23 CARS PEARS OUT TONIGHT TO PORTLAND BOAT

Twenty-three cars of Rogue River valley winter pears will be dispatched this evening, via a special train of the Southern Pacific to Portland, for export. The pears will be loaded on the motorship "Washington Express" for shipment to France. The shipment will total about 17,000 boxes. It is the third 23-car train movement to the north within the past six weeks.

All of the pears shipped today comply with the recent French government regulation, that export fruit be wrapped in wrapper, labelled: "Packed in the United States of America." The order does not affect this section, but chiefly Hood River, Yakima and the Wenatchee districts. Packers of this valley have long complied with the ruling.

Storage pears are being reduced gradually here, with prospects the storage plants will be cleared of last season's packed pears, by mid-April or May 1.

Total shipments for last week were 36 cars—15 departing before the 23-car shipment today. This is one of the heaviest weeks of the year.

Pears in local storage, up to last night: DeAnjou, 122 cars, a reduction of 25 cars over the previous week. Winter Nells, 123 cars, a cut of one car.

Eastern, one car, the same as last week, and three months before. Packed apples, 30 cars, a decrease of two over the previous week. Apples, in lugs, unpacked, for the week totaled 2254 boxes.

FAVOR MEDFORD AS LOCATION OF HARBOR HEARING

Medford may be the place of the meeting between proponents of Crescent City harbor development and California and Oregon Coast railroad extension with the army board of engineers for a hearing regarding development of the harbor, was the announcement in the Grants Pass Courier today, read with interest by many Medford people interested in the harbor and railroad development.

The meeting was originally scheduled for Grants Pass. A. H. Banwell, manager of the Medford chamber of commerce, stated this afternoon. He recommended this city as meeting place and the indications this afternoon were that Medford would be chosen.

Men of southern Oregon and northern California who are sponsoring the harbor and railroad movement are trying to secure the approval of the army engineers for the harbor subject to the railroad extension.

The possibility that the hearing may be held in Medford was expressed Wednesday by C. H. Demaray, chairman of a committee in charge of arrangements for the meeting, who said the suggestion had been made by Medford men who had been sponsors of the project. The Medford men had suggested holding the meeting there would insure the support of that section.

"There is nothing definite," Demaray said. "The possibility has only been suggested and so far not considered, though the idea looks good to me, as Medford has a big tonnage and we would stand a better chance of having Klamath Falls represented."

We do not know what Crescent City or Washington thinks of the idea."

At a meeting held in Grants Pass last week between Grants Pass and chamber of commerce advocates of the joint drive for harbor and railroad, it was decided to hold the meeting in Grants Pass. The army board of engineers had notified these persons they expected to be in this district some time within the next two months to consider the harbor development. The railroad would not come directly under this meeting, but is to a great extent dependent on the Crescent City harbor.
