

QUALITY EGG BIDS TOP RESALE VALUE IN PORTLAND MART

PORTLAND, Ore., March 13.—(AP)—Once again the price on extras was attacked during the produce exchange session with a resulting loss of 1/4c a pound which brings this quotation to 23 1/2c lb., exactly the same as standards and prime firsts.

Without lowering the resale price on such offerings, live light hen values were generally down to 10-11c lb., the former being paid by cash buyers for direct shipment and the cent additional to speculators.

Easy prices were suggested for country killed spring lambs as a result of shipping of values on live stuff. Nominal price now 25c lb. for best country killed. Old lambs and mutton show steady to strong tone.

With a small run shown for the week to date, the market for country killed calves was cleared up. Hogs were steady with beef in fair demand and a bull firm.

Asparagus was firmer with cool weather in the south. Spinach was weaker to lower with more local stuff offered.

Potato market remained quiet, inactive in the country. Onion demand was fairly active at the source, slow here.

New potatoes were generally steady.

NEW YORK, March 13.—(AP)—Dollars ruled in the stock market today and, aside from improvement in the rails and a few specialties, prices moved hesitantly. There was little public participation and the so-called professionals displayed little enthusiasm for either side of the argument. The close was moderately irregular. Transfers approximated 1,200,000 shares.

MEXICO DESCRIBED BY LEITH ABBOTT AT ROTARY LUNCH

A verbal panorama of Old Mexico, with all her color and romance, was unfolded before the members of the Medford Rotary club today by Leith Abbott, advertising agent for the Southern company in Portland. Mr. Abbott, who addressed the Rotarians in the basement banquet hall of the Hotel Medford, delighted his listeners with a description of his interesting visit through the southern republic, his personal observations of habits and customs of the Mexicans and a thrilling account of a Mexico City bull fight.

A visit to Old Mexico has all the color and thrill of a journey to Europe, Asia or the South Seas," Mr. Abbott told the members of the Rotary club. "Nowhere is there to be found a happier, more hospitable or picturesque people. Two-thirds of the population is made up of Indians who seem to be rooted in a land fairly radiating antiquity. Contrary to popular belief, over two million of these Indians do not speak Spanish and communities and tribes are isolated from each other because of the lack of modern highways and methods of communication."

The highway construction is under way in various parts of Mexico, railroads will continue to serve as the most convenient method of reaching the cities of that country for years to come, the speaker said. The arrival of trains in the numerous small Mexican cities is always an event. Crowds of Indians and Mexicans gather around the small stations and vendors offer choice morsels, baskets, pottery and blankets to eager tourists.

Mr. Abbott entertainingly told of the care-free Mexican life, and described the cities with their interesting homes, plazas and cathedrals. Mexico City, with a population of one and a quarter million people, is always a bright spot in a visit to Mexico and the bull fight is an event especially interesting to tourists at all inclined to that kind of entertainment, the speaker said. Mr. Abbott's address was one of the most interesting yet presented before the Rotary club.

BOAT CLUB NAMES OFFICERS AT MEET

At a meeting of the Southern Oregon Boat Club, Inc., held at the Chamber of Commerce last evening, Dick Kay was elected president, Harry Lewis vice president, and Joe Marshall re-elected secretary. Committees were appointed to consider boat race for the Diamond Jubilee, and also a committee was named to further inquiries and plans for developing the fair grounds for boat racing.

A week from Sunday a group of members will spend the day at the Savage Rapids on Rogue river, getting that course in Rague river for early season. The officers of the club expressed appreciation of the cooperation being shown by the Chamber of Commerce in the club.

JAP TARS TRAPPED IN STEEL HULL OF CAPSIZED WARSHIP

SASEBO, Japan, March 13.—With three men rescued out of the 113 trapped in the hull of the capsized torpedo boat Tomonuru, rescue workers dug doggedly at a steel wall late tonight in the hope that eight more men might be found alive. Officers said, 40 hours after the heavily-armed little ship turned over during maneuvers, that it would be impossible to cut through that hull before midnight to find what lay inside.

They were spurred on in their work by a story from the rescued men that eight of their companions were still alive in the engine room when they escaped through a hatch under water. The floating coffin, still bottom up as it was when a cruiser found it off the coast, was shoved into the Sasebo drydock, its masts and funnel in the cutaway where keels ordinarily go. Pumps went into operation forcing out the water from the vessel. The three sailors said their comrades in the engine room had been too weak to follow their avenue of escape. The trio were able to walk after they were taken to a hospital. They had been reached through an air hole drilled through the stricken ship's side and then had been given milk to revive their strength. Then, while a tremendous cheer went up from those working grimly at the rescue, the sailors escaped through a hatch and floated to the surface.

It had been feared that all aboard the tiny ship—her tonnage was only 527, although she carried armament to match many vessels twice her size—were dead when she was found in a sinking condition yesterday. But, as the cruiser Tatsuta towed her, bottomsides up, toward port, anxious men aboard the Tatsuta heard faint pounding. They listened. It was repeated.

Faintly, then louder, the hammering within the Tomonuru was commencing through the five hours required to haul the torpedo boat to Tanigaura, five miles southwest of the Sasebo naval base. Setting to work frantically, mechanics and steel workers began cutting an entry through the Tomonuru's steel hull after she reached port. The first heaving rescue was effected within a comparatively short time.

Shades of Green Predominate At Show of Fashions

Shades of green predominated in the parade of late spring fashions for sportswear as modeled at Hunt's Craterian last evening by mannequins from Adrienne's, while net, with ruffles and frills were shown as becoming the young miss, for semi-formal attire. Several striking numbers were shown from Mrs. Adrienne Stewart's shop, which she had just brought back from San Francisco. Included in the outstanding costumes was a black suit trimmed with leopard cuffs, and another fur trimmed selection was of hyacinth. Evening gowns were of toe length, many with the backs fastened at the neck, and opened to the waist. One dress in this style was modeled after a cowl-effect in back.

White was shown for evening, one dress having a large black collar. White net, with fine embroidery was also modeled. Practically all the dresses shown had high necklines in front, one peach-toned gown having a large brown velvet bow at the neck, and another on the skirt near the hem line.
