

EARL DAY FILES FOR NOMINATION AS COUNTY JUDGE

Earl B. Day, county judge, late yesterday filed with the county clerk his declaration of intentions to seek the Republican nomination for the office at the primary to be held May 18 next.

The decision to enter the contest came after a large number of Jackson county citizens, irrespective of party affiliations, had urged him to enter the race.

Judge Day assumed the office last August, by appointment of the governor, following the conviction of E. H. Fehl of vote stealing, and has since filled the position with dignity and conservatism. His first move was to inject business methods into handling of county affairs and put a firm foot down upon the constant squabbling that marked the Fehl regime. He restored harmony, introduced efficiency in the handling of relief applications, and halted political aggrandizing in the courthouse. He received the whole-hearted support of Commissioner Billings and Neelson on the restoration of order and introduction of sound methods. The result of his efforts shows in the reduced expenditures.

Owing to the pressure of county business, Judge Day will make no extended active campaign. He is neither a politician nor an orator, but is fitting by training and experience for the office.

Judge Day has been a resident of the county for 15 years and has farm, stock and orchard interests. He is a resident of the Sams Valley district. He served two terms in the state legislature from this county, with special honors, and was recognized as an able solon by upstate chiefdoms. He is a family man, with a wife and three children. He was born and reared on a farm near David City, Nebraska.

There is a well-defined sentiment throughout the county to concentrate behind Judge Day at the primary.

Although the sheriff's race has not yet developed into the scramble of a year ago, signs are multiplying that it is apt to. Many are mentioned, and being urged by friends to make the sacrifice. The latest is William Holman of Eagle Point, a member of the "Rogue River Cowboys," whose voice has been raised over the southern Oregon air many times in the plaintive ditties of the plains. Holman has however told friends he did not think much of the idea. Clatus McCredie, Medford chief of police; Robert Bell, courthouse janitor; and Sheriff Walter J. Omscheid have filed to date, Bell under the Democratic banner.

Commissioner R. E. Neelson said yesterday he "would make up his mind within the week" as to what course he would pursue. Friends of Neelson say he has aspirations to go to the legislature, but is urged by Grangers and others to run for the commissionership. Neelson was appointed to the office December 31, 1933, when the late John Barneburg resigned. His first months in office were stormy.

the Armory brought out a number of avowed and potential candidates who were smiling at and shaking hands with those present. Among those present were Attorney A. C. Hough of Grants Pass, who seeks the circuit judgeship; Victor Bursell, aspirant for the state senatorship; William (Farmer Bill) Carl of the Applegate, who entertains a desire to go to Salem; and several others who were feeling the public pulse.

WHILLOCK OPENS EXPANSION SALE AT GOLDEN RULE

Whillock's Golden Rule is launching an expansion sale tomorrow, celebrating the fact that this old-established Medford firm is doubling its floor space. Despite the depression, the Golden Rule has steadily increased its business, according to C. A. Whillock, making necessary a substantial expansion at this time. The new store will embody the former Golden Rule store and the adjoining room in the Palm building. Mr. Whillock is also completely remodeling the second floor into a modern, attractive lodge club and dining rooms for the Eagles' lodge of this city.

The improvements under way will practically double the display window space and floor room of the Golden Rule and add much to the attractiveness of this business block. The present remodeling is but one of the many improvements C. A. Whillock has made in his various properties as a substantial contribution to solving the unemployment problem of this city. His many friends and business associates have lauded his courage and confidence in the general economic recovery of this section of the coast.

The original Golden Rule store was established in this city in 1915 by C. W. Whillock and C. A. Whillock occupying the location to be used by the new store up to the time it was moved to Sixth and Central in the building now occupied by the J. C. Penney store. The newly expanded and remodeled Golden Rule store will be an attractive addition to Medford's fine business district with 6,300 square feet of floor space exclusive of balconies.

Some appealing values have been arranged for Whillock's expansion sale, starting Friday, as appreciation to the people of this district for their patronage that has made possible the expansion.

MOVE MAGNOLIA TO COURT HOUSE

Initial steps have been taken for the removal of the magnolia tree on the lot at the corner of Main and Ivy streets to the court house lawn—a block away—where it would serve as a memorial to the late Dr. E. B. Pickel, pioneer physician, who planted the tree in his yard 30 years ago. It is one of the few magnolia trees in southern Oregon and gives forth in season rare and fragrant blossoms.

A service station will soon be erected on the corner and the lease provides that none of the main trees be cut down. Mrs. A. E. Reames of the Garden club fostered the memorial idea. Fred E. Wahl, administrator of the estate of Dr. E. B. Pickel, said two offers of $50 each had been received for the magnolia tree. Wahl thought the tree would be transplanted to the court house, though no definite decision had been reached.

Commissioner R. E. Neelson said yesterday he "would make up his mind within the week" as to what course he would pursue. Friends of Neelson say he has aspirations to go to the legislature, but is urged by Grangers and others to run for the commissionership. Neelson was appointed to the office December 31, 1933, when the late John Barneburg resigned. His first months in office were stormy.

JACKSON COUNTY OUT FOR RECORD AT HOME CONFAB

Jackson county, which sent the largest delegation in the state to the Oregon conference for the study of home interests last year, is out to break another record this year, having almost doubled her representation. Last year Jackson county was represented on the Corvallis campus by 15 women. This year 26 official delegates will go from the home extension units.

The dates of the fourth annual conference at Oregon State college are February 28, March 1, 2 and 3. The 26 Jackson county delegates will leave for the college next Tuesday, accompanied by Mrs. Mabel Mack, home demonstration agent.

The conference is sponsored by the school of economics at Oregon State college, and each extension unit in Jackson county will be represented this year, and some units are sending several delegates. Funds to finance the trips have been raised through various entertainments and other benefit affairs.

Friday, March 2, the Jackson county winners in the rural dramatics contest will present their play. The cast to make the trip north will be determined here Saturday night, when the finals are held at the Junior high school. The winners will leave Thursday for the campus.

All Grange economics clubs, women's federated clubs and Parent-Teacher association are invited to send delegates to the conference and a special invitation is extended to all individual women interested in betterment of the home. Anyone planning to attend is asked to get in touch with Mrs. Mack, home demonstration agent.

The program to be presented at the conference will cover every home interest from growing daffodils to everyday cooking. Interior decoration, sports, shopping, home crafts (for pleasure and profit), clothing the family, and checking on the family health are subjects to which much time will be devoted, and authorities on all will appear before the conference.

Tours of the campus and a round of social activities will also be included in the four-day program.

NEW GRAND JURY WILL BE CHOSEN AS COURT OPENS

A new grand jury for the term of the circuit court, starting next Monday, will be drawn at the opening of court. It will consist of the first seven names drawn from the jury box. The jury list for the term consists of 31 names drawn a week ago by the clerk and sheriff.

The old grand jury, of which Theo. N. Bell, Jr. of Talent was foreman, which was in session for a year, will then be excused. It investigated evidence in the Banks murder case, the ballot thefts and other criminal matters arising from the turmoil. It succeeded the so-called "Grieve grand jury."

At its final session, this grand jury investigated the Dahack case at the request of the court, and returned findings that it was unable to find evidence justifying an indictment, and that the case should never have extended beyond the first grand jury. One of the few cases to come before the new grand jury will be that of Charles Woolverton and William Henderson, bound over yesterday by Justice of the Peace Coleman on charges of violating the Knox liquor law. They are charged with selling liquor without a license and possession of liquor. It will be the first Knox law violation hearing in this county and among the first in the state.

Two or three minor criminal cases and some matters left over from the last grand jury are also scheduled to be considered.

James L. Garrett of the Butte Falls district, indicted for assault with a deadly weapon, is scheduled to go on trial Monday. Garrett is alleged to have shot a lady in the leg when she left for home with the liquid used at a birthday party. It will be a petit jury case. Garrett is represented by Attorneys E. E. Kelly and Robert B. Hammond.

The criminal docket is one of the lightest in many years, with only three cases scheduled for trial. A dozen men indicted for crimes have entered guilty pleas and received sentences within the past ten days.

The other two cases on the calendar are Alfred Poston of the Pinehurst district, indicted for alleged Greata to assault with a deadly weapon, and Manzie Hiden of this city, charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor girl.

The civil docket is long and includes a number of actions for year on more. Judge Norton expects to dispose of the majority of these cases at the coming session.
