

JACKSON COUNTY ALLOWED 4 BOYS AT C. M. T. C. CAMP

VANCOUVER BARRACKS, Wash., March 29.—(Special).—Renewed for the ninth consecutive year, the citizens military training camp at this post is scheduled to offer four weeks of outdoor life and play to many Oregon and Washington youths again this summer. Orders to enroll applicants and prepare for the camp have been received.

As was the case last year, however, the camp quota has been more than met in half, and the total at present is set at 228. Jackson county's share is four.

Except for a later starting date, the 1934 camp will be much the same as that in 1933. Because of the reduced number to be admitted, basic or beginning students will not be accepted, and the camp will be restricted to red, white and blue, or second, third and fourth-year men. This time, however, the course will not open until July 5, about three weeks later than in previous years. It will run for four weeks as usual, and the same general course of instruction and activity is expected to be found.

Brigadier-General James K. Parsons, brigade commander, who is also commander of the camp, has not yet named the full staff, but has designated First Lieutenant B. G. Stevens as camp adjutant and has directed him to open an enrollment campaign. Details of this campaign are now being shaped and placed in action. Only about 60 applications were on file at camp headquarters at the start of this week, indicating that there is still plenty of room despite the restrictions.

The camp area, as formerly, comprises the whole of Oregon and Clark, Columbia, Wallowa, Skamania and Clatsop counties in Washington.

Carl Y. Tengwall, Medford, Oregon, has been named as enrollment campaign chairman and will assist in the work of securing applications for Jackson county.

FOWLER CHAIRMAN INDUSTRY PARADE

R. O. Fowler, county agent, was named chairman today of the committee in charge of the industrial parade scheduled for Friday of Oregon's Jubilee celebration. Active preparations for this feature are to begin at once under Mr. Fowler's direction, assisted by committee members.

Efforts are being made to have a wide area of the state represented by floats and other entries. Indications have already been received that Klamath and Josephine counties will be well represented, in addition to the numerous Jackson county communities, some of which are already making plans for their entries.

HAGENLACHER HAS CLEAN CUE LEAD

CHICAGO, March (AP)—Eric Hagenlacher of Germany stood alone as undefeated in the world's 182 ball-line billiard championship tournament today.

The German sharpshooter took the undisputed lead last night by defeating Willie Hoppe of New York, 40 to 114, in 14 matches. It was his second victory in as many starts, and the first defeat in two matches for the veteran Hoppe.

Kinsey Matsuyama of Japan and Welker Cochran of San Francisco were tied with Hoppe in the won and lost column, while Morningstar, San Diego, was all but out of the running with two defeats.

CCC GIANT SEEKS BOXING LAURELS

MINNEAPOLIS.—(AP)—A modern Paul Bunyan is coming out of the north to fight for glory and a prize. Ralph Stoker, who at 18 tips the scales at 254 pounds, is going after the annual golden gloves boxing tournament here.

Stoker picked up what he knows about boxing in a civilian conservation corps camp at Bemidji, Minn. He lives at Deer River.

Among other things Stoker trains by permitting three fellow CCC workers to walk around on his prone body to toughen his abdominal muscles.

Eugene Shooting Will Be Probed

EUGENE, Ore., April 2.—(AP)—The fatal shooting of O. L. "Blackie" Wilcox by Special Deputy Sheriff Ernest Klepply will be thoroughly investigated and an inquest probably held, Coroner Charles F. Tocco said Sunday. Deputy Klepply said he shot at Wilcox when the latter made a break for freedom as a warrant charging possession of a moonshine still was being served on him.

Oldest Methodist Church To Be Jubilee Attraction

Constructed when gold fever was at its height in southern Oregon the oldest Methodist church building west of the Rocky mountains and one of the oldest Protestant church buildings in the state will be one of the historical attractions of Oregon's Diamond Jubilee celebration in Medford and Jacksonville June 3 to 9.

Gold dust from Jacksonville gambling tables brought the structure into existence in 1853 to bring the gospel to a new country, populated with hardy pioneers and red-shirted miners. The years have been many since its aging walls resounded to singing voices and the sapient words of circuit riders and early parsons who followed in their wake.

FAME IS NO JOY TO CLARK GABLE; 'TIRED OF IT ALL'

HOLLYWOOD.—Clark Gable can look you straight in the eye and tell you that fame, if what he has just been through is a sample, is no pleasure.

After his first trip east since he broke into pictures with such a bang, Gable is ready now to confine his future peregrinations to the Pacific coast.

"It started out, you know, as a vacation trip," he says. "I didn't know anything about the personal appearance angle until I got to New York. That was cooked up there. If it was a vacation, give me some work instead next time."

"He wasn't complaining, understand. The business of being mobbed at railway stations, pursued by autograph hunters, getting his clothes torn and buttons snatched—all in all a reception that indicated popularity akin to the late Valentino's—he found embarrassing."

"Well, how would you feel?" he asks, just as if there were no other way for a man to react to such exhibitions of mass enthusiasm.

Some in Hollywood think Gable has the "makings" of a first-class actor. A friend of his, an actress, once told us it was "a shame Clark doesn't work harder, because if he did he could really achieve things."

She had asked him about it, she said, and he had the amused answer: "Aw, I'm tired of it. And what does it mean, anyway?"

Told of the incident, Gable laughed. "Well, what does it mean? It's a way to make a living, and I don't know any easier way to do it. I can't take it seriously. You don't, do you?"

Turning questions back upon the inquisitor is one of Gable's favorite defenses. He'd rather talk about hunting in Wyoming, where his next vacation will be, or about his race horse, and the possibility that some day, after pictures, he will start a stable.

"That would be the life, now wouldn't it?"

Of all his experiences in New York, Gable considers the most amazing—and unbelievable, except that Mrs. Gable was there to vouch for it—that with an old Italian taxi driver, at their destination Clark proffered a $10 bill, his smallest change. The driver dug into his jeans, and handed back a wad of ones, telling him to make his own change.

"If you know New York taxi drivers," Gable comments, "you won't believe that tale—but it's true. He's my notion of a real fan!"

McCaskey Collection of Miniature Souvenirs Key To World Wide Travels

(By Eva Nealon Hamilton.)

To the islands, the Orient, Europe, and down through the pages of history you may travel with very, very little.

For the tiny objects, 62 in number, which dangle in invitation from a chateleine, where they are now chained in her home, represent the religions, customs, legends of many lands and races—at the same time constituting one of the finest miniature collections on the coast.

Gathered in Long Tour. They were gathered by Mrs. McCaskey from places, remote in 1914, during a seven months' tour. They were recalled yesterday with the many pleasant memories they arouse by a photograph in last week's Oregonian of Jules Charbonneau of Seattle, whose collection of tiny things totals 300 items.

So the silver chateleine of a Japanese woman was brought from hiding and the Lilliputian objects took their place on a table overlooking the Rogue River valley.

A sorro ban, used by the Chinese and Japanese people in making change, a dolphin of Florence, in perfect miniature form, stood beside a camel of Arabia. A Chinese slipper from Canton, decorated in perfect contrast to evening wear, whoops of warring Indians resenting the invasion of white men.

The march of Time has brought progress but the old church has remained unchanged, challenging the passage of the years which have stilled Indian war whoops and which have drawn a veil of yesterday's over by-gone scenes to be again revived during the jubilee celebration.

Finished Replica. Regardless of the size of the original, each replica in the collection is of the same tiny form, and a lengthy study of the items seems to bring a sudden reduction of the world for accommodation of the very little Napoleon and Cleopatra, included.

One of Mrs. McCaskey's favorites is a smoking set, used by the Japanese, the miniature pipe and accessories are included and all are beautifully carved. Others are a replica of Romulus and Remus, being fed by the wolf; Ramesses in his coffin, removable as in the original, and a tiny Moses in the bulrushes.

A basket, in which birds are taken for walks by Mandarin in the Orient, is a fine addition to the collection, as it contains the tiny bird, also in perfect reproduction.

Other items of particular interest are: The knife worn by Tibetans; the heating plates, where doves are released, entering Japanese burial grounds; a Japanese dance instrument, a temple drum, an Italian mandolin, a rickshaw, a Lotus of the Nile, a sampan of Japan, a Chinese junk, a boat from Honolulu, a memorial lantern, used at tombs in Japan, and so the sorrow of the Japanese, used as decorative garden lanterns here.

A rainy day abode of the Japanese, built up to enable the water to pass under, forms an interesting contrast to the house slipper, also in the collection.

The keys to Honolulu, the keys to the nation and the key to the Nile hang from the same little chains, which now restrict the tiny objects to one homeland.

HAMMER MURDERS NEAR BREMERTON PUZZLE TO POLICE

ony on Erland's Point, where the murders were discovered Saturday night.

A silent witness of the slayings, hours before, authorities said, was the cat.

When three imprisoned dogs in a Packard sedan drew the attention of a neighbor, Tom Sanders, late Saturday, he entered the yard of the home and saw through a window two of the bodies. When authorities finally arrived and forced an entrance, the cat rushed out.

Frank Fieder, 45, owner of the home, Mrs. Anna Taylor Fieder, 50, his wife.

Eugene Chenevert, 38, better known as Bert Vincent, the "singing bartender," and former vaudeville player.

Mrs. Peggy Chenevert, 30, his wife. Magnus Jordan, 50, retired navy man and caretaker of summer homes.

Fred Balsom, bartender at a Bremerton beer parlor.

House a Shambles. The inside of the house was a "shambles," with bodies bettered or shot to death, lying about in three of the rooms. The place had been ransacked, with drawers strewn about, furniture overturned, blood spattered everywhere.

Has Other Souvenirs. Other travel souvenirs prized by Mrs. McCaskey, and not members of the miniature collection, are an ear ring worn by a Nubian tribesman, met first at the world's fair in 1894 and later in the desert, while traveling in his native land; and a Chinese dancing girl, and a prayer wheel of a Lama priest, obtained at Darjeeling, which was then so near Tibet as a traveler could progress.

The wheel contains 100,000 prayers, and each swing of its handle constitutes just that much praying by the priest. A shell is placed beneath the wheel to keep check on the priest's devotion. It takes six years of such "lazy" praying to wear it through.

When this happens, Mrs. McCaskey explained, the shell is added to a chain, worn by the priest. His holiness is measured by the length of his chain.

Turquoise matrix and ear rings, worn by the Tibetan men in exposure of their wealth, are beautiful specimens of precious stone. And so is the collection of sapphires, placed in a chain, which has as centerpiece or medallion, a replica of the fountain in Ceylon, where maidens go for prayer. A toilet set of a Tibetan woman is of interest for its unusualness, not its beauty. It is worn by the woman on her shoulder, various instruments hanging to a central chain.

CALIFORNIA MOVES NORTH

All day yesterday, Sheriff D. L. Blankenship and Luke S. May, noted Seattle criminologist, worked intensely on the case, and at nightfall, when the bodies were finally removed to mortuaries here, the mass of evidence in the house had been organized.

Although robbery seemed a strong motive, they said, the deed was so ghastly that it appeared the killer or killers might have been dope-crazed, or anxious to remove any chance of ever being identified by slaying all the witnesses.

Suit May Give Clue. A bloodstained gray suit came into the case when Lassore Lauchlin, a tailor, reported it had been brought into his place of business on Friday. Another cleaner had turned the job down.

Three cleaning marks on it, as well as the mark of the maker, "Gentry Tailors," were studied at length today. The address of the "Gentry Tailors" was not immediately learned.

As one of his tentative conclusions before leaving for Seattle last night, May said that three of the victims, Chenevert, Fieder and Balsom, had made a grim fight for life. Evidence that all of the victims had first been tied up, or had their mouths or eyes taped, was found.

Too Much Garlic. PORTLAND, April 2.—(AP)—Over-seasoning with garlic and onions of hamburger served at breakfast to prisoners in the city jail here today, was blamed by city physicians for the illness of 21 of the inmates.

Stomach Gas. One dose of ADLERIKA quickly relieves gas bloating, clears out BOTH upper and lower bowels, allows you to eat and sleep good. Quick, thorough action yet gentle and entirely safe.

"My Car Rolled over 5 times with ME inside!"

A CERTIFIED INTERVIEW WITH HELL-DRIVER BILLY ARNOLD

"It took more than Luck to save my Life—it took a Safety-Steel Body"

IT HAPPENED on the Bakersfield highway. Billy Arnold was making time for Los Angeles. Road clear... rising curve ahead. Suddenly... but let him tell it in his own words:

"Suddenly another car swept round the curve... coming right at me... on the wrong side. I had my choice. A head-on crash... or the gully on the right. I took the gully."

"I couldn't give a plugged nickel," says Arnold, "for my chances in a low-priced car but a Plymouth. Its Safety-Steel Body was undoubtedly the thing that saved my life."

1. "I've been what people call a 'hell-driver' for years. I've done all kinds of daredevil stunts—testing cars. I've even wrecked them on purpose. But this unexpected accident was by far the most hair-raising experience of my life!"

2. "There's where it happened. The diagram shows how my Plymouth smacked the side, bounced up in the air and rolled over five times!"

3. "I couldn't avoid it. I had only a split second to see what was happening. The other car was in my path. I lowered to save him. Down I plunged... turning over and over!"

4. "Other hell-drivers like Harry Harts marveled that I came through it all unharmed. They thought I was kidding when I told them how I tried the motor, found it worked and drove on."

Symbolized by Easter

The greatest and most comforting of the messages which the Son of God brought to mankind was that of life everlasting, so beautifully symbolized by Easter Day, (yesterday) which commemorated the risen Christ.

It is well for us, as Christians, to think deeply upon the significance of this great promise.
