Rialto Headliner

George O'Brien plays the role of a Broadway playboy who finds himself bothered with woman trouble in "Ever Since Eve" at the Rialto Theater today and Saturday. DAREDEVIL STAR IN 'THE FUGITIVE'

Rex Bell, star of "The Fugitive," which comes to the Rialto tomorrow, is one of the few so-called "daredevils of the screen," who never uses a double. This is hard on the "doubles" financially, but it's conclusive proof that Bell's a genuine "he-man." Incidentally, stunt riding was his own job before he signed up as a star. "The Fugitive," a first-run picture, is a fast moving story of secret service operatives on the trail of the loot from a half-million dollar mail robbery.

Two Features

From comedian to romantic hero is the histrionic jump accomplished by Stuart Erwin in "Before Dawn," mystery thriller now at the Studio theater, with Warner Oland and Dorothy Wilson. Erwin, whose film fame up to the present has been virtually contained in his successes as a light comedian, steps out in this film from the serpen of the late Edgar Wallace and surprises with a performance somewhat on the Clark Gable order, spiced here and there, however, with wisecracks. "Grand Slam," clever romantic comedy of America's most rabid indoor sport, is the second feature.

Preview Saturday On Craterian Bill

With plenty of luscious entertainment geared to excite anyone who can get a boot out of rough and ready fun devoid of fancy frills, "Come On Marines" at the Craterian theater is a rollicking, reckless affair.

Two kinds of adventure—one in love interest, the other in ambushed danger, both of which are given rather novel twists—plenty of romance, lots of drama and gobs of unexpected comedy are the assets with which the picture is fairly packed. The story is a workaday life of the sea-soldiers who are first in a fight and in a frolic, without any glorification of the Marine Corps. Richard Arlen is "Luck," a tough sergeant. In the supporting cast with Arlen are Monte Blue, Roscoe Karns, Ida Lupino, Toby Wing and Grace Bradley.

Saturday night is again preview night at the Craterian and "Three on a Honeymoon" has been chosen as the extra feature to be shown after the 9:00 o'clock regular program is finished. Zasu Pitts, Sally Eilers and Charles Starrett have the leading roles. Patrons attending the last show, are invited to remain as guests for the extra feature.

BLONDE BABY GIRLS ARE MOST POPULAR
