

CONGER AND RAPP FILE FOR COUNTY COURT POSITIONS

First Seeks Judgeship, Other Commissioner Post—Wo- men Voters Start Asking Candidates Sales Tax Questions.

Henry E. Conger of the Jacksonville district Saturday filed for county judge, and Fred Rapp of Talent filed for county commissioner, both on the Republican ticket.

Rapp gave as his slogan: "A business administration." Conger assured the voters he would "conduct the county business as I do my own."

Both candidates are farmers, and successful ones. Both are well known and are long-time residents of this county. Both are Orange members.

Conger has been one of the active members of the Jacksonville organization.

It is reported that Nick Brophy, a pioneer and widely known farmer and stockman, would file for commissioner. He has been urged by a wide circle of acquaintances to make the race.

Tomorrow and Tuesday—the final filing day—are expected to see two, and possibly three, more entrants for the sheriff's office.

Conger will oppose County Judge Earl B. Day and Electa A. Fehl, wife of Earl H. Fehl, now serving a prison term for conviction by a Klamath county jury of vote stealing.

Rapp will oppose Tom L. Taylor and County Commissioner R. E. Nealon, and other Republican entrants, if any.

The Jacksonville county Democracy is scheduled to enter a legislative ticket. Attorney Charles W. Reames is urged to seek the state senatorship.

Moore Hamilton, a young Democrat, and Leon B. Haskins are mentioned for the lower house. There is considerable Democratic diffidence about going to the legislature.

Voters continue apathetic toward candidates, but interest is daily growing in the school relief sales tax. The parents—particularly the women—have started asking candidates how they stand on the measure that concerns the education of their children.

This is quite embarrassing to some candidates and the voters have been urged not to mix the two. Many of the women voters have different ideas on the subject.

STELDT FAILS IN JAIL ESCAPE AND SUICIDE EFFORT

Slightly winded, but with his man, Jailer Fred Kelly returned to the court house Saturday morning with Harvey Steldt, about 35, who escaped from the jailer as they were leaving Dr. C. I. Drummond's office on the ground floor of the court house about 9:30 o'clock. In a suicide attempt, later in the forenoon, Steldt cut his wrists, resulting in slight injuries.

Jailer Kelly said he had just closed the door to Dr. Drummond's office, when Steldt, prisoner since December on check charges, ran out the door. Kelly caught up with the prisoner after the siren on Sheriff Walter Oimscheld's car had caused him to stop. They were on Sixth street about two blocks from the court house.

Steldt has changed his plea in circuit court four times, the last time to not guilty by reason of insanity. He is also wanted by officers in Oakland, Roseburg and Salem.

Kelly said that Steldt had probably used a razor blade to cut his wrists. The injuries, he said, were not serious as the wound were not deep.

MARCH LOSS FROM FIRE BELOW 1933

Loss from fire during the month of March in Medford was $1150 less this year than last, according to the report made yesterday afternoon by Fire Chief Roy Elliott. There were 11 calls this March and 15 for the same month last year.

Two fires this March were wood-sheds, the other alarms being chimney fires. During the corresponding month in 1933, there were 15 calls with a loss of $1400. The large portion of that loss was caused by the fire at the George Roberts house on Geneva street, where the C. T. Stewards reside.

Wool Unchanged

BOSTON, March 31.—(AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Continued quiet trading in the wool market was accompanied by a weaker sentiment regarding wool prices during the past week. Most grades of domestic wools were quoted nominally unchanged from last week.

Rena Collie of the West Side Pharmacy

Yesterday received an Easter present—two gray little bunnies brought from the Phoenix area. The little rabbits, only a few days old, are a wild species, and Mrs. Collie found it necessary to feed them with an eye dropper. The tiny bunnies were sent her by Saltz Gaver.
