Local Registrar For Registrar University Named

A university which has, as its ideal, the reconciliation of religion and science by uniting spiritual concepts with the material revelations of the laboratory, has been founded by the Rosicrucian Order, AMORC, a non-sectarian fraternity with a supreme temple at San Jose, California.

Dr. C. R. Simkins, of 542 South Ivy street, local district Rosicrucian commissioner, has just received an official communication informing him that the first unit of the Rose-Croix University, a science building, is now under construction.

The primary function of the university will be to provide post graduate courses for members of the Rosicrucian order living in various parts of North America who will go to San Jose for definite periods while attending the university. The founding memorandum a quarter of a century of Rosicrucian activity since the order's reorganization in this jurisdiction under the guidance of its supreme officer, H. Spencer Lewis.

The recent communication to Dr. Simkins carried with it the appointment of district registrar and the right of preliminary enrollment of students, pending their matriculation. It is declared that it is quite possible a decision may be reached by the faculty permitting the enrollment for certain subjects of those who are not members of the Rosicrucian order.

28 CARS OF PEARS GOING TO FRANCE

A special train of 28 cars of Rogue River valley D'Anjou pears will be dispatched over the Southern Pacific railroad tomorrow night for Portland for shipment to France on the motor ship "Oregon Express," scheduled to sail Friday.

Twenty-one of the cars are loaded by the Pinnacle Packing company, the balance from the Southern Oregon Sales. Work of icing the refrigerator cars was under way today.

A representative of the Pinnacle company said the shipment "was at a very good price."

The shipment is the largest of the season from this point. In February a special train of 26 cars was dispatched, and in January a special train of 21 cars.

SALEM, Ore., March 27.—(AP)—Charles M. Thomas, public utilities commissioner, today denied the application of the Shaver Forwarding Company, Inc., of Portland, as a common carrier of freight between Portland and other points in Oregon and destinations in other states.

TOM TAYLOR MAY BE CANDIDATE TO CO. COMMISSION

Tom L. Taylor, farmer and horse-man, said this morning he was thinking about running for county commissioner on the Republican ticket, to oppose Commissioner R. E. Nealon, in the May primary.

Mr. Taylor has been here a long time, is well known and has never before felt the urge to run for office. When the Jackson county fair was in flower, he owned a trotter named "King Seal," which brought racing glory to southern Oregon by ability to step the mile anywhere from 2:11 to 2:14½, with Mr. Taylor holding the lines.

Mr. Taylor said he was going to make up his mind soon, and if he ran it would be on a platform of economy and "more care with the taxpayers' money." He promised a business administration.

L. O. Caster, Phoenix farmer, has filed for commissioner on the Democratic ticket.

It was also reported that Harry N. Lofland, also a long-time resident of the county and for many years deputy assessor, is reported considering entering for the county judge on the Republican ticket.

Two candidates have filed on the Republican ticket for county judge. They are County Judge Earl B. Day and Electa A. Fehl, whose husband, Earl H. Fehl, is detained in the state penitentiary for his convicted part in the vote-stealing.

H. D. (Johnny) Reed of Gold Hill has filed for the place on the Democratic ticket, with J. P. Wortman, farmer-banker, of Phoenix, and a candidate two years ago, considering another try.

Vern Brophy, stockman, and vice-president of the recently formed Medford Production Credit corporation, has been mentioned for sheriff. Mr. Brophy states, "I doubt if anybody can travel fast enough to give me that job."

Three blanks were taken out this morning for Democratic precinct committee filings. There is much unexplained interest in precinct committee posts this year. Some say it presages a titanic struggle for control of the inner workings of the Jackson county Democracy this fall.

If you have not already made an inventory of your business and will soon, remember the Commercial Printing Department of the Mail Tribune, 28-30 No. Grape, carry inventory blanks. Phone 78 and we will deliver the blanks to your place of business.

Lew Ayres Heads Rialto Cast

"Let's Be Ritzy," starring Lew Ayres and Patricia Ellis, Frank McHugh and Isabell Jewell in the supporting cast, opens a three-day engagement at the Rialto theater today.

The story shows Ayres and Miss Ellis as a newly married couple, both with a yen for pretty extravagance, being unable to live within their salary limits. Their difficulties in getting out of the tight situations they find themselves in bring comedy and drama, tinged with pathos, into the story.

May Robson Film Starts Tomorrow

May Robson dallies with high finance, mother-love, and here and there a comedy interlude. In one of the remarkable roles of her screen career, in "You Can't Buy Everything" the gripping drama of a woman financier on Wall street, starting tomorrow at the Craterian theatre.

A powerful dramatic theme deals with the conflict between a money-mad woman's craving for gold and love for her crippled son. In addition there is the motive of vengeance on a former lover who jilted her in her youth.

She wrecks banks and shakes Wall Street with her manipulations and coups. Then, her revenge complete on the banker she hates, she finds her son and his daughter in love, and a tremendous dramatic climax follows.

Lewis Stone plays the suave banker on whom her hate is expended, and youthful Jean Parker is his daughter.

LIONEL ATWILL IN "BLUE ROOM MYSTERY"

"The Secret of the Blue Room" opened at the Rialto theater this afternoon.

The story concerns a luxurious sleeping chamber, the blue room, which takes as its toll the lives of its occupants, as a huge grandfather's clock strikes a graveyard dirge at 1 o'clock.

Lionel Atwill demonstrates with every last flourish just how a sinister master of an aged castle can portray character so that an audience will be very nearly frightened.
