

Medford High Ponders Cancellation of Deciding Basketball Game

DEFINITE ACTION PROMISED LATER THIS AFTERNOON

Game, if Played, Will Re On Thursday Or Friday—Relations With Ashland Strained Over Long Period

No decision was reached this morning by Medford high school authorities upon the question of severing athletic relations with the Ashland high school, and thereby cancelling the third basketball game of the series to decide Southern Oregon "A" conference championship. The winner would play the winner of the secondary circuit for the right to enter the state tournament.

It was announced that a definite decision would be reached this afternoon, and if the third game was played, it would be Thursday or Friday evening of this week.

Officials confer. Coach Darwin K. Burgher and Principal C. G. Smith were in conference all morning, pondering the issue.

No statement was issued by the school heads, but it was made plain that the present situation was not brought about by the recent Ashland protest on barn painting, that resulted in the state board suspending eight Medford youths—seven of the top basketball players.

It was intimated that relations with Ashland high over financial matters and choosing of game officials, have not been satisfactory for several years. Trouble was experienced, even between debating teams, it is reported.

Neutral Floor Necessary. Each school has won a game in the basketball title play and the provisions provide that the third game be played on a neutral floor. This question also gives promise of being a thorn.

Neither team is up to the past southern Oregon standard of teams that have been entered in the state tournament. Ashland was defeated three times by Klamath Falls. The Medford squad has been erratic all season, winning from strong squads and losing to weak ones.

The state tournament starts a week from Wednesday.

Rheinlander's Brewmeister Is Past Master of the Art

Herr Karl Heigenmooser (above)—and he's just as German as his name sounds—brewmeister and superintendent at the new million dollar plant of the Century Brewing Association in Seattle, where Rheinlander Beer is brewed, has an interesting story.

Heigenmooser is a native of the beer capital of the world—Munich, Germany. It was here that he graduated (with highest honors) from the Weihenstephan Brewing School, which is equivalent, he says, to a university degree in this country.

As a boy and young man, Herr Heigenmooser worked his way up through the Hofbrau House, one of the best known of Munich breweries. And, as brewmeister there, his particular blend of beer was sought after even among the beer-drinking experts of the beer capital.

His reputation spread and he was called to Havana to become the brewing director of Nevo Fabrica de Hielo, which operated two breweries in Cuba with an annual capacity of 150,000 barrels. Two brewmeisters and three chemists worked under him. After 14 years in Havana, Heigenmooser returned to his native Munich. He had money enough, he said, to last the rest of his life, and he wanted to retire and spend the rest of his days in the pleasant surroundings of his boyhood.

When Emil Sick and his associates laid their plans for a million dollar brewery in Seattle, they wanted the best brewmeister they could find to take charge of it. Someone remembered the famous beer he had tasted on a trip to Cuba. A telegram to Havana disclosed that Heigenmooser, the maker, had returned to Munich.

The Century Brewing association didn't write or telegraph. A man was sent to Germany to sign him up. But the job wasn't so easy. No Heigenmooser wouldn't be interested in coming to the United States. He liked Munich. Yes, it was a flattering offer, but the amount of salary didn't interest him. He had all he needed. Heigenmooser had roamed enough. He'd just stay in Munich.

Almost ready to give up, after days of argument, and to seek some lesser light, the agent hit on the idea of appealing to the Heigenmooser pride. He told him of the marvelous water available for beer making in the Pacific Northwest—water so pure it can be used in storage batteries. He told him of the million dollar plant that Heigenmooser could supervise the building of, and gave him carte blanche in the purchase of supplies. If he was the kind of brewmeister he was supposed to be, the agent told him, he could make the best beer in the world in Seattle.

And with that, the agent walked out. Next morning he returned. Yes, Herr Heigenmooser (and Frau Heigenmooser, too) were ready and eager to come to the United States. The brewmeister already was packing his cases of instruments.

That was last June. For six months Heigenmooser has been superintending the work of installing the brewing equipment, working day and night and overcoming the many obstacles in excellent German, fluent Spanish or in broken English. But the job was finished on time, and the million dollar plant was opened to the public last week when Rheinlander went on the market.

Heigenmooser finished his exhaustive tests and started brewing in

SKI MEET TICKETS GO ON SALE HERE FOR NEXT SUNDAY

An advance sale of tickets has been started in Medford for the second annual Crater Lake Winter Sports carnival at Government Camp in Crater Lake National park March 18. Glen Fabrick president of the Rogue Snowmen announced today. The tickets on sale at a low price, are available at the chamber of commerce and can also be obtained from Harold Larsen at The Toggery, secretary of the club. The Rogue Snowmen, the Crater Lake ski club and the Bend Skyliners are bearing considerable expense to stage the carnival, which has also the cooperation of the chambers of commerce of Medford and Klamath Falls. A new ski jump is being completed this week near Government Camp, race courses are being laid out and toboggan slides prepared. Ski jumpers from different sections of the northwest and California will be brought to Crater Lake to take part in ski jumping competition which is expected to provide leaps of nearly 200 feet.

Jumpers of the Crater Lake club yesterday practiced on the B class jump and made good distances. A jumper who has won laurels in Norway, Magnus Hansen, made numerous graceful leaps yesterday, as well as Alf Ostmo and W. J. Robertson of the Klamath country.

The presence of John Eivrum, Hjalmar Hvam and others from the Cascade club of Portland, as well as delegations from Mt. Shasta, Bend and other sections, promise exceptionally keen competition, especially in view of the fact that Alfred Ohm, former national champion, will take part.

The ski-jumping will be divided into A, B, and C classes with the first limited to leaps in excess of 100 feet, the second under 100 feet and the third for novices. Entries for the last class are to be made immediately and local skiers are urged to get in touch with A. H. Banwell at the chamber of commerce or Harold Larsen at once. Entries for the class A and B races, which already have interesting entry lists, must also be made at once. The former will cover a distance of eight miles and will bring the racers before the spectators several times, while the latter will cover four miles.

A race of two miles has been planned for high school boys and one-half mile for grade school boys, open to all comers.

Further details of a special race for members of service clubs of Bend, Klamath Falls and Medford for "The Caterpillar cup" will be announced this week. Members of local clubs are urged to start waxing their skis.

On your way to Crater Lake, stop at Union Creek Restaurant, Open Sunday.

DR. DURNO CAGE RECORD IS ONE FOR SPORTS BOOK

The following article concerning the prowess of Dr. Edwin R. Durno as a basketball player during his college days, appeared in L. H. Gregory's sport column in today's Oregonian: MEDFORD, Ore., March 10.—To the Sporting Editor—Sir: Without wishing to detract in any way from Bob Galer's splendid record of 176 points in 16 games, the basketball fans of Medford after delving into the annals of the past, feel justified in nominating for the "Hall of Fame" their fellow citizen, Dr. Edwin R. Durno.

Durno, who was coach of Medford high school in 1922, will be remembered as one of the outstanding basketball stars of the Pacific coast, having been all-coast forward and three years at Oregon, which is some record in itself. But to get back to total scores, here's a record not to be overlooked: In 1919, which was the year the University of Oregon won the coast championship in a play-off with California, Durno scored 244 points in 15 games! Just for good measure, here's another! In 1921, when Oregon won the northwest championship with a class state, Durno scored a total of 221 points in only 13 games! It is true that in those days one man shot most of the fouls, but on the other hand we must consider that most of these penalties on opposing teams were called because of fouling Durno. Speaking of series records, in one series, Oregon vs. W. S. C. at Pullman, Wash., Eddie Durno made 8 field goals and 11 fouls for a total of 27 points and the second night he really "went to town," so to speak, garnering a total of 35 points with 10 baskets and 15 fouls. His grand total for the two games was 62 points. Not bad? Shooting fouls was a science in those days, as witness the record of one U. of O.-O. A. C. series of four games in which Durno shot 50 out of 58 fouls and Stinson of O. A. C. shot 42 out of 49. It is interesting to note that Oregon never lost a game to Oregon State while Eddie Durno was playing.

After giving due consideration to the aforementioned facts and figures concerning Durno's record as a basket shooter of sorts, I believe you will agree that we are fully justified in being proud of our former coach and fellow townsman.

FRISBIE, GRIMES SCHEDULED FOR NEXT MAT CARD

Les Grimes, the belligerent young matman from Australia who drew the wrath of local fans in his match here last week with Les Wolfe has been signed by Promotor Mack Lillard to meet Fireman Ray Frisbie in a one-hour go next Thursday. In the other half of the double main event card Rocky Brooks, who made a hit as referee for last week's show, will meet Charlie Hansen, the Seattle heavy. A preliminary match will be signed up later, according to a telegram today from Lillard.

In matching Grimes and Frisbie, the promoter is providing local mat enthusiasts with a "natural," as Grimes in his last match left a distinct desire among those present, to see someone give him a "good going over." The Medford fireman, who recently announced he was going to change his style of wrestling to win as quickly as possible, is big enough, strong enough and rough enough to handle Mr. Grimes without kid gloves. On the other hand there are some fans who would like to see Frisbie face a good tough opponent and the Australian is all of that.

The Rocky Brooks-Hansen affair is a matter of speculation as Brooks' ability has not been proved here. Hansen has the edge in weight and unless Brooks discloses more than ordinary ability, the Seattle muscle stretcher should win.

He took part in other ski tournaments but three years ago decided to forsake the sport and had followed this thought until arriving recently when the old urge returned. He is now 36 years old, and anxious to repeat his official record jump of 197 feet. This distance can be easily made on the Government Camp ski jump now under construction.

"I KNEW WHICH LOW-PRICED CAR TO BUY...I helped build ALL THREE!"

READ THIS CERTIFIED INTERVIEW WITH B. V. FRIEDMAN OF DETROIT, MICHIGAN

"Let the other fellow drive without Hydraulic Brakes and a Safety-Steel Body"

WE HEARD THAT Mr. Friedman practically lives in his car... averaging 150 miles a day in his business. We went out to see him.

We asked if he "looked at All Three" before buying Plymouth.

"Looked at them? ... Mister, I've helped build All Three! But just to make sure, I drove each of the low-priced cars 100 miles."

This owner says he demands two things in a car—comfort and safety!

So Plymouth's Floating Power engine mountings and Individual Wheel Springing appealed to him. No more engine vibration... and no more bumpy rides to tire him out or injure the delicate radio apparatus he carries in his car.

And, of course, anybody who knows cars as he does is sold on Hydraulic Brakes and Safety-Steel Bodies. "I'll let the other fellow drive without them," he says, "but I'm taking no unnecessary chances."

There's not much we can add to Mr. Friedman's convincing story. But we urge you to do this—"Look at All Three before you buy." This year there's a surprising difference in low-priced cars. And you don't need to be a mechanic to see it!

Any Dodge, De Soto or Chrysler dealer will be glad to demonstrate Plymouth without obligation.
