as to provide for extension of the present breakwater to Round Rock, construction of a south breakwater about 6300 feet long, and excavation to a depth of 30 feet below mean lower low water of a harbor basin about 3800 feet long and from 300 to 2000 feet wide."

From information now in possession of the board, the group does not consider the project advisable at the present time for the following reasons:

"The existing project affords facilities considered adequate for a much larger commerce than now handled through the port. The reasonably prospective commerce, even where a railroad constructed to Grants Pass, does not appear to justify the large cost of providing a deep water harbor at this locality at the present time."

REPUTATION OF HOUSE DAMAGED WHEN DRINK SERVED, OWNER CLAIMS

In a suit filed in circuit court, Emma Winans seeks $500 damages from John Widner, Harry Keeler and James Valentine, for loss of reputation to a house she rented to the defendants, and which she alleges they used as a roadhouse. The house is located in the suburban area.

General damages in the sum of $500 and $300 for loss of rent are also sought.

The complaint alleges that the defendants dug a hole under the chicken house, excavated another hole for rooster fighting, failed to take care of the garden, allowed the property to run down, and that the interior of the house was damaged and marred and slightly wrecked.

It set forth that Valentine subleased the property to the others. The plaintiff is represented by Attorneys Boggs and Bengtson.

The case is one of the few times that suit has been filed in this state for loss of "reputation to a house." Attorneys say that the law is vague about what constitutes a house's reputation. Attorney Bengtson says a number of local property owners are contemplating similar action, where houses have been used for road houses.

A year ago the country areas had many resorts which have since gone out of business.

GARRETT SLATED FOR TRIAL FIRST IN CIRCUIT COURT

James L. Garrett, charged with assault with a deadly weapon, is slated to go to trial first on the criminal docket, at the term of the circuit court, starting next Monday. Two other cases are listed on the criminal calendar—Alfred Poston of Pinehurst charged with threatening to commit an assault with a deadly weapon, and Manzie Bieden, local resident, charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor girl.

The three cases comprise the criminal docket for the coming term of court. Other criminal cases pending will be set later, if required.

Garrett is alleged to have shot a woman in the leg during a birthday party dispute over a jug of liquor. When the woman attempted to depart with the firewater, Garrett is alleged to have shot her. Garrett resides in the Butte Falls district.

Poston, a well known resident of the Pinehurst district, is charged with threatening to hit State Trooper Elton Jackson over the head with the butt end of a gun, during a dispute

GLEEMEN APPEAR KLAMATH FALLS TUESDAY EVENING

Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 the caravan bearing the Medford Gleemen and members of the Medford Chamber of Commerce will leave Medford for Klamath Falls where the Gleemen will sing in their first far-away-from-home concert in the Pine Tree theatre for the benefit of the Pellana, the charity organizations of Klamath Falls which devotes all its money to the under-privileged children of that city.

The coat of sending the Gleemen over for this worthy cause is being borne by the Medford Chamber of Commerce as a timely gesture of good will to Medford's neighboring city.

Word comes from Klamath Falls that the theatre will be sold out when the curtain goes up at 8:15 Tuesday night so that the Gleemen are sure of a hearty welcome. Frank Jenkins, Klamath Falls editor, will be master of ceremonies and he promises some interesting features. Following the concert, the Medford men will be entertained by Klamath Falls citizens, before taking the road which leads back home. The whole evening gives promise of being a happy community affair for southern Oregon's two leading cities.
