

EGAN CARDS A 74 IN PRACTICE PLAY OVER ST. ANDREWS

Medford Golfer Equals Moreland's Round On Difficult Scotch Course—Captain Quimet Takes 78 Strokes

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 1.—(AP)—The younger members of America's Walker cup golfing team have decided after two practice rounds that St. Andrews famous course is just a "pushover." The oldsters are busy warning them there is no more deceptive layout in the world.

Such youngsters as Johnny Fischer of Cincinnati and Gus Moreland of Texas, both newcomers to British play, were inclined to make light of the widely-known pitfalls of the course after their first encounter with it.

Fischer Shoots 72. Fischer, who drives the longest ball of the team of nine, blasted out a gaudy 7, one under par, on his second trip around the layout, while Moreland, despite four three-putt greens, returned a 74.

"What's tough about this course?" Moreland wanted to know after he had scored his second successive birdie at the famous "road hole" graveyard of many a golfer's championship hopes.

Somebody might have tipped off the Texan that it was on that particular hole that old Dave Aytton, apparently headed for an open championship, once took 11 strokes. Chick Evans, American star, was thrown there for a loss in the shape of an eight, and other first-rate golfers have taken as many as 13 strokes at it.

On the other hand, a Scotman, Peter Robertson, holed out there in two strokes, a drive and a brassy, in 1922, a feat never equalled, before or since. Equals Moreland.

Moreland's practice score of 74 was equalled by Chandler Egan, veteran from Medford, Ore., while Johnny Goodman, Lawson Little and Jack Westland had 75. Captain Francis Quimet carded a 78 and Max Marston a 79. George Dunlap, American amateur titleholder, took an 80 and probably was reminded of his last two tussles with the course.

The former Princeton star reeled off a 72 and 74 in the first two rounds of the British open here last year, and then wound up with a pair of 80s.

Britain's team of 10 for the international matches May 11 and 12, was completed with the appointment of Lionel Munn, 47-year-old player from Kent, and Eric McEvoy, a 34-year-old Scot. The other members of the squad include the Hon. Michael Scott, British amateur champion; Cyril Tolley, Roger Wethered, E. A. Torrance, Eric Piddian, Jack McLean, E. L. McKinlay and H. G. Bentley.

YOUNG CORBETT KAYOS TERRY IN THIRD FRAME FOR GREAT COMEBACK

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1.—(AP)—Stripped of his welterweight crown less than a year ago, a beset fighter though he be, Young Corbett of Fresno loomed today as a challenger for the middleweight title with a three-round knockout victory over Young Terry of Trenton, N. J., written into his comeback record.

The sturdy Italian left-hander, whose welterweight campaigning ended abruptly last spring after a one-round knockout by Jimmy McLarnin, made a convincing bid for recognition in the 160-pound division with his smashing win over an opponent who has met and defeated some of the best middleweights in the country.

A terrific left to the body sent Terry down for the full four after two minutes and 31 seconds of fighting in the third round of the scheduled 10-rounder.

The Fresnoan weighed 153 1/2 pounds with Terry coming in 156 pounds. Corbett was the pre-fight favorite but not to win by a knockout.

Egan Is Big "Pear and Par Man" Walker Cup Team

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following sketch of the career and personality of H. Chandler Egan, Medford resident, chosen as a member of America's 1934 Walker cup team which meets the British at St. Andrews May 11-12, appeared in the Associated Press feature service supplied to hundreds of newspapers throughout the United States.

By RUSSEL J. NEWLAND (Associated Press Sports Writer.) MEDFORD, Ore.—(AP)—At an age when most golfers are ready to look toward the easier side of competition, H. Chandler Egan is preparing for some of the most intensive play of his remarkable fairway-trouping career.

His 50 years make him the oldest member of the American Walker cup team, but he is looking forward to his brush with Britain's stars with the same keen enthusiasm that was his when as a Harvard collegian three decades ago he won the national amateur title.

Egan's 30-year career as a national figure in golf is dotted with outstanding performances and unusual comebacks. He is acknowledged as one of the foremost stylists.

A Medalist When Travis Won! Exactly 31 years ago the Chicago-born shotmaker first broke into the sports page headlines.

He was a slender youth when he claimed medal honors in the 1903 national amateur won by the immortal Walter J. Travis at the Nassau Country club, Glen Cove, Long Island.

The following year he won the title by defeating Fred Herreshoff, 8 and 8, at Baltusrol. He also was medalist of that tournament. He retained his crown in 1905 with a 6 to 5 win over D. E. Sawyer at Chicago. In 1909 he was runner-up to R. A. Gardner, losing 4 and 3.

Twenty years later he flashed back into prominence by reaching the semi-finals of the 1929 national. Now as a middle-aged man his faultless play has won him new honors as a participant in Walker cup competition.

Since he came out west in 1909, Egan has devoted his time to pear-growing and golf, occasionally lending his experience in the matter of laying out and developing several courses.

Four-Time Northwest Champion. Born in Chicago in 1884, Egan attended the Rogue River valley district here as a young man.

Attracted by the beauty of the country and believing in the future of the pear industry, he persuaded a group of wealthy Chicago friends to purchase orchard land, which he agreed to manage and develop.

He has resided on the 150-acre tract since, although he maintains a winter home on the Monterey peninsula, California. Several years ago he purchased the entire orchard property here from his early associates.

In Them All. In between pear-culture sessions Egan found time to enter practically every golf tournament of any consequence on the Pacific coast. He won the California state title, outstanding amateur event of the coast, in 1926, and is a four-time winner of the Pacific Northwest crown in 1916, 1920, 1923 and 1925.

His first major golf distinction was earned in 1902 when he led the field for the western amateur championship, a feat he repeated in 1904, 1908 and 1907.

At the Medford Gun club registered shoot Sunday, S. G. Mendenhall and Ray Coleman each broke 97 to tie for high position in the 100-target event. In the 50-target handicap Ray Coleman and E. Hardenbrook tied for first place with 47 breaks. Hardenbrook took the doubles race by breaking all of the 12 pair.

Top score trophy in the added bird handicap went to Chauncey M. Brewer, Jr., who is 16 years old and has only been shooting targets a few months. Young Brewer showed fine form in breaking his first 25 straight in the first event. He carried home a fine Pendleton robe for his good shooting. Other trophies, consisting of slabs of bacon, went to Ray Coleman, Clarence Eads, Chas. L. Woods and M. E. Corneil.

At the skeet traps George Jantzer made a new Medford club record when he broke 24 out of 25. There is considerable rivalry for the first 25 straight at skeet.

CLAIM OF ERROR OVER-ruled BY SUPREME COURT

first anniversary of the start of his trial at Eugene, a year ago today. There remains for Banks no legal respite from prison walls. Executive clemency, rarely extended for crimes of extreme violence, is now his only hope. Action of the supreme court closes the case as far as the courts are concerned.

Seven Errors Alleged. Banks, through his attorneys, listed seven assignments of alleged errors on the part of Circuit Judge George F. Skilworth.

The defense held the introduction of a .38 calibre pistol, found in the Banks home following the slaying was "prejudicial" to Banks. The state held the pistol supported their contention the Banks home was "an arsenal," and threats to kill "anybody who attempts to drag me across my own doorstep" were made.

Suits Were for Wages. The defense also contended that Banks was "abused and fairly buried with civil and criminal actions," and "a bitter political feud marked him and his newspaper for destruction and extermination." The state in its brief, showed that the suits were for wages and debts, for the most part by people who desired their just dues, and the newspaper controversy had nothing to do with the case.

It was also charged by Banks attorneys that Assistant Attorney General Moody, in his closing address, "inflamed the jury with the observation Banks is a supreme egotist and cowardly murderer, hiding behind the skirts of a woman." The state contended "a murderer is not the author of the characterization of himself."

The defense also held that a court ruling deprived the defendant of his full rights in questioning an alienist on the "right and wrong" rule of law. The alienist testified Banks was suffering from "transitory mania and was insane only at the time of pulling the trigger—not before or after."

Fatal Shot Admitted. The defense brief also stated: "There is no controversy with respect to the fact that Llewellyn A. Banks fired the shot that killed Prescott and the gun from which the shot was fired was admitted by him to be his gun and was offered and received in evidence."

WHITE SOX STAGE BATTING REVIVAL ON HOME GROUND

By Associated Press.

An overnight rise of 23 points in the Chicago White Sox batting average had induced their backers to shed their principal cause for alarm today.

The Pale Hose, woeful disappointments in the early stages of the American league race, broke no records as they blasted five Cleveland pitchers for 18 hits and a 20-10 victory yesterday, but the battle of baseballs at Comiskey park was the sweetest music White Sox fans have heard this spring.

Until they finally broke loose, the White Sox had batted only 242 in nine games, losing six of them. Meanwhile the New York Yankees regained first place by tripping Washington, 7-4, while the Detroit Tigers were taking a 7-2 beating from St. Louis Browns.

Fine relief pitching by Bob Kling and successive homers by Frank Higgins and Lou Finney in the eighth helped the Philadelphia Athletics win from Boston, 6-2, in the other American league tussle.

The Chicago Cubs and New York Giants held their places at the top of the National league heap. The Cubs had to travel 12 innings to earn an 8-6 decision over the Pittsburgh Pirates. The Giants rolled to a 5-0 triumph over the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Bartell's Double and Ruble's single enabled the Phillies to top the Boston Braves, 5-4, in a tight 10-inning struggle, while the St. Louis Cardinals rallied for four runs in the seventh to beat the Cincinnati Reds, 10-6.

TARIFF BILL HIT BY WOOL DEALERS

WASHINGTON, May 1.—(AP) Manufacturers joined wool growers and dealers today in an assault on the administration tariff-trading bill despite Democratic concessions promising an executive hearing to affected interests before a change in any import rates.

Manufacturers' association endorsed the argument of the wool interests that the bill might subject jobs and investments to uncertainties. He also opposed giving the president power to raise or lower tariffs by 50 per cent by international arrangements without referring the facts to congress.

STOP THE ANGELS IS BATTLE CRY OF COAST LEAGUERS

By the Associated Press.

Sergeant Gabby Street, who not so long ago led the St. Louis Cardinals to a world championship, brought his Mission Reds back to San Francisco today from a triumphant invasion of the northwest to inaugurate "stop the Angels week" at Seals' stadium.

The Sergeant's baseballers did very well at Seattle and Portland, taking 11 out of 14 games. Even so, they dropped a game behind the pennant-hungry Angels, now four games in front of the Reds.

Hope of halting the wild Los Angeles drive towards a second straight championship rests largely in the slugging prowess of the Reds, headed by Louis Almad, Jim Stroner, Oscar Eckhardt, Al Wright and Babe Dahlgren. The Missions boast the heaviest hitting aggregation in the circuit.

Safely entrenched in third place, the San Francisco Seals move to Los Angeles for a series with the Hollywood Stars. Oakland takes on Sacramento at the California capital, while Portland and Seattle cross bats at Portland.

Murder at MOCKING HOUSE

BY WALTER C. BROWN

"Take nothing for granted—remove no one from your list of suspects! NO ONE!" Pierre Dufresne's terrified warning sounded in Sergeant Harper's ears as he plunged from one mystery into another—deeper, more deadly.

For from then on, tragic intrigue marked a trail through the snow and into the ancient Dufresne mansion where ghostly candle light flickered on a deathly scene...

How could anyone doubt that the two men there had killed each other and that one of them—disguised as Dufresne—was the crank who had been writing threatening letters to him?

But Harper's hunch is different. . . . He tugs at the threads of mystery and weaves them into a net to trap the killer. His spotlight of suspicion falls in turn on lovely Sylvia Dufresne—"a very clever and beautiful woman," her husband had said—high-strung Aline Croyned, her sister; Andrews, the old butler, the chauffeur and the other servants. Bit by bit, out of the lurking shadows of the old house, emerge the motives in the drama. And finally, the solution.
