MRS. NELLIE PERL DIES AFTER LONG FIGHT FOR HEALTH

Mrs. Nellie M. Perl, wife of John A. Perl, prominent resident of the valley, actively allied with church and civic affairs since coming to Medford in 1909, died Sunday morning, following a severe illness, dating back to December 1933.

Born in Decatur, Ill., December 12, 1876, as Nellie Bundy, the member of a well known pioneer family in Mason county, Mo., Perl made her home in that state for many years. She was married in Decatur to Mr. Perl in 1895 and came with him to the Rogue River valley to establish the business in this city, through which she became known throughout southern Oregon for kindness and consideration for all people.

Three children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Perl, two of whom Alleen Six of Los Angeles, and Frank Perl of this city, survive. Another son, Frederick, died in 1922.

Mrs. Perl also leaves three grandchildren, Jack Six of Los Angeles, and Marianne and Billy Perl of Medford; her mother, Mrs. Margaret Bundy of Los Angeles; one sister, Mrs. Jessie Keyes of Los Angeles, and two brothers, Guy Bundy of Los Angeles and Walter Bundy of Decatur, Ill.

Mrs. Six and Mrs. Frank Perl, who has been visiting in the south, will arrive in Medford Wednesday morning to be here for the funeral. A brother-in-law, Joseph P. Hurley of Chehalis, Wash., is expected to arrive tonight. Word had not been received from other relatives this morning.

Mrs. Perl was a fine Christian woman, beloved by a wide circle of friends in her own. The First Presbyterian, and other churches of the city. As a member of numerous clubs and women's organizations, she was an untiring worker until her last illness, continuing to play an active part in many events after her health began to fail. She was a member of Reames chapter, O. E. S., Daughters of the Nile, Olive Rebekah lodge, the American Legion Auxiliary and the Greater Medford club.

From the time she came to Medford to make her home, she loved the city and was constantly working for its advancement.

Funeral services will be held at the Perl funeral home Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, followed by entombment in the Memorial mausoleum.

ROTARY WILL HEAR TALK ON CHINESE

Lieutenant Robert H. Soule, adjutant at the Medford district headquarters, CCC, will tomorrow be guest speaker at the Rotary luncheon, to which the Women of Rotary are being invited.

"China and the Chinese People" will be the subject of Lieutenant Soule's address. He spent several years in that section as military attaché, and has a wealth of information on the country and people.

Vilas Deals Self Thirteen Spades

Ned Vilas was dealing the cards in a bridge game Sunday, and to himself he allotted the perfect bridge hand—thirteen spades. Vilas and Frank Farrell were partners, playing with Bob Hart and Frederick Heath. Bob Hart had cut the cards.

Rialto Star

Yesterday they were eleven. Today, they are but eight. What of tomorrow.

That is the question which ever looms before the soldiers of "The Lost Patrol," drama of the desert, restauring Victor McLaglen, Boris Karloff, Reginald Denny, Wallace Ford and others of a powerful cast coming to the Rialto theater.

Dramatic Picture At Craterian Now Pleases Film Fans

After an absence from the screen for a period of about 18 months, Norma Shearer is being welcomed back at the Craterian theater, where her recent release "Riptide" is now being shown.

Dramatic romance, intimate, real and understandably human; never overstepping the line of discerning propriety, "Riptide" is an ideal Shearer vehicle. Fine dialogue carrying the story trend precipitates a series of situations momentarily threatening to explode.

The picture always focuses sympathy equally on the three personalities split into the triangle—that of Miss Shearer, Robert Montgomery and Herbert Marshall. And as in previous Shearer productions, "Riptide" is presented in an atmosphere of glamorous locales, beautiful gowns and elaborate settings.

Starting as a lark, gay Mary, a Park Avenueite, and the staid English nobleman, Rexford, marry. For several years she is deliciously happy with her husband and child. Then, on the Riviera she meets Tommie, flame of the gay old days. Under the spell of the Mediterranean moon and breezes, Mary is the innocent victim of a romantic escapade that makes the headlines and scandal sheets. None of her explanations will soothe Rexford, nor can Tommie heal the breach. Cold indifference drives Mary, who fights against it, closer to Tommie.

That is the situation, bare of detail, that brings up the age-old triangle question and the resulting complications and climax are brought out in cleverly conceived dialogue and action.

"Riptide" is sophisticated drama and should not be mistaken for anything else.

Mr. and Mrs. Medford . . .

- About once in a blue moon a picture comes along that stands so far above the average as to be termed "Extraordinary"—endowed with that intangible something that speaks of greatness. Such a picture is "The Lost Patrol." Here is a picture that will be one of the most distinguished films of the year, and will unquestionably be ranked as one of the year's best . . . not only for the subject and treatment, but for the interest-creating and sustaining color . . . punch . . . and thrill! It is a courageous picture; one I know you will welcome. You will sense the spirit of its bigness and daring . . . the humanity of its drama . . . the thrill of its great adventure. It is a story of men who dare to laugh and joke . . . to talk about women, wives, girls they have loved . . . the life they knew and hoped for as death stood just ahead. I firmly believe that, after you see "The Lost Patrol," you will quite agree with me in calling it not only one of this year's best, but one of the greatest pictures ever produced.
