Miss Gregory Feted At Shower Wednesday

Last Wednesday evening Mrs. Olga Olson, Velma Smith and Eunice Smith entertained at the Olson home on Newtown street, honoring Miss Virginia Gregory, who is to be married to Ralph Cook in the late spring. Games were played during the evening. Prizes were won by Mrs. Wm. Baird and Miss Eleanor Curry.

Those present were: Mrs. Kenneth Childreth, Mrs. Wm. Baird, Mrs. Belatrice Frohreich, Mrs. Mabel Sims, Mrs. Carl Hoyer, Mrs. Mabel Marsh, Mrs. Velma Jennings, Mrs. Dorothy Barr, Mrs. A. H. Gregory, Mrs. Lottie Caldwell, Mrs. Arnold Bohmert and Misses Marjorie Gregory, Eleanor Curry, Jessie Balderson, Jerry Latham, Bertha Stinson, Virginia Gregory and the three hostesses.

The honor guest received many lovely gifts. They were brought in on a decorated wagon shaded by a large umbrella.

Refreshments were served with the shower idea again carried out in umbrella decorations.

Mrs. Roosevelt In Speak To Club Women of Nation

Four outstanding American business women will be heard in radio addresses during National Business Women's week, March 11 to 17, it was announced yesterday by the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs. They are: Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Mrs. Geline Macdonald Bowman, Honorable Rosalie Low Whitney and Representative Florence P. Kahn of California.

The local club has not yet announced plans for observance of National Business Women's week, but something special is anticipated, as each previous year has brought with it something of particular interest here during that time.

Medford Garden Club Meets This Evening

The Medford Garden club meets this evening at 7:30 in the court house auditorium. Those interested in growing gladioli are invited to present to hear Will Warner's talk on growing this popular flower. Those having plants or bulbs for the plant sale may bring them to this meeting and give them to Mrs. L. Bundy, who is chairman of the plant sale committee. The sale will open Friday morning at 316 E. Main street next to the Star Market. These sales have always been popular and many choice plants from the best gardens in the valley are offered for sale. The committee will be glad to receive plants early Friday morning. The sale will continue through Saturday.

Commercial Art Class Pleases Many Women

Much interest is being shown this week by Medford women in the commercial art class, directed by Mrs. Edmondson in her studio in the Medford Business College building. There are now 30 women enrolled in the class, which meets three times a week: Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, putting in six hours' work each week.

The class was organized a short time ago as a federal vocational project.

Wedding Gown Tea Stirs Memory of Pioneer Days

June days are still two months away, but interest in weddings and brides is paramount in Medford today. All because of the intriguing frocks, photographs and newspaper clippings brought to light by members of the Parent-Teacher association while planning for their "wedding gown" tea to be held at the Colonial club Saturday.

And the groom's apparel, which the modern society editor has "let slide into newspaper extinction through neglect of her pen, has returned to the spotlight via an article from the Jacksonville Times of October, 1881.

The article reports the wedding of Ella Prim, daughter of the late Judge and Mrs. P. P. Prim, to Charles Nickell, the first social event to occur in the Presbyterian church of Jacksonville, completion of which was rushed for the affair.

"Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Prim request the pleasure of your company at the marriage of their daughter, Ella, to Charles Nickell, October 5, 1881, in the Presbyterian church in Jacksonville. Ceremony at eight o'clock. Reception at family residence after ceremony," the yellowed invitation sent out in advance of the event reads. It is printed in the fanciest lettering of the day.

The gown worn by the bride is now in the possession of the Nickells' youngest daughter, Mrs. Lewis Ulrich. It is a copy of the one worn by Mrs. Ruthertford B. Hayes on the occasion of her marriage to President Hayes.

It was made in San Francisco, and the bride-to-be and her mother were required to make frequent trips by stage from Jacksonville to the bay city for the fittings. Five days were spent traveling to the city and five on the return journey.

"Of the gown the newspaper report by 'Eleanore' says: 'The bride was dressed in plain and broad cream colored satin. Made aash basque with trimmed skirt and airted, square train, fringed with crepe ruchings.' With it went 'elegant cascades' of cream colored Spanish lace, with silk tassels and orange blossoms. 'A magnificently embroidered' veil, looped with orange blossoms, was worn with the gown, as were 10-button cream colored kid gloves and white kid sandals. (The gown is on display today in Adrienne's shop.)

Then of the groom, the society editor speaks: 'The bridegroom wore an elegant suit of black broadcloth, Prince Albert style, with cream colored satin tie, kid gloves and button hole bouquet of orange blossoms.'

The ceremony was read by Rev. M. A. Williams and following the wedding the Prim's "elegant house was ablaze with light and the spacious parlors magnificently decorated" with evergreens, autumn leaves and "most rare and beautiful blossoms."

The article also mentions that the groom "is the editor and proprietor of the Jacksonville Times."

The following day the newspaper ran a list of the gifts received by the bride, with the names of the givers.

In J. Verne Shangle's display window today there are found further evidences of the interest aroused in wedding news of other days. Pictures of the first white couple married in Jackson county, Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Dean, are there. The date was November 1, 1852. Their youngest daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Farra of Central Point, are also shown in wedding attire. Pictures of Farine Love, bride of 1881, and her bridesmaid, and of Kate Dorwin Lockland in a gown of the same period, were also drawing much attention to the display this morning.

1878 CARS PEARS AND 129 APPLES SHIPPED TO DATE

Fruit shipments from the Rogue River valley, for the week ending last night totalled 30 cars of pears and three of apples, bringing the season's totals for pears to 1878 cars, and apples 129 cars. The figures include 13 cars of pears dispatched to Portland last Friday for shipment to France. The figures are from the freight records of the Southern Pacific railroad.

Storage figures for the week ended last night, are:

Cars	114
D'Anjou	114
Winter Nells	123
Apples	1
Loose in lug boxes, 2533 boxes of apples.	92

Orchards of the valley are now two weeks ahead of normal, according to County Horticulturist L. P. Wilcox. Continued cool and cloudy weather will hold back the trees.

The county horticulturist today reported: The earlier varieties of apricots are in full bloom; Pear buds have started to swell, and in a few instances are breaking into clusters. Running of sap, and other early spring activity is under way in the trees of the orchards.

In a few of the orchards, amudging equipment is being placed, the orchardists taking advantage of the dry condition of the soil.

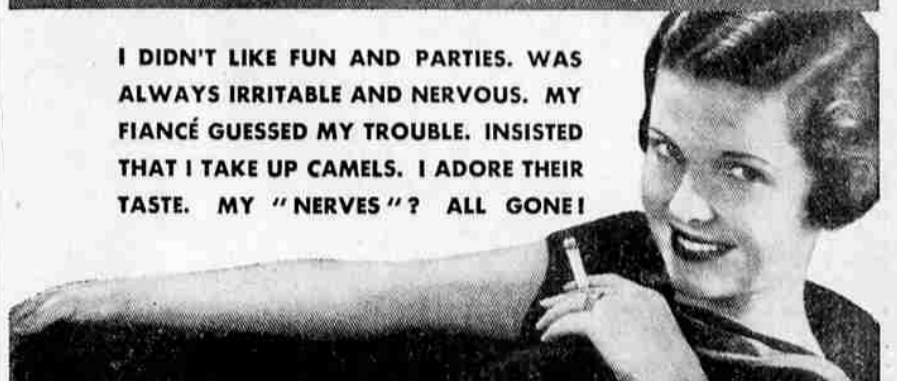

Spraying and pruning, with some cultivating, is now under way in the orchards.

According to County Agent R. G. Fowler, plowing is general in the county with some grain sowing, due to the lack of moisture last fall. Squirrel poison has been prepared for distribution to farmers, as the frisky pests have started to come out from their holes and raid early growth.

A more optimistic trend among orchardists and farmers of the valley is reported by the two county aides.
