Thrilling Drama at Craterian

Robert Montgomery, in the role of Revel, gentleman crook, is starred in "The Mystery of Mr. X" at the Craterian theater today and Saturday. Featured in the cast are Lewis Stone, Elizabeth Allan, Ralph Forbes and Henry Stephenson.

The story evolves around the activities of the mysterious "X," who has a mania for killing policemen.

One of the most fascinatingly varied functions among the elements is the action of ocean water—and it is this which contributed the title of "Riptide" to Norma Shearer's latest starring vehicle which comes to the Craterian theater on Sunday.

The dictionary tells that a riptide is the condition when water becomes roughened by conflicting tides or currents. What is remarkable about this condition is that there is no resolution of the conflict until one weakens and is diverted to another direction.

And this, by strict parallel, is the story which Edmund Goulding has both written and directed in "Riptide." Norma Shearer, as an adventurous American woman who has married into London society, finds that the dullness and sobriety of English life is not enough for her, even though she relaxes it to a certain degree and loves her husband moderately well. When a wild young American play-boy comes into her life, he does not displace her husband by any means; her love somehow encompasses both of them.

And then, by natural selection, one of these joint and conflicting currents of love weakens of its own accord and the woman is free to continue in a single direction with her true companion.

Herbert Marshall plays the role of the husband in the new Shearer drama, and the part of the American play-boy is filled by Robert Montgomery.

On Business Here—Attorney Chester C. McCarty of Portland arrived in Medford last evening with two passengers, flying his Byrd airplane.
