ASHLAND'S SERA WORK TO START MAY 1 IS HOPE

ASHLAND, April 25.—(Sp.)—State emergency relief projects will probably be started in Ashland about May 1, according to indications at a conference here with SERA District Engineer Pinkley of Klamath Falls, who conferred with Councilman Guy Applewhite and A. J. McClellan of the local relief office.

He will return in about a week and discuss more definitely the projects which are being prepared for relief purposes in Ashland. Plans for those projects are being prepared and will be dispatched to the relief headquarters.

These projects include the completion of the high school, athletic field, tennis courts, extension of water and sewer pipes, and others.

The plan for SERA operation provides for a maximum of 48 hours of employment in any month at 50 cents an hour, or a total of $24. There will be two shifts of workers, each shift to work four six-hour days for two weeks and then to be relieved by an alternate crew. Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays will be the work days.

Indications are that from 80 to 100 men will be employed in the SERA plan here, according to local officials.

JUBILEE PARADE TWO MILES LONG IS PROMISE NOW

Oregon's Diamond Jubilee celebration preparations are rapidly progressing, last night's weekly general committee meeting at the Chamber of Commerce revealed.

Dr. Walter Redford, president of the Southern Oregon Normal school, reported plans have been completed for Education Day, June 5, in Ashland, where an interesting program is scheduled, including an address by Dr. C. A. Howard, state superintendent of public instruction, who will speak before the normal school graduating class in Lithia park. Numerous other events are planned for the day.

The line of march for the Pioneer Parade was outlined by J. Verne Shangle, parade chairman, who said cooperation has been received from all parts of the state, assuring one of the longest parades ever presented in the state. Present indications point to a procession nearly two miles in length.

The sale of street concessions is well underway, according to Concession Chairman W. W. Allen, who said the committee is now ready to interview any prospective purchasers of concession space. Rates are being held to a minimum.

Preparations for the historical pageant, "Over-Un-Gon," are showing encouraging progress. Prof. Angus Bowmer, author and director, reported. The production will be presented Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights at the fairgrounds, where special seating arrangements will be made. Work is commencing on the construction of the setting, 150 feet wide, 40 feet high and 100 feet high. Pioneer scenery will be faithfully reproduced, including Champees, where much of Oregon's history was made.

A careful check of the housing situation is being made by a committee headed by Henry Enders of Ashland. Efforts are being made to list every available room in Medford, Ashland and nearby towns to assure sufficient facilities for all visitors.

Wilson Wait, chairman of the band contest committee, reported progress in his division. It is probable quite a number of visiting bands will be in Medford during Jubilee week.

H. S. Cady, chairman of the mineral exhibit committee, told of growing interest in what is planned to be one of the most representative mineral displays shown in Oregon. Quite a number of exhibits are expected from eastern Oregon. Many entries have already been offered from all sections.

At least 2,000 essays on Oregon history are expected in the statewide historical essay contest, open to high school students in competition for cash prizes. Glenn Smith, essay committee chairman, said. The contest has received the official approval of the state educational department.

All divisions of the big celebration are forging ahead with every indication that preparations will be complete when the thousands of visitors start rolling in during Jubilee week.

Tickets for the concert are on sale at the chamber of commerce.

been taking the music lovers of the city by storm.

It will be remembered that Sander recently gave an entire recital at the Baldwin Piano Shoppe to an overflow audience which enthusiastically received his presentations.

A feature of the concert which will appeal to lovers of sacred music will be the singing of "The Awakening Chorus" by the massed choirs of the Baptist, Christian, and Presbyterian churches. These choirs number about seventy voices and their rendition of this splendid selection will be a real treat.

In addition to this massed number each choir will sing two individual numbers. A full program of the concert will appear in tomorrow's edition of the Mail Tribune.

Tickets for the concert are on sale at the chamber of commerce.

The way tobacco is cut has a lot to do with the way Chesterfield burns and tastes

There are many different ways of cutting tobacco.

A long time ago, it used to be cut on what was known as a Pease Cutter, but this darkened the tobacco, and it was not uniform.

The cutters today are the most improved, modern, up-to-the-minute type. They cut uniformly, and cut in long shreds.

The tobacco in Chesterfield is cut right—you can judge for yourself how Chesterfields burn and how they taste.

Everything that science knows is used to make Chesterfield the cigarette that's milder . . . the cigarette that tastes better.
