Alice White, playing the role of a showgirl, takes some rough treatment from Chester Morris in "King for a Night," on the Rialto theatre's double feature program for today and Saturday. Morris, as a promising young prizefighter, finds himself being taken for a sucker by the blonde Alice and uses ring tactics in giving her the gate. Helen Twelvetrees plays the part of Morris' sister who, in a moment of fear, shoots a man with her brother taking the blame. It leads to some sensational developments.

When a man goes to prison—what happens to his family? This question is answered in the startling prison drama, "Day of Reckoning," starring Richard Dix, at the Studio theatre today and Saturday. Two of the great battles in film-dom clash in Tom Keene's western, "Scarlet River," the second feature on the double bill. They are the film star and Creighton Chaney, son of the late Lon Chaney. Keene, as a movie cowboy encountering real dangers, and Chaney as a range desperado, battle twice during the production in actual style.

Jeanette MacDonald and Ramon Novarro, co-starred in "The Cat and the Fiddle" at the Craterian theatre until tomorrow night, are making a decided hit with romantic and singing talents. Saturday night is again preview night at the Craterian with "I Believed in You" as the extra feature to be shown after the 9:00 o'clock show. John Boles, Victor Jory and Rosemary Ames have the leading roles. Those attending the last show are invited to remain, at no extra charge, for the preview.

Will Rogers Comes In Craterian Film For Sunday Showing
Will Rogers' latest, "David Harum," makes its appearance in Medford Sunday at the Craterian theatre where it opens a three day engagement. It is a typical American theme deals with a shrewd horse trader. Because of the coldness with which he barter, and his uncanny method of outwitting people in business dealings, his reputation is none too good in the small town in which he lives. A young man who has come to work in the bank owned by the horse trader, learns that his employer really has a soft heart, and that his hardness is only for those who deal unfairly. The young man has fallen in love with a wealthy girl, but hesitates to propose marriage because of his poor financial standing. The horse trader, who is interested in the boy, tries to help the romance along, but gets nowhere. When the young girl comes to him and requests him to enter her horse in a forthcoming race, he advises the boy to place all his savings on the horse. The hilarious method by which the horse trader brings the horse home a winner is said to bring the film to a happy and amusing conclusion. The large cast in support of Will Rogers displays an array of impressive names that include Louise Dresser, Evelyn Venable, Kent Taylor and Stepin Fetchit.

News Behind The News

Notes.
Installation of army officers as government representatives on code authorities has begun. Eight were recently appointed. More will come later. The NRA has had trouble getting college professors for that work.

Railway workers are complaining that they have been subjected to much more than the advertised 10 per cent wage cut, just as government workers have suffered much more than the advertised 15 per cent cut. When you figure in furloughs and part-time employment, the cuts may average nearer to 20 and 25 per cent.

Those who follow general Johnson around do not like the way the bands always receive him by playing "Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Wolf." It has happened three times now. Since the change in NRA method, they would rather have "Love Is What Makes the World Go Round."

BOB STEELE COMING IN NORTHERN FILM

Thrilling tale of a man hunt in the trackless snowdrifts of the frozen north, "Trailing North," starring Bob Steele, ace western star, comes to the Roxy theatre tomorrow. It is an entertaining story of a young ranger who trails a killer into the frozen north to find him at last in a gambling saloon. Complications ensue when the ranger falls in love with the pretty red-headed girl friend of the fugitive killer.
