

JOHNSON PLANS HEAVY HAND IN NRA ENFORCING

force the penal sections of the act," he said, first.

Warnings Given
The other warnings were in substance as follows:

"That the country faces this spring 'the worst epidemic of strikes in our history'; that company unions, in 99 out of 100 cases, involve 'interposition' by employers.

"That with the recent supreme court decision upholding the New York state emergency milk law, the administration has dropped all hesitation, and is ready to use the powers of industrial law to the limit, if opposition forces it.

Johnson let Donald Richberg, general counsel of NRA, present the last point in a preliminary speech, which, in non-legal language, presented sweeping implications of the decision.

Constitution hall's three thousand or so occupants were hushed and attentive as the counsel, after explaining, drawled:

Can't Cancel Codes
"And that should sink a lo-o-o-ging way home. I want to submit it to the particular attention of some eminent counsel who come around and say they will cancel their codes if they don't get just what they want. It may be—that that act doesn't lie in their power."

Johnson backed that warning with a few preliminary snags at "industrial barons" who "forget that the old order hangeth."

But the keynote of his address was a conciliatory exhortation for industry to rise to the opportunity given it by President Roosevelt.

He asked the industrial spokesmen to realize that their now ended meeting "is as important as the council of Nice—nothing like it has ever happened in the history of the world." That NRA has set up representative government by economic groups, and "on the rule let's govern or give up the attempt."

He tendered a special olive branch to the heavy goods industries, which had led the fight against hour shortening, by asking their help in shaping for the president a program to stimulate their production.

RHEINLANDER BEER NOW ON SALE HERE

Rheinlander beer, brewed in the Pacific Northwest's largest and finest brewery in Seattle, goes on the local market today, according to E. A. Ritchie, manager of the Pacific Distributors, local distributor for Rheinlander beer.

"Beer lovers have a treat in store for them today when they get their first taste of Rheinlander beer," Mr. Ritchie said.

"Rheinlander beer has been an instant hit everywhere throughout the Pacific Northwest. This beer came on the market in mid-January and demand for it has been so great that we have been unable to secure a supply of Rheinlander beer until now.

It has been the general consensus wherever Rheinlander has been available that it is the beer people have been waiting for ever since beer came back on the market again. Rheinlander is brewed under Herr Hege's exclusive Munich formula. It is available here today at many cafes, restaurants and beverage stores. Rheinlander draught beer comes only in seasoned white oak kegs.

HITLERITES' GUILT OF MANY CRIMES VOTED AT 'TRIAL'

chair-branded Hitlerism with Garrison's words on slavery—"the sum of all villainies."

He said Hitlerism is determined to establish its supremacy "even though it must pass over the corpse of civilization to do so."

"But," he said, "the public opinion of the world will stop this (Hitler) advance. Hitlerism shall not pass over a highway strewn with the wrecks of western civilization—no, not until the stars have darkened and the sun has set in the heavens, never to rise again."

"Public opinion as the force, and boycott as the weapon, will break the power of Hitlerism."

Said Senator Tydings: "Those who attend this gathering symbolize the thoughts and impulses of millions of our countrymen who are absent in body but with us in spirit."

Arthur Garfield Hayes, a lawyer who testified as an "eye witness," charged that the "Hitler regime has many defectors, but no defense. The Germans call the system an awakening. We call it retrogression."

Dr. Harry Woodburn Chase, chancellor of New York university, said the schools of Germany had suffered through Hitlerism and that "five Nobel prize winners have either been dismissed or are in exile."

Former Governor Alfred E. Smith warned that intolerance is not peculiar to Germany.

"We, too," he said, "have people who don't like Jews or Catholics—and some who don't like anybody."
"No government that governs by brute force and the machine gun can be said to be governing with the consent of the governed. Hitler is not fit to have placed in him the responsibility of peace in Europe."
