RESUMPTION BY MIDDLE OF WEEK IS EXPECTATION

Early Resumption Hoped The interruption of service is not expected to last for more than two or three days. Major-General Foulkes hoped to have a modified "air-mail" schedule ready by Wednesday.

The air corps chief believes a revised airmail map, with planes and men to fly it, will be in shape by mid-week, with the 18 routes which were being flown until today reduced to about a dozen.

The coast-to-coast "backbone" of the airmail will be preserved in the new setup.

Grounding of the entire airmail service followed President Roosevelt's statement of Saturday that deaths among army mail couriers "must stop." The White House statement was considered by many air corps men today as the sharpest rebuke given the army in years. These men contended that the military aviators are as good fliers as commercial pilots, and that their unfamiliarity with mail routes, coupled with exceptionally bad weather during most of the period, has been a heavy disadvantage.

Congressmen Air Views Although the army mail pilots were held to earth, the disasters that have marked their three weeks' experience in flying the mail remained fuel for congressional discussion today.

An emergency air mail bill, providing funds for temporary army operation, may get a senate vote before night, although considerable debate is in prospect. Some Republicans are accepting the entire situation as political, and want to debate it.

With a novel and rather unique background, "Fashions of 1934", playing until tomorrow night at the Craterian theatre, offers much in the way of entertainment. Speedy comedy romance, mixed with music, beautiful girls and spectacle, make the picture stand out above its predecessors—"42nd Street", "Gold Diggers of 1933" and "Footlight Parade".

Motivated by comedy and taking a topical slant, the picture treats the exploits of suave Nash (William Powell), an idea-incubating promoter, who sees a fortune in pirating exclusive Parisian styles and peddling his loot to cut price merchants. Stopped when Harry, driver for the exclusive importer is fired, he proposes that they send him to Paris so they might get Parisian styles for sale at the same time they are introduced in the fashion capital. The style parade is on at once, and the romance between Nash and Lynn (Bette Davis), gets under way immediately. Frank McHugh's comedy liven things up. Chiseling Nash first cuts himself in on Ward's ostrich feather business, reveals the Duchess (Veree Teasdale) as an old pal from Hoboken and promotes Baroque (Reginald Owen) into financing a musical revue. In this sequence Bubby Bessley again comes up with thrilling spectacle, the modernistically set fan dance number and the silky flowing Venetian boat spectacle compare more than favorably with any of his previous eye-filling extravaganzas. In the finale, Nash, at the point of being shown up as a super-crook, has the angle in the Duchess' identity that quiets Baroque and forces him to buy the Revue Elegance. Still continuing his pirating, he sweeps Lynn out of the arms of her youthful lover.
