AIRFLOW BUYER HAD HARD TRIP HERE IN STORM

A. D. Lewis, Jr., owner of the new Chrysler Airflow now on display at Armstrong Motors, Inc., and the first car delivered at the factory, stated yesterday that his recent trip, which was his third across the continent, was the most grueling he has ever made.

In describing the trip in the new Chrysler model, Mr. Lewis said: "Mrs. Lewis and I arrived at the sales office at the Chrysler factory at eight a. m. February 28. They took us thru the factory and we saw the new Airflows in production. We left the factory at six p. m. in the car which had not been run except to tune the motor and started on the long trip backing the worst storms they had had in forty years. It was snowing hard, there was lots of ice on the highway and it was eight degrees below zero.

"It was twelve below at Ft. Wayne, Indiana and sixteen below at St. Louis, Mo. We encountered more ice and snow. Lots of cars were stalled. The low temperature, snow and ice continued for twelve hundred miles. The train between Chicago and Omaha was three hours late. Cars were stalled everywhere, traffic was almost at a standstill.

"Through Kansas and a part of Oklahoma we drove through a blizzard with the wind blowing at forty miles an hour. Hard rains covered the highway between Oklahoma City and Ft. Worth, Texas. Cloudbursts continued almost to El Paso, Texas.

"The temperature rose to one hundred degrees F. in the Arizona country. It was one hundred and eight degrees at Phoenix, Arizona and it continued hot through the barren and desolate parts of New Mexico.

"The Pacific coast certainly looked wonderful. The longest stretch without stopping was eleven hundred eighty-four miles, from Phoenix, Arizona to Los Angeles, California, which we drove in twenty-three hours. The car performed perfectly. The sudden change of temperature from one extreme to the other and the bad weather made this trip a severe test."

BENEFITS OF CCC TOLD BY FOREST OFFICER ON VISIT

Permanent benefits for the Oregon forests, as well as the relief furnished the many men employed in the CCC camps, were stressed Saturday by Major Arthur Salinger, member of the RCW staff of the regional forestry offices in Portland, who was a visitor in Medford.

In Oregon, for the period of April 1, 1933, to September 30 of the same year, there were 13,000 boys in the Oregon forests, who spent locally, $66,000 per month. Sent to their dependents each month was $330,000, he stated.

Altogether during that period, they sent home $990,000. These expenditures, Major Salinger stated, were in addition to the 1930 supervisory personnel, who received an aggregate wage of $693,000.

From October 1, 1933, to January 31, 1934, according to Major Salinger, there were 7600 boys in the Oregon forests, who spent locally, during that period, $151,000 and who sent to their dependents $679,000.

Major Salinger pointed out that during the present six-months period 90 per cent of the boys in the forest were Oregonians, while in the first six-months period, fifty per cent were out-of-state men.

In addition to the enrolled boys for the second period, 600 of the forest service supervisory personnel earned an aggregate wage of $328,000.

The first quota of men, according to order of the president was set at 25,000 men for the CCC, early in April. On May 13 the quota was raised to 274,375 and an additional 25,000 veterans authorized for enrollment.

"By July 12, the entire quota was enrolled and in the camps, established for forest service and soil erosion control work," the major stated, adding that "this speaks for the great efficiency of the army officers who were able to gather the young men from all over the country into compact companies for training and work."

RAIL AND PHONE FIRMS PAY TAX

The Southern Pacific railroad today remitted a check for $80,600.48 to the tax collection department of the sheriff's office—payment in full for their 1933 taxes. The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company, presented a check for $16,144.17, in full remittance of their taxes for last year. Both corporations took advantage of the interest rebate, for full payments before March 15.

The Southern Pacific payment is less than in previous years, when it approximated annually $102,000 for this county. Depreciation is the chief item in the cut. The telephone company payment is slightly less. Reduced valuation is the chief cause.

Thursday is the final day for the payment of taxes, to secure the full interest rebate, also for quarterly payments.

Tax payments to date have been brisker, than in previous year, due to the interest rebate.
