HELP SOUGHT FOR TRAGEDY VISITED EVERHARD FAMILY

Lillian, and two older children, June, nine, and Bruce, seven, who were in school Friday, when the tragedy occurred, were outfitted with necessary clothes by the Red Cross Friday night. Their other needs are many, Miss Lillian Roberts, Red Cross executive, stated yesterday.

The basement at the Elks club will be used for storing and assembling all household goods available until the same can be delivered to the family, club members stated.

A Mother Anguished

County Coroner Frank Perl and state police officers, called to the West Phoenix district to investigate the fire, were of the opinion late Friday that the flames had been started by the older children, playing with matches during their mother's absence.

Before leaving for the mail, Mrs. Everhard stated, she had instructed the children to stay outside the house. She was returning from the mail box when she discovered the flames. She hurried to the scene, but was too late to gain entrance to the house. The two little girls outside had no explanation to give, other than that they were playing, when they heard the rear of flames and ran from the building. They did not know what had become of their baby sister.

The kitchen, in which the little body was found under the stove, which had melted to the ground, had no outside exit. The only door lead into another room. Officers believed that the baby, terrified by the heat of the flames, had crawled under the stove in an effort to escape.

The house was but 26 feet by 22 feet in size and was divided into three rooms.

Mrs. Everhard, before calling officers, summoned her husband from the 401 orchard, where he was employed several miles distant.

C. E. McGrath and Bernard McGrath, neighbors, rushed to the ranch, upon discovering the flames, but arrived too late to rescue child or household effects.

Fire Origin Unknown

Although no other origin of the fire could be determined by officers, the two little Everhard girls denied that they had been playing with matches, when questioned by officers. And the mother stated that the matches had always been kept where they were believed beyond their reach.

The grief stricken family came to Medford Friday night and received clothes and relief bedding from the Red Cross. They were housed for the night at the Rainbow auto camp ground, then continued back to the orchard one and one-half miles west of Phoenix yesterday to pitch their tent and begin again.

The Everhards are well known in the valley, where they have resided for many years, although they had made their home at Phoenix for but three months.

The sympathy of the entire community was extended to them yesterday and it is believed the public will be generous in a response to aid them in acquiring the material things they need.

ROXY ANN ROUTE IN GOOD SHAPE

Roads are in excellent condition leading to Oregon's Switzerland east of Roxy Ann, according to Mr. and Mrs. Will Schmidt, owners of the resort site, who were visitors in Medford the latter part of the week.

A number of improvements have been made to the road, Mr. Schmidt stated, and it is expected that many visitors will be calling there soon. A number of changes have been brought about in the park site during the past several months, including an attractive eagle designed of rock, near the entrance way.

The eagle, in the likeness of the American emblem, has a wingspread of 32 feet.

Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt have erected their home near the large archway and are now residing there.
