Dinner and Tea Add Interest To Social Calendar

While local society has been rather quiet during the past week, a few large parties add interest to the social calendar and anticipation of May Day is expected to inspire many more hostesses to take advantage of the offering of spring blossoms by entertaining.

Mrs. and Mrs. W. W. Aldrich and Mr. and Mrs. Martin Luther were hosts at the Luther home at Talent last evening at dinner, inviting 40 guests. Following dinner, bridge was played.

Mrs. H. D. McCaskey was hostess at another large affair of the week. She had at her beautiful home on the Old Stage road, at which Mrs. Ernest Rankin of Marquette, Mich., was honored. Forty guests, including members of the Colony club and a few friends, called between the hours of four and six.

Friday, members of the Colony club met for regular luncheon at the club house.

Among travelers of the week were Mr. and Mrs. Alfred S. V. Carpenter, who motored to Pasadena to be guests there for a fortnight of Mrs. Carpenter's parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Blue.

Mrs. Geo. M. Roberts returned the last of the week from San Francisco and Palo Alto, where she visited her daughter, Mrs. Robert Maentz. She continued to Klamath Falls to join Mr. Roberts, who completed the design in the Manning case there.

Mrs. Leonard Carpenter left Wednesday for a several days' stay in San Francisco.

Student Pianist Pleases Large Medford Audience

An enthusiastic audience gave support to the splendid program played by Harold Ayres, University of Oregon student pianist, Wednesday night at the Baldwin Recital hall.

One went there expecting to encourage a conscientious student, and remained to applaud a pianist well on his way to be a master of the keyboard in every sense of the word. The performance was an interpretation of music, representing the main periods in music history, and not a mere recitation of what had been put on paper.

It is a far cry from the sustained simplicity of the Air Tendre by Lully (1600) to the fiendish chords of Prokofiev (ultra modern). Mr. Ayres did them equally well.

If he raced somewhat out of bounds with the romanticists, it was due, no doubt, to the exuberance of youth. Maturity eventually will give that perfect balance attained by the favored few.

In admiration for the pupil's work, it is not to be forgotten that Louis Artau, his instructor, is a tireless worker, and an educator of the first rank.

Mr. Ayres' program played here included:

- I
John Bull...The King's Hunting Jig
Lully...Alre Tendre
Paradisi...Toccata
Bach-Busoni...Chorale "Nun komm...der Heiden Heiland"
J. S. Bach...Chromatic Fantasy and Fugue
- II
Mozart...Sonata A Major
1. Tema and six variations
2. Menuetto and Trio
3. Rondo "Alla Turca"
- III
Schubert-Godowsky...Litanee
Schumann...Papillons Op. 2
Chopin...Scherzo b-flat minor Op. 31
- IV
Prokofiev...Suggestion Diabolique Op. 4-4
Ibert...Le petit and blanc
(The little white donkey)
Paganini...En Autobus
Paganini-Liszt...La Campanella
