Fine Cast in Craterian's New Hit

Duty before pleasure, and here Richard Arlen and Roscoe Karns are painfully submitting to Ida Lupino's embrace in "Come on Marines," opening at the Craterian theater today. Tropical nights, stranded beauties, bandit-fighting marines turned into chaperones, budding love in the jungles—all intermingled with laughs and action, make "Come on Marines" fast entertainment. The story, which deals with a Marine sergeant's redemption through his heroic rescue of a group of girls shipwrecked in the Mopas, has Arlen as the sergeant; Ida Lupino as the headstrong, spoiled darling of the rich; Roscoe Karns as a wince-making, laugh-provoking leatherneck; Grace Bradley as a sensational cabaret dancer; Toby Wing, Monte Blue, Puzzy Knight, Kit Guard and several lothars making the picture filled with comedy and adventure.
