OS WEST WARNS DEMOS TO NAME FIT CANDIDATES

PORTLAND, April 19.—(Spl.)—Former Governor Oswald West, expelled a large sized firecracker under the Democratic Donkeys in Oregon today when he issued the following broadcast: Message to Democrats. "Having received high honors at the hands of the Democratic party, I feel I owe it something. Among other things, I owe it loyally and, to this end, am duty bound to support the fit, and oppose the unfit, in its selection of party candidates. It is better that the party go down a defeat with honest and capable men than to go to victory with crooks and blacklegs. "I hope to see worthy Democrats favored in the primaries. Should the party nominate an honest man for governor, I pledge him my support—and regardless of his views on public questions; but should it nominate a thief, a forger, or a degenerate, I shall not only oppose him, but expose him. "OSWALD WEST." Mr. West is one of the strongest supporters of General Martin for the Democratic nomination, and is generally credited with having persuaded him to run. Mayor Mahoney of Klamath Falls is General Martin's only primary opponent.

DOLLAR'S VALUE WILL DIP LOWER EXPERTS AGREE

(Continued from page one) Holds Buying Power. Although the dollar's gold content has been cut nearly 41 per cent, the currency has as yet shown no such shrinkage in purchasing power. The bureau of labor index of commodity prices for March shows a gain of only 2 1/2 per cent over a year earlier. But this is probably substantially larger than the real increase in the cost of living to date, since rising prices percolate but slowly into such relatively fixed, but important items as rents, medical costs, and insurance. As a matter of fact, the national industrial conference board's index for the cost of living, from March 1933 to March, 1934, shows an increase of only 9.3 per cent. More sensitive speculative commodities have already jumped comparably to the drop in the gold content. Moody's daily index of 15 sensitive commodities is up just about 41 per cent from a year ago, while the gold content of the dollar is down roughly the same amount. As time goes on, according to proponents of the gold theory, the boost in prices to compensate for the lower value of the dollar should trickle through most of the economic structure. New Cut Talked. Much talk of a probable further cut in the gold value of the dollar, possibly as early as June, has been heard in Washington and Wall Street as of late, but opinion varies widely as to whether such a step will actually be taken. Prices still have some distance to go to reach the 1928 level, widely regarded as the administration's objective. In fact, prices, as measured

WON'T QUIT RING FOR FIVE YEARS, SAYS LOUGHRAN

Denies He's 'Washed Up'—Clean Living Has Saved Stamina He Claims—Love of Limelight Reason

By STUART CAMERON United Press Staff Editor NEW YORK.—(UP)—Just why Tommy Loughran doesn't quit boxing for good and all is something that nobody but Thomas Patrick himself can explain. He has, however, plenty of friends who wish he'd get out of the game that has made his name known the world over. Tommy is tough and there are smart boxing men who will insist he's been through for years. "But Tommy has no idea of quitting. "I'm going on for at least five years more," he says. "I'm not like a lot of other boxers you know. I don't booze—have never taken a drink. I don't smoke—have never tasted tobacco. I don't chase around either."

Destined As Champ Ask Tommy why he insists on going on and he'll tell you in his pleasant Irish voice that he feels "destined" to win the world's heavyweight championship. He felt this way before he met Primo Carnera, and after that setback was scored, he talked more along the same line. "I can't explain just what it is," Tommy said. "But inside me somewhere I have, and for some time have had, an almost overwhelming feeling that I am supposed to be champion. "The short life of many boxers is due to the way they abuse their bodies. You hear about 'punch drunks.' Why, they're not that at all. They're washed up ahead of time by excess of many sorts, some of which bring them ailments they'll never shake off. Not so Tommy Loughran. I've lived clean and I want to show the world that that sort of living can give a man with the proper physique as many years in the ring as he cares to have."

Few See Chance. Tommy may be right in all his views but few will give him as much as an outside chance to win the title, especially since Carnera seems certain to be champion for years to come. Tommy was in his best possible condition when he faced Carnera at Miami, and only by a near miracle did he miss falling before the Italian giant. All credit is due Tommy for staving off Carnera, who had trained only half-heartedly, and who came into the ring slowed to a walk by fully ten pounds of excess weight.

Stay Near Coils There are those who think the need of gold drives Tommy onward. He won't admit that, although it's generally believed the small fortune Tommy once had tucked away has been wiped out by unfortunate investments.

The writer has talked for hours with Tommy, one of the most likable men the boxing game has ever known, and if he was to select the one big reason for Tommy's insistence on going on it would be Loughran's love for the limelight. No man today gets a greater kick out of being recognized in a crowd than does Loughran. He's had this public acclaim for years now and he hates to give it up.

by the bureau of labor statistics wholesale index for March, must rise roughly 36 per cent to reach the average of eight years ago. Opinion in Washington is highly confused as to the next steps which should be taken. The administration has indicated that it is not anxious to take further monetary action at this time, but wishes rather to give steps already taken time to take effect. Secretary Wallace of the department of agriculture, sees no cure-all for the farm problem in monetary action, but urges rather the control of production. He feels that speculative furries prompted by inflationary measures can achieve no lasting benefit.
