

BROCKWAY PLANS REPUBLICAN RACE FOR LOWER HOUSE

Taylor Also to File if Personal Matters Permit - Haskins and Hamilton Rumored Bourbon Team

A. E. Brockway of the Jacksonville district, announced today he would file for representative in the legislature from this district, on the Republican ticket, within the week.

Glenn O. Taylor of this city, announced that he would make a decision in the matter and file, if personal matters which have arisen, were adjusted.

Both Brockway and Taylor were named by Governor Meier to fill the legislative vacancies in this county and served in the special session last summer.

Brockway is an orchardist and farmer and master of the Jacksonville Grange. He has been a resident of this county for 12 years and previously resided in the Sacramento valley, where he engaged in contracting and rice farming. He was born in Minnesota, 49 years ago, is married and has two daughters.

Lauded for Ability Brockway during his legislative experience won favorable comment from the state press for his ability, sincerity and soundness of purpose.

He was one of the farmer solons who helped frame and voted for the school relief sales tax measure. Brockway has since worked for the sales tax measure, as the means of ending the financial worries of the schools. He engaged State Grange Master Gill in a debate at the armory last month.

Brockway's decision to run for the regular term came at the behest of farm and business interests generally.

The "inner circle" of the Jackson county democracy continues its efforts to put a full ticket in the field for county officers, at both the primary and the general election.

Hamilton, Haskins May Team Moore Hamilton, southern Oregon journalist and a leader of the "Young Democrats," is being importuned to offer himself as a candidate for representative, political friends say.

Leon B. Haskins, long time resident and former druggist, is mentioned as his running mate. Haskins has always been a Democrat, enjoys a wide acquaintance in the county, but has never run for office.

Attorney E. E. Kelly of this city, is being urged to run for state senator on the Democratic ticket. He is expected to make a final decision soon. Col. Kelly is recovering from a severe cold, but is now able to be about and attend to some legal work. Senator George W. Dunn of Ashland, and Victor Burrell of Central Point have announced for state senator on the Republican ticket.

J. F. Wortman of Phoenix, farmer-banker, is still pondering running for county judge against H. D. (Johnny) Reed of Gold Hill. Wortman has been inquiring around among his friends. Some have advised him to enter, and some have advised him to refrain. Wortman is widely known. He ran for the same post in 1932, and was defeated.

Ashpole Rejects India C. W. (Wig) Ashpole, pioneer stockman has been "mentioned" for county commissioner. Mr. Ashpole declares he will have "no truck with politics, as long as I am in my right mind."

L. O. Caster, for 40 years a farmer of this county living in the Phoenix district, filed Monday for commissioner on the Democratic ticket. He has been identified with road construction in the county at various times since 1902. In a statement, he declares he would favor the use of more horses in the construction of county highways.

The voters generally are still apathetic about candidates, and the main interest centers in the passage of the sales tax. Women voters manifest the most concern on this measure, because of its being linked with the future of the public schools.

ANSWER WATSON TAX SALE SUIT

An answer was filed yesterday by Jackson County and George L. Jantzer and wife, in the suit of Dan Watson to set aside a tax foreclosure on a timber claim in the Prospect district, near the Earl Ulrich mill-box.

Jantzer, a sawmill operator, purchased the claim on a tax delinquency certificate for the purpose of logging it.

Watson, who filed on the timber as a homestead shortly after the war and secured title, protested the sale and seeks to have it annulled.

The county sets forth in its answer that the foreclosure sale was legal and valid, that the county court acted after the expiration of the legal time and that no protest was filed until after the sale was made. The county holds that all the proceedings in the case were in accordance with the state laws covering delinquent tax sales. It is further contended that the statute of limitations had expired.

Watson filed a demurrer and tendered the county $132.61, the amount of tax delinquency, after the transaction.

Miss Greenwood Pleases Local Audience With Playing

An inspiration to local boys and girls with musical ambitions, was Miss Nellie Greenwood, young Portland pianist, who played in recital here last evening at the Baldwin hall. For she played in a manner which revealed much work and study in addition to a natural talent.

Her very youthful manner and appearance failed to betray in any manner the ability of her fingers to bring variety and a sympathetic expression of compositions from the piano keys.

The appreciative audience, which gathered at the hall for the occasion, included a pleasing number of local piano pupils and instructors. The 17-year-old girl responded to their appreciation with several encore pieces which were also enthusiastically received.

Her program included works of Schubert, Brahms, Chopin, Schumann, Arensky and Liszt.

Arrangements were being made today for Miss Greenwood's probable appearance in concert at the high school before her return to Portland. She is the house guest while here of Mrs. H. O. Purrecker, at whose invitation she came to Medford.

FULL BLOOM IN ORCHARDS NEAR

By the middle of next week orchards of the Rogue River valley will be in full bloom, according to Horticulturist Lyle P. Wilcox.

"It will be a medium bloom," said Wilcox. "It is my observation that when such is the case, we have a good crop—in fact, some of the best crops have been on medium blooms."

Apples and Bartlett's are now in full bloom. Winter Nellis are approaching bloom. Boscas are just beginning to break into clusters, and the Comice are a few days behind.

Cherries and peaches are now in full bloom, and on some of the young apricot trees fruits as big as "marbles" have formed.

Weather conditions continue warm and balmy, with the minimum of frost danger. All forms of flora life, are progressing rapidly. Alfalfa and grain are lush and green, and growing rapidly.

Rain is needed, with none in sight. Some orchardists forecast that the next full moon will bring moisture.

FLORIDA BERRY CODE PROTESTED

PORTLAND, Mar. 21.—(AP)—Warning that a proposed agricultural adjustment administration marketing agreement for Florida strawberries would "put canned fruit in the junk class," Oregon and Washington growers of berries and small fruit have filed unanimous protest against the code.

Many of them met here Tuesday. Under the Florida agreement, it was declared, only the standard sizes and grades of fresh strawberries could be shipped, although any size or grade could be shipped if frozen or canned.

Oregon State college, through its farm extension service, was asked by the growers and canners to protest the Florida marketing agreement to the AAA in Washington, D. C.

CRASH DAMAGE SEEKER COLLAPSES ON STAND DURING HER TESTIMONY

Anne Turpin of Klamath Falls, who is suing the Southern Pacific railroad and J. C. Cline and Jack McHenry, truck operators, for $25,000 damages for injuries allegedly received in a Mt. Hebron crossing accident, January 5, 1933, collapsed on the witness stand last yesterday. She recovered quickly from hysteria.

Dr. George Adler of Klamath Falls, was the chief witness at the morning session. His testimony was largely confined to the condition of the plaintiff, immediately following the crash and up to last Saturday. The plaintiff alleges that by reason of injuries received in the accident, an operation followed that prevented an expected coming of the storm.

Dr. R. W. Stearns and Dr. Edwin Durno, are slated to be called as defense medical witnesses.

The jury, composed of two women and ten men, was completed at mid-afternoon yesterday.

Mrs. Turpin was the first witness in her own behalf, following the reading of a deposition from Mrs. Rudolph Hahn of Fresno, Calif.

It is expected that the case will be finished by tomorrow night, or Friday morning.

Most of the witnesses in the case are from Klamath county.

SWAT EARLY FLY SCIENCE ADVISES

For the first time in the memory of almost any resident of southern Oregon flies are prevalent in the month of March.

Usually flies are not sufficiently numerous to be aggravating until the latter part of the summer months. This year, however, their early appearance would indicate that the campaign of eradication should begin at once if southern Oregon folks are to enjoy the partial immunity of flies, characteristic of this section.

Immediate steps should be taken by everyone to get rid of the flies before they have a chance to multiply. During the cool mornings and evenings the flies are more or less stupid, and with but a slight effort all may be killed before they have a chance to lay millions of eggs.

With the many fly sprays and the equipment for applying them, few cents and a little effort at this time will add greatly to the comfort and convenience of everybody later in the season. One of the large laboratories of the Pacific coast, after a survey announces this condition to be general over the Pacific coast area and suggests that immediate action be taken to eradicate this troublesome household pest.
