

THE LIPS TELL—NOT THE EYES

To know a woman's soul and temperament, look at her lips, not into her eyes, says Henry Clive, noted artist, after a study of the lips of film stars. The lips of Jean Harlow (above) are full and firm, indicating a temperament of great extremes, utter happiness or utter despair, he asserts. Of others he says: the lips of Lupe Velez (No. 1) show strife, fighting and accomplishment; of Ginger Rogers (No. 2) show contentment; of Miriam Hopkins (No. 3) show her inwardly emotional, outwardly calm; of Carole Lombard (No. 4) show her a girl who could weather an emotional storm without concern. And now, what do you think? (Associated Press Photos)

BOTH HAVE BASEBALL WORRIES

As the baseball clans began to gather at Miami, Fla., Max Carey (left), deposed manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, talked things over with Jimmie Foxx, home run king of 1933 who's been having trouble over his new contract with Connie Mack's Athletics. (Associated Press Photo)

ACTOR ADOPTS WIFE'S DAUGHTER

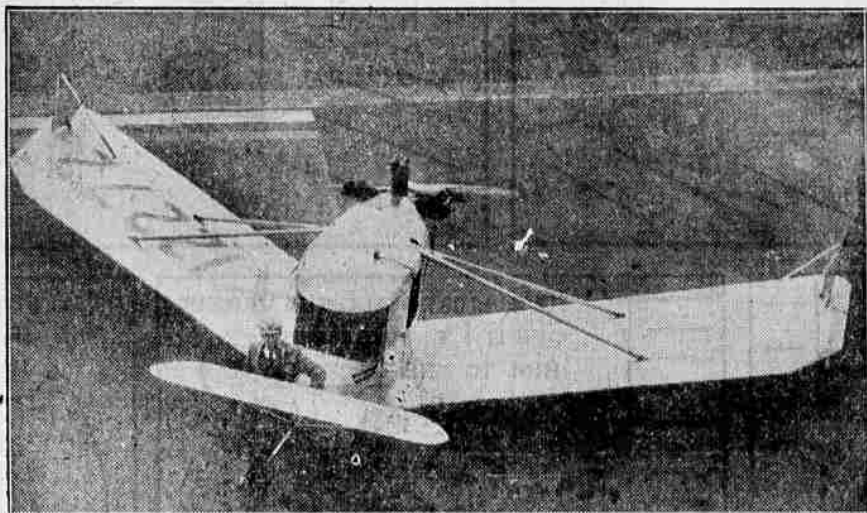

Barbara Ames de Bujac, 11, daughter of Adrienne Ames, film actress, was legally adopted by Miss Ames' actor-husband, Bruce Cabot, whose real name is Jacques Etienne de Bujac. The Cabots are shown in court. (Associated Press Photo)

ARMY MAIL FLIER DROWNED, TWO SAVED IN CRASH

Lieut. George F. McDermott (right), 24-year-old-army flier of Pittsburgh who was assigned to the air-mail service, was drowned in the Atlantic ocean off Long Island and his two companions shown at left, Lieuts. William S. Pocock of Detroit and James H. Rothrock of Washington were rescued as they clung to their plane after it had crashed into the icy water. Pocock (left) and Rothrock are shown in the Brooklyn naval hospital after their rescue. They told a harrowing story of clinging to the wing of the ship for five hours until a destroyer reached them 15 minutes after McDermott was washed into the ocean. The three were on their way to Virginia to fly the mails. (Associated Press Photos)

FORMER MAIL FLIER BUILDS NOVEL "FLIVVER" WING

Here's Waldo D. Waterman's "Whatsit" which, he claims, will travel more than 100 miles an hour. It is a two-passenger "flying wing" the ex-air mail pilot designed in Santa Monica, Cal. Waterman has made successful test flights at the Glendale, Cal., Grand Central Airport. (Associated Press Photo)

COLLECTS LILLIPUTIAN OBJECTS

Catherine O'Brien of Boonton, N. J., is president of an economics club at New Jersey college for Women which sponsors a campus bank, open daily for students to make deposits, negotiate for loans and cash checks. (Associated Press Photo)

ON VIENNA'S BARBED WIRE FRONT

This intimate glimpse of Austria's recent "battlefront" shows two members of the heilmwehr, dressed for cold weather, ready for action behind a barricade of barbed wire. (Associated Press Photo—Paramount News)

Heads Student Bank

Catherine O'Brien of Boonton, N. J., is president of an economics club at New Jersey college for Women which sponsors a campus bank, open daily for students to make deposits, negotiate for loans and cash checks. (Associated Press Photo)

Found Tied To Tree For Second Time

Caroline Musante, 14-year-old Fredericksburg, Va., girl, was found tied to a tree after a search which was started when she was reported missing from her home and feared kidnapped. She was found tied to a tree after a similar disappearance a year ago. (Associated Press Photo)

GRID WORRIES ASIDE, 'ZUP' PAINTS

Vacationing at Coral Gables, Fla., Coach Robert C. Zupke of the University of Illinois seems to have forgotten his football cares as he brushes up on his well-known artistic talents. Here he's painting a duck. (Associated Press Photo)

Wins Slow Race

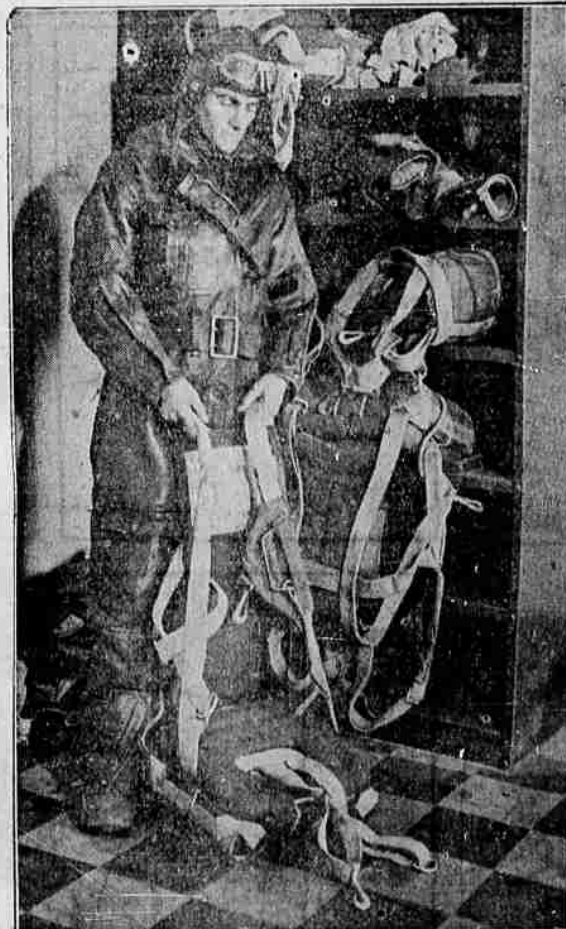

Bill Bonthron (above) of Princeton defeated Gene Venzke and Glenn Cunningham in comparatively slow time the first time the three great millers were brought together in the Baxter mile, feature event of the indoor games of the New York Athletic Club. Venzke is the record holder. (Associated Press Photo)

To Quit "Carriage"

One of the happiest families in San Francisco's Fleishhacker zoo, according to the superintendent, is the kangaroo household. It's a proud family, too, all because the baby is getting ready to quit its "perambulator." He's 11 months old, but so far has ridden around in his mother's pouch as shown here. (Associated Press Photo)

ARMY PILOTS START FLYING MAIL

Army pilots checked their parachutes closely as they took off on their first flights with Uncle Sam's mail. Here is Lieut. William Frutchey selecting his parachute at Floyd Bennett field, New York. (Associated Press Photo)

Dancer To Wed Earl

The engagement of the young Earl of Suffolk and Mimi Crawford (above), a dancer, has been announced in London. The earl, Charles Henry George Howard, is a grandson of Levi Leiten, Chicago merchant. Miss Crawford has danced in many London successes.

HOW NOT TO LAND IN A PARACHUTE!

There's more to parachute jumping than the mere opening of the chute as this photo shows. Shirley Rauner of Cincinnati, landed on her head at the New Orleans air races, but was uninjured and won second place in the contest. (Associated Press Photo)