BODIES OF BEAUTY OPERATORS FOUND NEAR PARK ENTRANCE

By Paul Mallon

Melting Snow Bares Tragedy In Deep Gully

The objects of intensive search since their disappearance last November 12, the bodies of Doris Sparks, 27, and Andrea Mardelle, 33, Hollywood beauty demonstrators, were found this morning on the east approach road leading toward Crater Lake national park, a short distance from the junction with the Belleville-Callaer highway.

LONG MYSTERY IS CLEARED UP BY DISCOVERY

The women were hurried free of the car and apparently instantly killed. One body was 20 feet above it and the other alongside. One was still partially covered by snow.

They were warned by a service station operator, according to authorities, not to attempt the trip by the east entrance in view of snow conditions.

Mr. Roosevelt is also going to get some advice from the other side of the fence.

In New York last Sunday there was a quiet little conference between a representative of the senate banking committee, one of the authors of the original stock market regulation bill, and a close adviser of the president.

The most amazing thing about Dr. Wirt's public appearance here was the fact that he was counseled by ex-Senator Jim Reed.

Back stage the Wirt examination was a spectacular political sideshow.

Speaker Rainey chose three of the hardest-shelled examiners in the house as Democratic members of the committee.

The Democrats tried to make Wirt appear ridiculous. The Republicans tried to make him a Napoleon. Neither quite succeeded.

A new milk war is brewing under the surface in Chicago. It may explode within a week.
