P. Brooks, 314 Mary street, addition to residence, 45; I. D. Phipps, Jackson and Riverside, construction of fireplace, $100.

Barrymore Scores Hit Rialto Drama—Fast, thrilling action counterbalancing the dialogue makes "Counsellor at Law" at the Rialto, a picture that has a wide variety of entertainment in a coherent, understandable and appealing fashion. With John Barrymore appearing to better advantage than in any of his recent pictures, this latest film is a cross-section character drama. A lawyer is the central character.

In brief, the story concerns the life of the attorney, his various cases and the tragedy or comedy behind each. Then comes the real meat of the story when Barrymore comes to the crisis in his career, and disbarment facing him. A crushing head of the bar association apparently has the goods on him, but when Barrymore unearths evidence that is too much for the other fellow to stomach, the disbarment proceedings are dropped only to have triumph turn to tragedy as the wife's unfaithfulness turns the counsellor to contemplating suicide. The climax follows with a new sensational case galvanizing him to action.

Barrymore is given good support by such players as Bebe Daniels, Doris Kenyon, Onslow Stevens, Thelma Todd and many others.

Richard Arlen in Craterian Picture—Richard Arlen, a soft-hearted leatherneck sergeant in "Come On, Marines," comes to the Craterian theater tomorrow along with Roscoe Karns, Ida Lupino, Toby Wing and Grace Bradley in the cast.

"From the halls of Montezuma to the shores of Tripoli..." The first to start fighting and the last to stop remaining. That in brief is a word picture of the hard-hitting, heavy-lifting Leathernecks about whom the story is written. Their exciting adventures, be it with bandits or blondes, make "Come On, Marines," fast, lively entertainment.

CITY'S CWA JOBS IMPRESSIVE LIST WHEN TOLD 'DADS'

A complete report of work accomplished in this city under the civil works administration was submitted to the Medford council last night by City Superintendent Fred Scheffel and read by Councilman S. A. Kroschel.

It showed that the airport project has been completed. The cross runway is ready for use, new green approach lights have been placed at both ends of the runway. Power poles on the west side have been eliminated, and about 300 cubic yards of granite have been placed on the old runway.

Bear Creek improvement project is about 60 per cent complete and sufficient rock is on hand to complete the rock wall along the west bank of the creek north of the Main street bridge to the north end of Merrick's camp ground. This work can be done with relief labor providing the government will furnish it.

The street improvement program has been completed with exception of the Main street curve elimination, which is approximately 90 per cent complete. About 200 yards remain to be excavated, and the buckshot is being used on the alleys.

The Prescott memorial park road is 80 per cent complete. It includes a 20-foot roadbed for the first two and one-half miles and a one-way road from there to the spring on the east side.

Eight or ten members of the Camp Kerby COC minstrel team will be entertainers tomorrow night at the past exalted rulers' celebration at the Elks club, it was announced today.

A beer feed will be a feature of the evening and other entertainment is promised to constitute an extra big time. Arrangements are in charge of R. E. Koozer, past exalted ruler, and other former B. P. O. E. heads.

The minstrel troupe has been trained by Lieut. Preston E. Rohner and has won recognition in press releases throughout the state, having appeared in several previous programs.

The funeral services will be held at the Bert Funeral Parlors in this city Friday, April 6, at 2 o'clock. The services will be conducted by Rev. Joseph Knotts of the Methodist Episcopal church. Interment will be in the I. O. O. F. cemetery.

Keith Cram, 18, of Central Point, arrested yesterday by Deputy United States Marshal Leo McClain and state police on a secret indictment charge of larceny of a water-cording device at Butte Falls in 1932, is held in jail here today.

The warrant was issued from the federal court at Portland and Cram will be taken to that city from Klamath Falls tomorrow, McClain stated this morning. McClain will make the trip through Klamath Falls to pick up another prisoner there.

WEATHER PROOF MEAL PROMISED

A complete Weather-Proof meal will feature the opening session of the two-day Kelvinton hostess school, which will be held at the John Cupp Furniture store one week from today, declared Mr. Cupp, manager of the John Cupp Furniture store today, as he announced the program for the school.

Received word this morning, stated Mr. Cupp that the first meeting will be given over to meal planning with Helen Kerr, famous Weather-Proof meals as the main topic of interest. These menus are especially designed to protect the food budget and to save the homemaker much unnecessary work in the kitchen.

Food buying and serving will be discussed in detail and there will be a selected list of choice continental dishes which are both inexpensive and different. New ideas for table decorations will be included in this first session, with a part of the school devoted to the correct use of flowers in the home, and new methods of preserving and arranging them. NETTIE BECKELHYMER, FAMED HOSTESS OF UNION CREEK, PASSES

Mrs. Nettie Beckelhymer, 82, who with her husband, Edmond P. Beckelhymer, had operated the well known Union Creek resort since 1923, making friends of people from all sections of the world, who motored that way to Crater Lake, stopping for a meal with "Beckie," as she was known to thousands, died yesterday at her home from an illness, she had battled to overcome for the past two years.

The Beckelhymer family came to southern Oregon from California in 1923, and in 1925 established the exclusive eating house on the Crater Lake highway, known as "Beckie's Cafe."

The tasty foods prepared there by Mrs. Beckelhymer, and served with the personal interest and friendliness, with which she greeted all comers, won for the little cafe a national reputation.

Many southern Oregonians became regular Sunday diners at the cafe and others went to Union Creek to spend extended vacations, many of them drawn there just by "Beckie's" personality, which made a home of the resort.

As the Nettie Bird, Mrs. Beckelhymer was born December 21, 1851, in Lawrence county, Ill. On March 19, 1909, at Covington, Ind., she was married to Mr. Beckelhymer, going to southern California to reside. From there the Beckelhymer family came to Oregon in 1923.

Besides Mr. Beckelhymer, the survivors are: A foster son, Herbert Beckelhymer; three brothers and two sisters, Henry P. Bird, North Hollywood, Cal.; William M. Bird, Texas; Delbert Bird, Mrs. Della Henry, Mrs. Jessie Couch of Birds, Ill., and hosts of friends.

The funeral services will be held at the Bert Funeral Parlors in this city Friday, April 6, at 2 o'clock. The services will be conducted by Rev. Joseph Knotts of the Methodist Episcopal church. Interment will be in the I. O. O. F. cemetery.

LIONS HEAR PLANS FOR ANNUAL MEET SLATED IN EUGENE

Members of the Lions club today heard plans for the tenth annual convention of the region clubs to be held in Eugene soon. Past Deputy Governor Fred Walker and La Verne Hawn, both of Eugene, were guests at the club meeting in the Colonial club, and outlined the program for the three-day convention.

Lions Walker and Hawn said they would make an effort upon returning to Eugene to have the dates of the state convention, now set for June 7, 8 and 9, changed to a week earlier in order that the gathering will not interfere with the observance of the Oregon Diamond Jubilee in Medford and Jacksonville the week of June 3-6.

Lion Hawn stated that Lion H. W. Conger, president of the Medford club, had been requested to preside at the breakfast meeting of presidents and secretaries at the state convention.

Also a guest at the meeting was E. C. (Jerry) Jerome, head of the public observance, who thanked the Eugene men for their co-operation in arranging the dates of the Lions convention.

Other guests at today's meeting were S. W. Abbey, father of Lion Walter Abbey, and Ernest A. Hostet, publicity director for the Jubilee.

Lion A. H. Banwell requested the co-operation of Medford business men in underwriting the Jubilee, and also said that arrangements were made this morning for having a 15-piece orchestra from the Klamath Indian reservation in Medford for the celebration.

As Lion Cub L. J. Knox was the only one present who had not been initiated in the ceremony, in charge of Lion George Newberry, was postponed. Lion Lyle Thurman was named program chairman for the next meeting.

EUSTAGE TAKES MANAGERSHIP OF FRUIT CONTROL

Announcement was made today by Paul Scherer at Medford, the president of the control committee of the Northwest Fruit Industries, Inc., of the appointment of Harry J. Eustage as manager, effective at once. He takes the place of Wm. H. Horsley, who has found it necessary to resign to give his attention to his personal business. Horsley's resignation is regretted by all and he has been complimented for the good job that he has done.

Eustage brings a long experience in practical business, having been Pacific Coast advertising representative for the Saturday Evening Post, Ladies Home Journal and the Country Gentleman for 10 or 12 years. From this experience he will bring a background of advertising and merchandising of food products, particularly fruits, that should be of value to the northwestern tree fruit industry. He knows the methods that have been so highly successful with California grapes, prunes, raisins and canned fruits, that are so conspicuously in the consumer's eye all over the country, which has been achieved by good advertising and good merchandising.

Previous to this connection he was for some years a professor of horticulture in the Michigan State college, where he made a reputation as a trainer of young men who have become valuable in the fruit industry all over the country, but especially on the Pacific coast. Some 20 or 25 of his former students have achieved unusual recognition as leaders in the marketing of Pacific coast products. Among this number may be mentioned Karl J. Henderbott, the general manager of the Lake Chelan Fruit Growers' association; Paul Armstrong, general manager of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange; Don Francisco, the vice-president of Lord & Thomas, the company that creates and places the fine advertising for many Pacific coast fruits—grapes, prunes, raisins, olives, avocados and others; I. J. Woodin, sales manager of the California Fruit Exchange; O. W. Schlemmer, vice-president of the American Fruit Growers at Los Angeles. Others who have attained prominence in scientific work include D. F. Fisher, who for some years was in charge of fruit disease investigations for the United States department of agriculture at Wenatchee; Edwin Smith of Wenatchee, in charge of the fruit storage and transportation investigations of the U. S. department of agriculture, and John T. Brigger, formerly extension horticulturist of the Washington State college, now editor of the American Fruit Grower.

During the war his services were loaned by the college on the request of Herbert Hoover, to the food administration, where he was a member of the perishable foods division. Previous to this, Eustage was in the department of agriculture, assisting in conducting experiments on the transportation and storage of fruits, particularly apples, and earlier than this he spent some years in the New York agricultural experiment station at Geneva, in the investigation of diseases of apples and troubles with apples in cold storage. For a year he was state market director of California.

Arch Work on Radio—Arch Work, assistant irrigation engineer of the federal experiment orchard, will speak over radio station KOAC, Corvallis, at 12:10 Friday noon. His subject will be "Conservation of Soil Moisture." All farmers and orchardists are urged to "tune in" on the talk.
