

EVANGELIST SAILS SEAS WITHOUT INSTRUMENTS

Paul E. Mann, evangelist, took his family of five aboard this 40-foot fishing boat, Jehu, at Los Angeles and set out for Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, a 4500 mile journey. Mann, shown with his family aboard the boat, said he would rely on divine guidance to help him make the South American port, though he was inexperienced as a navigator and did not have a chronometer or sextant along because he would not know how to use them. (Associated Press Photo)

BOOST PAY, CUT WORK WEEK, PRESIDENT URGES

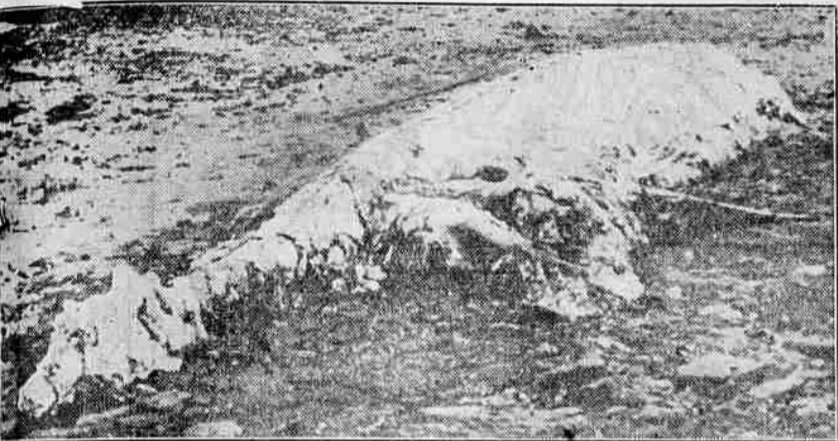

In a vigorous address before several thousand members of NRA's code authorities assembled at Washington for a three-day review of the industrial control program, President Franklin D. Roosevelt urged an immediate increase in wages and shortening of the work week. He said it is the task of industry to re-employ more people at purchasing wages and to do it now. The President is shown above as he gave his address while Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, listens intently. (Associated Press Photo)

IT'S "KID" WARNER CONNECTING

Ladies and gentlemen, at the right you see Glenn "Pop" Warner, one of the better-known football coaches, in the role of a heavyweight. It's part of the training routine the 64-year old veteran is following to condition himself. He's landing a blow to the head of Chuck Winterman, at the Stanford, Cal., university gymnasium. He'll be heading east to Temple soon to open up spring gridiron practice. (Associated Press Photo)

WHAT KIND OF A SEA MONSTER IS THIS?

A bottle-nosed whale, a dogfish, or a strange sea monster—which is it? That is the question that has been puzzling scientists since the carcass shown above was washed ashore at Querqueville, near Cherbourg, France. It measured more than 25 feet in length, had a neck about three feet long, and a head somewhat like a camel's. One scientist said it was a dog-nosed whale, another a huge dogfish. Still others thought it was the much publicized Loch Ness, Scotland, monster. But your guess probably is as good as theirs. (Associated Press Photo)

NRA BOARD HEARS COMPLAINTS OF SMALL BUSINESS

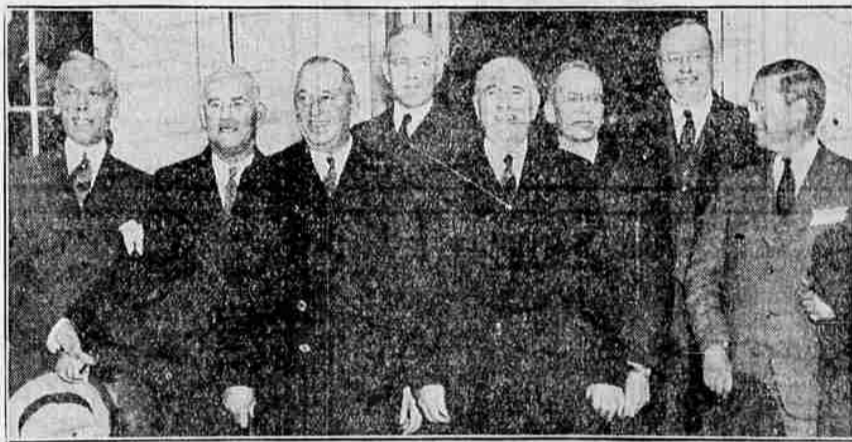

These men, appointed to consider NRA complaints from small business enterprises, have begun hearings in Washington. Left to right: Samuel Henry of Chicago; W. O. Thompson of New York; Clarence Darrow of Chicago; John F. Sinclair of New York; Fred P. Mann, sr., of Devils Lake, N. D.; W. W. Neal of Marion, N. C. (Associated Press Photo)

DRESSING UP A DEN OF SIGHTS

A Chicago club has found a use for worthless stock—it makes interesting wall paper. Workmen are shown pasting stocks, bonds and a tasty array of Insull securities on the walls of the club's "million dollar" room, dedicated to the insanity of the big boom. (Associated Press Photo)

AUTOMAGNATES AFTER WHITE HOUSE CONFERENCE

This group of auto manufacturers conferred for two hours with President Roosevelt when he urged them to compose their differences with their workers to prevent a threatened general strike. Left to right, front row: Alfred P. Sloan, president of General Motors; Alvin MacCauley, president of Packard Motors; Walter P. Chrysler, president of Chrysler Motors; Roy D. Chapin, president of Hudson Motors. Rear row: Donaldson Brown, vice president of General Motors; Nicholas Kelley, counsel for Chrysler Motors; C. W. Nash, chairman of Nash Motors; John T. Smith, vice president of General Motors. (Associated Press Photo)

Denies Duel Rumor

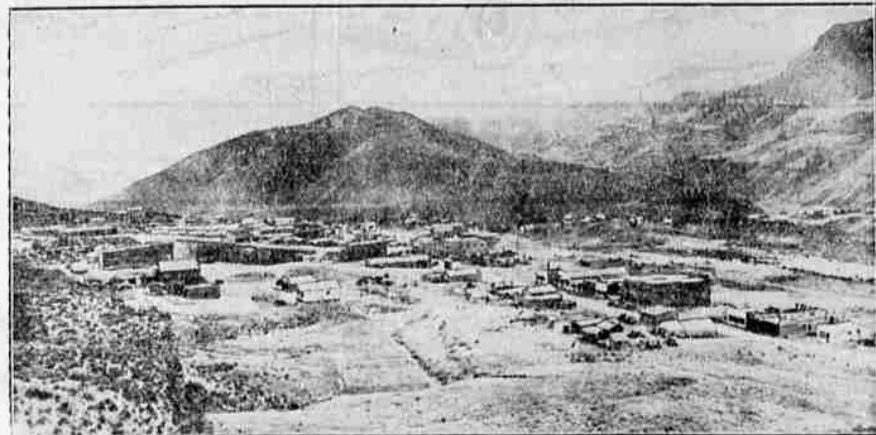

Le Roy Prinz, dance director of a Hollywood film studio, shown above as he appeared for work with lacerations on his face and other marks on his left arm and chest, but he denied he received the injuries in a duel. The district attorney's office dropped an investigation after he explained he had engaged in a friendly bout with his brother at home and the duel story was started as a joke. (Associated Press Photo)

PONDER EUROPE'S PROBLEMS

The world in general and Europe in particular awaited the outcome of conferences in Rome among Julius Goembs (left), premier of Hungary, Premier Mussolini (right) of Italy and Chancellor Dollfus (inset) of Austria. (Associated Press Photos)

UNPAINTED TOWN MUSHROOMS AT GRAND COULEE SITE

This is Grand Coulee, Wash., metropolis of the area where the federal government will spend $63,000,000 in developing the Columbia river in the central part of the state. Nestling near the base of a high hill, it is the largest of several villages which have sprung up within a few miles of the proposed damsite. It boasts a hotel, newspaper, drugstore, motion picture theater and church although most of the buildings are unpainted. (Associated Press Photo)

SLIDE, PEPPER, SLIDE! HERE'S HOW HE DOES IT

Pepper Martin, whose base-stealing and hitting made baseball history in the 1931 world series, shows the rookies how to make a spectacular steal of third base in the St. Louis Cardinals' training camp at Bradenton, Fla. (Associated Press Photo)

CUMMINGS GETS STEEL PROBLEM

Representatives of the Weirton Steel Company Amalgamated association conferred with Attorney General Cummings in Washington over grievances of the Weirton employees after the problem had been turned over to the department of justice. A petition from the striking Weirton employees stating that an injunction sought by the department of justice to compel the company to abide by the code and NRA labor provisions was insufficient also was presented to President Roosevelt. Left to right: Cummings, Charles Anderson, William Long and Mel Moore. (Associated Press Photo)

CLEVELAND PAINT WORKERS STRIKE

As capital and labor troubles spread in different industries, 400 paint workers walked out of a large Cleveland plant. Strikers are shown picketing against the company after the walkout in a wage dispute. (Associated Press Photo)

TELLS OF U. S. NEEDS IN CRIME WAR

Homer S. Cummings, attorney general, is shown as he told the senate judiciary committee in Washington of the government's need for new legal weapons against the crime army which he said outnumbered the United States army and navy. Left to right: Senator Ashurst of Arizona, Cummings and Joseph B. Keenan, assistant attorney general, who is engaged in a special study of the underworld situation. (Associated Press Photo)

She's at Fair

First Dancer Signed for New World's Fair. Julia Taweeel will dance in the Oasis, Mediterranean village, when the Fair opens in Chicago May 26.