

Four Day Roundup Planned as Oregon Diamond Jubilee Attraction

GALAXY OF NOTED BRONCHO BUSTERS WILL ENTERTAIN

Rodeo Feats, Contests Second Only to Pendleton Show Promised — Industrial Parade Gains Interest

Adding another great attraction to Oregon's Diamond Jubilee celebration next June 3 to 9 in Medford and Jacksonville, arrangements have been completed for the presentation of Earl Cowan's famous roundup Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday afternoons at the county fairgrounds. The important announcement was made at last night's general committee meeting of the celebration.

The roundup is composed of over 150 bucking horses, steers, bulls, calves, cows, broncho busters, riders and other performers. It is declared to be one of the most outstanding organizations of its kind and ranks second to the famous Pendleton roundup, which is celebrating its silver jubilee this year. The Cowan program includes innumerable feats of horsemanship, steer roping, bulldogging, roping demonstrations and other features never before presented in southern Oregon.

Rounds Out Program. Good fortune is felt in the availability of the roundup for the celebration and will round out a well balanced program which lends every assurance Jubilee week will be without lagging moments at any time. Reports of different committee heads at last night's meeting indicated commendable progress in every division.

Industrial Parade feature. While the pioneer parade is recognized as one of the outstanding features of Jubilee week, it will be closely rivaled in interest by the agricultural and industrial parade of Friday, under the committee chairmanship direction of R. G. Fowler. Southern Oregon granges are taking part 100 per cent and numerous exceptionally attractive floats are expected. Merchants, industrial organizations, lodges and civic organizations are urged to participate in this celebration feature, as well as all communities of the valley and southern Oregon.

Preparations for the Jubilee souvenir program have been completed. A. H. Miller, program chairman, reported last night. The booklet, printed locally, promises to be an exceptionally attractive piece of work. Its cover design is a work of art and is printed in several colors. It contains a complete program of the week's activities, a history of Oregon, and numerous other bits of interest. It will be available within two weeks for local residents to mail out to friends and relatives in other sections of the country.

Plan Four Dances. Further plans for the four official Jubilee dances were discussed. They will be held in the armory, especially decorated for the occasion, and will have music furnished by exceptionally good orchestras. The Active club has agreed to co-operate with the general committee in handling the arrangements for these occasions, with the entire revenue going into the Jubilee general fund.

From present indications, one of the best exhibits of Oregon products ever exhibited in the state will be presented in the Oregon Manufacturers' exhibit in the Natatorium. Exhibit Chairman W. A. Gates reported the response from manufacturers has exceeded expectations, and it is likely the available space will be gone in a short time. Local firms desiring space in this division are urged to make reservations early.

Concessions Sought. Likewise the demands for concession space are rapidly increasing with the possibility all available space will be gone in a short time. W. W. Allen, concession chairman, reported. Requests for concessions have been received from a widely scattered area.

Harry Parkinson, representing the Flag and Decorating company of Portland, holders of the Jubilee street decoration contract, has been contacting local merchants the past week in connection with the decoration of store fronts. He told committee members last evening merchants on the whole are anxious to decorate their places of business to lend to the jubilee spirit, presenting a completely decorated city for the big week.

Mr. Parkinson will visit merchants in Gold Hill, Central Point, Jacksonville, Ashland, Talent, Phoenix and business establishments along the way, extending a genuine jubilee welcome to visitors throughout the length of the valley.

Caravans coming. Little doubt surrounds the success of Trail Day, scheduled for Wednesday, June 6, according to information reported by E. C. (Jerry) Jerome, general chairman of the celebration. He has been assured of the arrival of caravans from the Redwood Empire, extending as far south as San Francisco, from Victoria, B. C., from central California, from Portland, from central and eastern Oregon. Interest in all these sections has reached a high point—people are all anxious to come to Medford and Jacksonville to observe Oregon's 75th anniversary of statehood, paying simple tribute to the pioneer spirit of long ago which made this statehood possible. With rehearsals steadily progressing the "Oyer-Un-Gon," (Land of Plenty) Jubilee week visitors are assured of one of the greatest historical pageants ever presented in the west. Over 500 people, including the well known Medford Gleemen and scores of Medford and southern Oregon people, will take part in this long to be remembered production, written and directed by Prof. Angus Bowmer, of the Southern Oregon Normal school. Historical incidents leading up to and including the establishment of Oregon statehood will be faithfully reviewed by this carefully prepared presentation.

Five Bands to Play. Band music will be popular throughout the week, Wilson Wait, chairman of the band contest committee, reported last evening, but on Friday of Jubilee week, at least five bands will be present in Medford, including representations from Wood, Calif., Roseburg, Klamath Falls, Ashland and Medford. It is probable bands from other sections will also be available.

While much of the Jubilee week activities will be in Medford, with Tuesday devoted to program activities in Ashland, Jacksonville, one of Oregon's oldest and most historic towns, will be featured throughout the week, attracting thousands of visitors to this choice corner of the Rogue River valley.

An interesting program is being prepared by the citizens of this progressive city, established seven years before Oregon realized the joys of statehood. Shades of 25,000 departed yesterday will be drawn aside, once more reviving the days when gold gleamed on nearby hillsides, and stagecoaches rumbled from the south to the north and from the north to the south. Again will return the echoes of adventurous days when the cracks of Siwah rifles pierced the air, when hostile Indians were off on the paths of war.

Direct links with the past will be the pioneer displays maintained throughout the week and the buildings which were old when Medford was new will be thrown open to the public. Further details of pioneer days in Jacksonville will be announced from time to time.

SAWMILL OPERATION REMAINDER OF YEAR IS MANAGER'S HOPE

James H. Owen, general manager of the Owen-Oregon Lumber company, is hopeful that the plant with its payroll of 300 men, will be able to operate all the balance of this year. Plans toward this end are now being worked out by Manager Owen. The mill operates under the NRA lumber code. The sawmill department is on a six day week, eight hour basis. Other departments have a 40 hour week. The logging camps in the Butte Falls district generally keep open until snow flies, and come under the head of a seasonal occupation. They are now in full operation, employing approximately 75 men, mostly residents of the Butte Falls district.

Like all industry, the future of lumbering is rather indefinite, but with brightening market prospects. Daily trips are now being made by the Medford logging railroad, hauling logs from Butte Falls.

Operation of the mill until Christmas would provide employment and lessen the labor strain next winter, besides providing a steady payroll. Besides the Owen-Oregon plant, three small sawmills are operating in the Prospect district, and three or four in the Siskiyou and Dead Indian districts. They also operate under the lumber code, and provide work for between 125 and 150 men.

GRIFFIN'S BEAR DOG SHOWN IN PAINTING

The picture of John B. Griffin's old bear dog, Traller, will be on display at the Diamond Jubilee headquarters, Mr. Griffin said today, and it is expected many persons will be interested in the photo, taken in 1911.

This dog, Mr. Griffin said, holds the record as the most famous bear dog on the Pacific coast—having killed 138 bears on the coast and in the Cascade range.

Traller was taken to Alaska by Crit Tolman, who paid the dog's owner $200 for the privilege. Tolman reported on his return that the dog had killed 30 bears.

HOG POPULATION IN COUNTY SHOWN BY CONTROL DATA

The federal corn-hog production control program shows there are 102 applicants in Jackson county, and 52 in Josephine county, according to figures compiled by the office of County Agent Robert G. Fowler. Number of hogs listed in the applications shows 5025 hogs in Jackson county, and 1791 in Josephine county.

According to County Agent Fowler the hog population follows the federal count, which in 1930 listed approximately 5000 hogs in this county. The assessor's office figures for last year, show there were 2630 hogs in Jackson county.

The corn acreage in this county is listed at 580 acres on a two years average. It has increased under the federal activity impetus.

The wheat production program for this county is also reaching important stages, according to County Agent Fowler. Federal inspection of the wheat acreage will start within the next two weeks, and another payment of money will be made July 1. Under the wheat production regulations, the amount of wheat sown, and the estimated crop, will be published. This enables the government to have a close check on wheat production, and farmers to see what each other is doing.

County Agent Fowler says the wheat and other grains are well along and looking fine. The late spring wheat is backward, he states.

DOCTORS TO MEET IN ASHLAND NEXT

The city of Ashland will be the meeting place of the next session of the Southern Oregon Medical society, it was decided here yesterday at the close of the 43rd annual meeting, conceded to be one of the most successful in the history of the organization.

A highlight of the day was the luncheon served at the Chas. T. Sweeney country home to 120 doctors and their families. Fried chicken from the Sweeney poultry yards was featured on the menu.

Twenty wives of local doctors assisted Mrs. Sweeney as hostess for the occasion.

Dr. Sweeney will be leaving this evening for Roseburg, where he will address the Douglas County Medical association this evening and the Federated Women's Clubs in convention tomorrow morning. His subject will be "Nature of Cancer and Its Control." He will return to Medford Thursday afternoon.

Doctors Leave—Having attended the 43rd annual meeting of the Southern Oregon Medical society here yesterday, several of the delegates left by train last night for their homes throughout the state.

Leaves for Roseburg—Bishop Sumner, who spent several days here as a guest of John C. Mann, left on the Shasta this morning for Roseburg, and plans to travel from there to Marshfield.
