

PAROLE OF GLENN IN BANK ROBBERY GOAL OF FRIENDS

Preliminary steps for the securing of a parole for Robert Glenn, sentenced to 15 years in state prison, for an abortive bank robbery attempt of the State Bank of Central Point, above five years ago, have been taken by friends.

Glenn will be eligible for parole, when he has served five years. He has been a model prisoner, at Salem. The district attorney's office is said to look favorably upon his application for freedom, and, inclined to favor it.

Glenn was convicted by a Jackson county jury, and was represented by Attorney Edward C. Kelly, now at Washington, D. C. He was an auto mechanic, and bore a previous good reputation. County officials tend to the belief that Glenn, through a false sense of loyalty, protected a friend, and that he was induced to try banditry, by another. This point was never satisfactorily cleared. He offered in defense an alibi that he was traveling in an auto between this city and Ashland at the time of the robbery.

The robbery attempt was made at noon. Glenn, the testimony showed fled in a green sedan, which was found the next day in the Blackwell Hill district with a bullet hole in the rear of the tonneau.

Alvin Tollefson, then cashier of the bank, now serving two and one-half years for confessed perpetration of a bank robbery hoax, three years ago, fired the shots. Tollefson is eligible for parole next month. He is stationed in the receiving office of the penitentiary.

The Glenn case attracted wide attention at the time of the robbery and his trial.

Annual Flower Show Will Be Held During Period of Jubilee

The annual Medford Garden club flower show has been postponed this year in honor of Oregon's Diamond Jubilee celebration, it was announced today, and the many roses, which are blooming in profusion in valley gardens, will be welcomed by the Chamber of Commerce for daily exhibit.

The annual show will be held some time during Jubilee week. A. H. Banwell, manager of the Medford Chamber of Commerce, has expressed the wish that growers who have many flowers, particularly roses, bring them to the Chamber of Commerce for distribution to out-of-town callers.

The Rogue River valley produces many beautiful roses and this believed an excellent manner of advertising the fact to tourists. The roses should be picked early in the morning and taken to the Chamber of Commerce building before 10 o'clock.

BOUSSOM VICTIM QUEER ACCIDENT

Charles Boussom, well-known resident of this city, is recovering from an odd accident that caused severe injury to his left elbow, and for a time it was feared amputation would be necessary.

Two weeks ago, while in his home, he turned suddenly and struck his elbow on the edge of a washing machine. The blow was sufficient to burst a blood vessel. The arm started to swell from the wrist to the shoulder. Medical aid was secured, the wound drained and relief secured.

Boussom a day or two later, while in his home, started to sweep with a broom, and the arm swelled with almost lightning rapidity. The injury was again drained of blood. For a time it was feared a blood clot would form, and that complications would arise, necessitating amputation. This danger is now past, and Boussom is recovering with his arm in a sling.

The blow in itself was nothing out of the ordinary with at first no more pain than accompanies the hitting of the "cray bone."

NO FINGERPRINTS ON PISTOL HANDLE IN HAND OF HORAN

Moved from Horan's car where it was found parked on a side street the night he was shot. Low said he believed it contained whiskey.

Low examined and identified articles taken from the office by Dr. O. E. Heinrich, criminologist, and brought back to Klamath Falls Monday from Berkeley. Heinrich took charge of the state investigation shortly after the slaying.

Miss Outhrie's part in the case was brief. She identified two cards found near the body.

"I called but you were out," the cards said.

They were addressed to Horan and were dated in January. The stenographer said they referred to some work she planned to do for Horan's firm.

Dr. Rugh described in detail the course of two bullet wounds. He told the state the force of the shots were sufficient to "knock a man out."

Later the physician, upon cross-examination by the defense, said he believed it possible for a man to have muscular control of his body briefly after a shot passed through his heart.

One Bullet Hit Heart

One bullet, he said, had coursed through Horan's heart.

Rugh told Deputy District Attorney Van Vector that no liquor was found in Horan's stomach. On cross-examination he related to the defense that it might be impossible to trace liquor more than fifteen minutes or a half hour after it was consumed.

The notepads of court reporters were filled today with testimony and identification of exhibits. The story was being pulled up rapidly and the spectators awaited eagerly the first move to link the evidence.

Yesterday afternoon Bert Finch, a county engineer, identified a chart he had made of the Manning office.

Rex McMillan, deputy sheriff, described his visit to the office after Manning called the jail and informed him of a scuffle for gups and the death of Horan in a duel.

Walter Walker, a state policeman, was the third witness yesterday. He related his part in the investigation last February.

This statement of Walker's was taken with considerable interest by the courtroom.

"I have befriended many young lawyers in this county. Ralph Horan is the only inmate among them."

The officer attributed it to Manning as the attorney left the death office for the county jail.

MAKE IMPROVEMENTS IN FLOOR AT ARMORY

Many establishments in Medford are not waiting for the first of May to inaugurate their cleaning-up program for the Oregon Diamond Jubilee, but have already started beautification and improvement work.

The local Armory board has voted the expenditure of $150 for the improvement of the main floor in the Armory, which is in addition to the $1,000 expended in Armory repairs by the CWA.

MEDFORD MAN KNOWS PRACTICAL VALUE OF SALES TAX MEASURE

Another prominent Medford citizen has come out for a state sales tax, because he knows by practical experience that such a tax reduces the property tax and benefits the farmer and small home owner.

H. T. Diney of 318 Mary street, Medford, former chief of police of Imperial, Cal., and still owning city property there as well as farm property in Orange county, came to the Mail Tribune today to commend this paper's support of the measure in Oregon.

"My taxes in California have been cut almost exactly in half by the sales tax," he said, "and I see no reason why it wouldn't do the same for the people of this state. You can talk all you want against the tax on theory, but what does that amount to when the tax really works. I know many other people in California who feel the same as I do. They are for the sales tax, because it reduces taxes on property and more fairly distributes the tax burden."
