BAR MASON CLUB TO CAMPUS PINKS

EUGENE, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Charging the "students' league against war and fascism" was communicative, Leslie M. Scott, grand master of Oregon Masonry, ordered the doors of the Craftsmen Club building on the university campus closed against the group when they attempted to hold a meeting there last night.

Students who had planned to meet in the campus Masonic hall today denied their organization was communistic, declaring the only issues involved in discussions of the group were war and fascism.

In denying the students the use of the hall, Mr. Scott said the action was "in no way a reflection on the student organization," but that he believed the Masonic property should not be the scene of meetings that might bring on controversy.

The members of the organization adjourned to the "Y" hut for their meeting when the doors of the Masonic hall were closed to them.

Both addresses will review the first three years' achievements in conformity with his campaign pledge that a recounting would be given near the end of his four-year term, Governor Meier said.

SALEM, Feb. 22.—(AP)—T. E. Gillenwaters, district attorney of Klamath county, who left prosecution of one murder case to argue on an appeal in another—the Theodore Jordan case—in the supreme court yesterday, said he would not be a candidate for re-election.

Gillenwaters declared he had had 22 prosecutions for murder and manslaughter during his term since 1928, and that he thought that was "enough for one district attorney."

ANCIENT BIBLE IS SHOWN OFFICIALS

SALEM, Feb. 22.—(AP)—An Elzevir Bible, printed at Leyden, Holland in 1663, was on exhibit at the state library today and attracted wide attention among state officials and citizens during its short stay in the supreme court building. The Bible is owned by Mrs. Ben Lane of Manzanita, in whose family the ancient book has been for about three centuries.

The book, printed in highly decorative fashion on hand made paper, is bound in calf leather with board sides with brass mountings. It is 19 inches long, 12 inches wide and seven inches deep. The maps in the Bible are unique, with borders decorated with art figures.

Miss Harriet Long, state librarian, declared the book was very valuable, but she would not hazard a guess as to the amount it be assessed. She stated it was the oldest Bible she had seen.

This figure represents a marked reduction over expenditures in former years, Howard said. The previous year $224,478 was spent for books.

—and a loaf of Fluhrer's Spun Bread? Certainly! Everybody is including Spun Bread in their orders these days... It sure is more than just ordinary bread, isn't it? People tell us it keeps fresh much longer and has a flavor all its own.

I was down and visited the new bakery the other day and it certainly is spic and span and an interesting sight.
